Red China Uses Army On Youths

HONG KONG (AP) — Red Chinese army troops have moved into Canton to curb a violent group of youthful Red Guards reported to have mistreated the aged and infirm in the drive to forge a new China, travelers from Communist China reported Saturday.

Signs from Peking, however, were that the purge of so-called rightists from the Chinese Communist party continued, with indications that new heads might roll from the top echelons.

Travelers from Canton reported that regular army troops had begun patroling Canton's streets Wednesday night and early Thursday. Cantonese Red Guards had resisted efforts from Red Guards sent from Peking to hold down violence against persons accused of bourgeois habits and customs, the travelers said.

They added there had been clashes between the Canton Red Guards and those sent from Peking.

PHYSICAL FORCE

"The Peking Guards were much better disciplined and reasonable," one traveler said. "They tried to talk the Canton Guards out of using so much physical force and violence. But they failed. There was a lot of shoving around and quite a few fist fights between the opposing groups.

"Then the Peking group moved out, and the regular army soldiers began patrolling the streets."

The traveler and others said the army patrols apparently had come from Peking because Canton military leaders had kept hands off the Red Guards.

The Red Guards, compared by some to the Hitler youth in Germany before World War II, were formed to protect Chairman Mao Tze- tung and his leadership and to help carry out the great proletariat cultural revolution—a purge decreed by the Communist party Central Committee in Peking last month.

Leaders of that revolution ordered Saturday that the full force of the purge be brought to bear on "the handful of bourgeois rightists who have sneaked into the Communist party and are still clinging to power."

The order, which presages the removal and disgrace of more party leaders, appeared as an editorial in the theoretical organ Red Flag edited by Chen Po-ta, chief of the cultural revolution.

Forces Align Against Solon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hostile forces openly claimed Saturday they have the votes to knock Negro Rep. Adam Clayton Powell off his pedestal as chairman of the House Labor & Education Committee.

Powell himself conceded the move to curb his power to mere gavel-holding is the most serious he has faced in his 22 stormy years in Congress.

But observers in the nation's capital were not giving odds that a threatened overthrown of the Harlem Democratic leader would succeed. In fact, insiders were quick to point out that somehow Powell, who thrives on controversy, bounds back stronger than ever after each attack.

Geminis Continue Debriefing As Titan 2 Readies For Shot

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— Astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon, buoyed by the quality of photographs they took in their "utterly fantastic" Gemini 11 flight to a record 850 miles high, continued debriefing sessions Saturday.

Conrad and Gordon were reporting to space scientists here on the data they brought back Thursday from their three-day mission that puts the United States a big step closer to landing a man on the moon. The defriefing here and later at the Houston Space Center is expected to last a week.

At Houston Saturday officials said that some of the pictures they would release during the weekend included some of the "utterly fantastic" views described by Conrad.

OFFICIALS JUBILANT

NASA officials were jubilant over a 40-foot roll of movie film showing Gordon's space walk that included his straddling of an Agena target vehicle like a bronco buster.

Conrad had described one view of the earth as the Gemini 11 reached the highest in space ever achieved by man thusly:

"We're looking straight down over Australia now, we have the whole southern part of the world at one window. Utterly fantastic. I have India out of the left window and Borneo under our nose."

Eleven rolls of color and two of black and white movies were taken on the mission, all in 16mm. Six rolls of 70mm were also shot, four in color and two in ultraviolet of the stars. They were flown to Houston from the recovery ship, the USS Guam, after a stop here.

There were indications at the Cape Saturday that there would be little delay in wrapping up the Gemini program which is to be followed by the three-man Apollo series.

A Titan 2 booster rocket already sat on a launching pad waiting for the Gemini 12 space vehicle, the last of the scheduled Gemini flights set for the week of Oct. 31 on a four-day mission.

James Lovell and Edwin Aldrin are the announced occupants of Gemini 12. The initial Apollo mission, scheduled for December, will have Astronauts Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee in the capsule.

Twice Excited

"Twice as excited, twice as delighted," is the word from Mrs. Don deVille, 1207 Waldon Lane, Monroe. Mrs. deVille brought home twins this weekend. They are Mikel, six pounds, two ounces, and Michele, five pounds, seven ounces. Born Monday, the twins join Todd, 18 months, to make it a family of five.

Four Reds Mutiny, Kill Boat Crew

TOKYO (AP) — Four North Korean fishermen reported Saturday they mutinied aboard their Communist fishing boat in the Yellow Sea, killed seven crew members, locking nine others in a cabin and sailed to southern Japan to seek political asylum.

They said the crew members killed actually were assigned to the 146-ton Pyong Sin Jong by North Korea's Communist party to keep an eye out for possible defections. Japanese authorities at one point identified the victims as military guards but later said the defectors listed them as the skipper, radio operator, operations chief, the deputy chairman of a cell of the Communist party, the deck chief, engineer and assistant military aide.

BODIES INTO SEA

The defectors said they dumped their bodies into the sea.

The four turned themselves in to the Japanese Maritime Safety Agency in Shimonoseki. The agency detained all 13 but kept the four defectors separated from the nine who expressed a desire to return to North Korea.

The case puzzled Japanese authorities. Informants said it was the first such case in which so many North Koreans were involved. The sources noted Japan has no diplomatic relations with North Korea. They added that it had to be determined, too, whether the case involved homicide on the high seas or in Japanese waters. For the time being, all 13 were detained on charges of illegal entry into Japan.

One of the defectors is Mun Kein Tai, 31, an assistant engine chief. He told maritime agency investigators: "Twenty years ago, the North Korean Communists killed my parents for being pro-Japanese. Ever since I boarded the Pyong Sin Jong I made plans to seek political refuge."

Another of the defectors was identified by the agency as the deputy skipper, Chang Te Heng, 26.

Falling Meteor Triggers Alarm Across 9 States

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)— Residents of at least nine states Saturday reported sighting a meteorite blazing across the northeastern United States, turning the night to garnish day, and then exploding, raining fiery fragments on two states and southern Ontario, Canada.

The meteor's flaming path was traced from as far east as Albany, N.Y. and as far west as St. Louis, Mo., more than 1,000 miles apart.

It burst apart like a giant Roman candle somewhere over northeastern Indiana, scattering flaming chunks of debris over Indiana farmlands and lighting many small fires in Michigan woods.

The meteor was first reported shortly after 6 p.m. CST. As it flashed through the night sky, residents in its wake reported that it turned the sky bright as day.

Police stations and newspaper offices along its trail reported switchboards jammed by calls from hundreds of mystified or terrified citizens.

'WHITE BALL'

Jerry Boyd, a schoolteacher in Essexville, Mich., said, "It seemed to come out of the northeast like a huge white ball."

It exploded with a flash so intense that residents of Sanilac County in Michigan described it as "so bright you could read by it."

In Detroit, it cast shadows like those under a noon sun.

Several pieces of the meteorite fell on the farm of Wayne Glassburn near Sweetsers, Ind., many of them about 1½ feet in circumference and lying about 20 feet from each other, eyewitnesses said.

Glassburn, 40, said one smoldering chunk landed 100 feet from him, looking like "a dragon spitting fire—only larger."

"I've seen plenty of flares used to light up troop movements during World War II, but the giant fireball was nothing like that," Glassburn said.

Man, 43, Dies After 'Fracas' At Area Home

WINNSBORO (Special) — A Mississippi man died in Baskin after a blow to the chest Saturday in what Franklin Parish Sheriff A. J. Stephens termed a "fracas."

James C. Lee, 43, Laurel, Miss., was pronounced dead by acting Coroner Hollis T. Rogers. Lee and his wife were visiting at the home of J. T. Lott where the incident occurred, Stephens said.

Witnesses said Leon Taylor of Ruston, another visitor to the Lott residence, struck Lee in the chest with his fist, according to Stephens.

Taylor was being held in the Franklin Parish Jail, pending a report on an autopsy on the man. A coroner's jury empaneled by Dr. Rogers ruled Lee's death was by a blow to the chest, pending the autopsy.

Stephens said witnesses gave the following account:

Lee and Taylor, who was painting the porch, began arguing. Lee picked up a hammer, put it down then picked up a pipe, at which time Taylor hit him twice, knocking him down.

Their wives came out of the house to break up the fight, and Taylor got in his auto and went to the nearby home of his brother, Charles Taylor.

Lee was unconscious, and the sheriff was called.

Taylor was picked up at his brother's, residence, Stephens said.

Isolated Marines Battle To Safety As Fight Slackens

Another Leatherneck Unit Unheard From Along DMZ

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A company of U.S. Marines reported cut off and fighting hard against North Vietnamese regulars near the demilitarized zone made its way to safety as fighting slackened late Saturday, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The unit, which was not identified, suffered only light casualties, he said, and killed six enemy troops.

There was no word on the fate of another company of Marines also engaged in the fighting.

AIR WAR

In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets met Communist MIG's Saturday in the skies over North Viet Nam for the second straight day.

The spokesman said one MIG fired at an F105 Thunderchief but failed to score any hits in an engagement northeast of Hanoi. American pilots sighted three more MIGs, but neither side fired, the spokesman said.

He said he had no reports of any U.S. planes being shot down Saturday. Hanoi's Viet Nam News Agency claimed four American planes were knocked down.

In other air action over North Viet Nam, carrier - based Navy bombers attacked a 58-car train and a railroad bridge at Ninh Binh. Incomplete pilot reports claimed damage to the bridge and its bypass and destruction of at least three boxcars.

The Marine units fighting just south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam earlier had been identified as Bravo and Delta companies of the 4th Marine Regiment. They were said to be outnumbered by about three to one by a battalion or more of North Vietnamese troops.

But the Marines had air and artillery support and a spokesman said, "They don't seem to be in any particular danger."

A command post of a unit of the 4th Marine Regiment came under mortar fire Saturday. The spokesman said the North Vietnamese lobbed six rounds into the command post. Marine casualties were light, he said.

Over-all in the fighting in Operation Prairie, 23 miles northwest of Quang Tri City, the Marines have reported killing 80 North Vietnamese while taking light casualties themselves.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported two companies of Vietnamese militiamen raided a Viet Cong base camp Saturday in southernmost An Xuyen Province and killed 18 Viet Cong. The militiamen took "very light" casualties, a spokesman said.

In air and ground war operations elsewhere:

Officers disclosed that more than a million men were under arms on the allied side. They listed 1,051,000 — 705,000 in South Viet Nam's armed forces and 346,000 foreign servicemen. The U.S. roll totals 308,000.

Monster Wave Slaps 'Copter

HONG KONG (AP) — As Cmdr. Dale Barck, a rescue helicopter pilot, told it Saturday: "We are hovering there, at least 65 feet high, waiting to move into position to winch the men up, when all of a sudden we get this wall of water thrown smack in our faces."

What hit the U.S. Navy chopper on a mission to rescue 44 men aboard a foundering freighter was a wave, churned up to a freakish height by a typhoon.

It was the same typhoon that sent the 10,000 - ton ore carrier August Moon crashing into Pratas Reef in the South China Sea Thursday. With four British officers and 40 Chinese from Hong Kong on board, she began breaking up, and the U.S. 7th Fleet aircraft carrier Oriskany picked up her distress signals. The carrier is on patrol duty off Viet Nam.

Helicopters from the carrier 90 miles away reached the August Moon Friday morning. Rescue operations were running smoothly until Barck's chopper got knocked down by the wave.

Other helicopters rescued the 44 crewmen in relays to and from the Oriskany.

Complete Financial Service To Be Added

In a continuing effort to give our readers the best newspaper possible, The Monroe Morning World on Tuesday, Sept. 27 will add the complete financial service of the Associated Press.

This will include the complete New York Stock Exchange list — a total 1,654 issues — a table of major stocks from the American Stock Exchange and other important financial items, such as Stocks in the Spotlight, Mutual Funds, dividends declared, the selected New York bond table, U.S. Government bonds, U.S. Treasury notes and many others.

In addition, there will be stories, written by experts, from the financial centers throughout the world which will give you the necessary information to keep you well informed about what is going on in the world of finance.

The full report is compiled from the daily statistics gathered by The Associated Press, which has the world's largest financial reporting service. Stock tables will be tabulated at microsecond speed by an IBM computer and sent by the most modern method of transmitting news — teletypesetter. The columns of figures will arrive by wire on a tape that will feed directly into typesetting machines, automatically setting the columns of figures and stories into type.

We believe you will like and appreciate the additional service and is just another step in our effort to keep our subscribers fully informed — in depth.

Rain Chances Dwindle Today

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies with a 10 to 20 per cent chance of rain is the forecast for the Twin Cities through Monday. Temperatures will range from a high of 76 to 82 degrees to a low of 62 to 68.

Saturday's high was a cool 78 degrees registered at 1 p.m. The high was an early morning 63. Contrasted with the same day last year, Saturday was chilly. The high 365 days ago was 90, the low 71.

Winds will be from the east five to 15 miles per hour. No rain was recorded by the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field Saturday.

Wilson Wants Two Top Men In Rhodesia For Way Of Finding Rebel Conciliation

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced Saturday night he was sending two top men to Rhodesia. They are expected to seek some way of bringing that rebellious white-ruled colony to acceptance of eventual African majority rule.

An announcement from Wilson's 10 Downing Street office said Herbert Bowden, new secretary for commonwealth affairs, and Sir Elwyn Jones, attorney general, would fly to Salisbury tonight.

The announcement added they would "visit Rhodesia for purposes indicated in the communique on Rhodesia issued by the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting."

That communique stipulated that "all sections" of Rhodesian opinion—four million Africans against 200,000 whites—should be consulted on a majority rule agreement.

Prime Minister Ian Smith seized independence for Rhodesia last Nov. 11 and ever since has scorned pressure, diplomatic and economic, to bring the African colony back into the fold. The problem is that Britain and African members of the Commonwealth want Rhodesia's black Africans to have a say in the colony according to their numbers, in other words, power; and the white minority says the majority is not ready to rule.

After this week's Commonwealth session here ended, Wilson called on Smith to mend his ways and return to British control before the end of 1966 or face the wrath and compulsory sanctions of the United Nations, Many black African nations want Britain to use the force of arms to bring Smith to heel. This Wilson has refused to do.

He announced the Bowden-Jones mission to Salisbury after having rejected a demand by Conservative Opposition Leader Edward Heath to recall parliament from its summer recess for an emergency debate on the explosive Rhodesian issue. Wilson claimed this wasn't necessary.

He congratulated himself and the country, in a television broadcast, on saving the Commonwealth from blowing up over African-Asian demands that Smith's regime be toppled by tighter economic sanctions or military force.

Wilson apparently still thinks he can work out a peaceful formula. Additionally, he has to feel his way with the new South African government headed by Balthazar Vorster, who has an even tougher white supremacist reputation than his predecessor, assassinated Drm. Hendrik F. Verwoerd. South Africa has been keeping neighboring Rhodesia alive with fuel and other vital supplies.

Bowden, 61, will be the first British Cabinet minister to visit Rhodesia since Smith's regime declared independence.

"The fact that the announcement of the Bowden-Jones visit was made indicates that the Smith regime has given assurances that they will be properly received as ministers and that their security will be guaranteed," a British diplomat said.

Lack of such assurance had caused cancellation of a proposed visit to Salisbury last January by Bowden's predecessor, Arthur Bottomley.

Wilson instructed Bowden and Jones for an hour Saturday afternoon on their difficult mission. No one expects Smith to be easy since he and his country have survived much better than their African opponents expected.

LBJ Invites Humphrey For 2nd Go

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in a taped interview that was telecast Saturday that President Johnson had invited him to be his running mate in 1968, but added that Johnson "is still at liberty to change his mind."

Humphrey made the comment in answer to a question Friday night for a program aired over KMOX-TV in St. Louis.

Humphrey said he would like to be vice president again, but that whether he would be the 1968 candidate was up to the President.

Earlier Saturday, Humphrey told newsmen that he was certain the President wanted him as a second-term running mate.

He referred to a statement made by Johnson several weeks ago that "as long as I am President, I want Vice President Humphrey by my side."

Humphrey, asked whether Johnson might have been leaving the door open to move him to the Cabinet, replied: "That's not the way I understood it."

U.N. Opens 21st Meet On Tuesday

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The General Assembly opens its 21st annual session Tuesday with an agenda dominated by Secretary General Thant's announced intention to quit and its debates overshadowed by the Viet Nam war. A seat for Communist China also was a issue again.

Despite Thant's desire to leave when his current term expires Nov. 3 and the international friction resulting from U.S. operations in Southeast Asia, delegates from 117 member countries faced a lighter work load than usual.

Only 91 items were on the agenda for the session which is expected to adjourn before Christmas. Last year, the delegates handled 108 items.

Most of the perennial hard-shell issues were back, with the drive to seat Communist China and eject the Chinese Nationalists high on the work sheet. In the opinion of most observers, it was doomed to a new defeat at the hands of U.S.-led opposition —and by a much larger margin than last year's 47-47 tie vote.

Membership was expected to be increased by four new countries —Guyana, the former British Guiana; Basutoland and Bechuanaland in Southern Africa, and Barbados in the Caribbean —and by the return of Indonesia, which exited in Rhodesia's white supremacy government and its policies were scheduled for major debate in the Trusteeship Committee.

Conspicuous by its absence was any mention of Viet Nam. The United States put the Viet Nam situation before the Security Council last February but was unable to evoke debate. Washington made no move to put Viet Nam before the Assembly, on grounds that the world body normally does not debate issues before the council.

But Viet Nam was expected to be mentioned by most speakers in the general debate and slip into political arguments elsewhere.

U.S. Agents Arrest Whites Of Grenada

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Federal agents whisked seven white men before the U.S. commissioner for arraignment here Saturday in a crackdown on leaders of segregationist attacks on Negro children and newsmen in Grenada Monday.

Three more white men were in custody of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and three other arrests were imminent, according to a ranking federal source in Jackson.

The thirteen men will be charged with conspiracy to violate the civil rights of the Negroes who were attacked during the first day of desegregated public schools in Grenada, the spokesman said

The FBI identified those arrested as:

Leon McBride Belk, Grenada, service station operator.

Archie Larry Campbell, Grenada.

John Silas Hodges, Grenada.

Clyde Perry, Grenada, Sanitation Department worker.

Virgil Vernon Vance, Grenada, laborer.

The arrests followed a U.S. Dist. Court order that Grenada officials protect Negro children from "savage and senseless" attacks by white men.

Judge Claude Clayton issued the order Friday night, saying the violence Monday and Tuesday in Grenada, 45 miles to the south, was "the shame of all who occupy leadership, both official and civic, in the county and the city of Grenada."

The ruling came after two days of testimony in which witnesses had said that in many instances police had taken no action while white men beat Negro children with ax handles and chains outside the newly desegregated schools.

Failure by Grenada officials to obey the injunction would expose them to contempt of court action.

Judge Clayton emphasized the gravity of such action by sentencing Grenada Constable Grady Carroll to four months in prison for contempt.

The judge signed an order Friday night requiring Carroll to surrender to the U.S. Marshall here before noon next Saturday, Sept. 24. In court Friday the judge said Carroll would have to begin his term at noon Saturday. But the later date was stipulated when he signed the order.

Carroll remained free under his original $3,000 appearance bond. The case against him had been pending since he pleaded guilty at a hearing last month involving Negro claims that law officers were ignoring the court's orders to protect legal civil rights demonstrations.

The constable had refused to accept a federal court subpoena and struck a lawyer who had tried to serve it on him.

Commenting on the permanent injunction issued against Grenada officials, Mayor J. D. Quinn said Saturday the city "will do its best to do what the judge told us to do."

Mayor Quinn, asked if the responsible leaders of Grenada would make themselves heard in the days ahead, replied: "There will be a voice. You will see by our actions."

Before issuing the injunction, Judge Clayton said city officials in Grenada "have virtually surrendered or abdicated their responsibility to the Mississippi Highway Patrol."

Later, Hosea Williams, a top lieutenant to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the Negro efforts in Grenada, a north Mississippi city of 8,000, center on adequate housing, a living wage, and equal justice.

Pope Paul To Tackle Decisions

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI came home from vacation Saturday to tackle an intensive round of decision making, starting with Viet Nam and the giant question of contraception for Roman Catholics.

The first item is an encyclical to be issued Monday dedicating October as a month of special prayers by the world's half-billion Catholics for an end to the Viet Nam war. The Vatican, announcing it Saturday, said it would be a papal document "of notable importance." It is the fourth encyclical of his pontificate.

In the weeks ahead the pontiff also is expected to give a new ruling on birth control, think over the possibility of a new international trip, spur church negotiations with East European Communist regimes, and issue more guidance for steering the controversy over the Vatican Council's church-renewal program.

The Pope, who will be 69 Sept. 26, came back here from two months at his Castel Gandolfo summer palace looking tanned and rested. Crowds cheered him in St. Peter's Square.

Pope Paul received an 800-page report — including a secret set of recommendations — from his Birth Control Commission three months ago. Its contents have occupied much of his attention since he went to Castel Gandolfo July 17 for a summer retreat he called "a period of work and meditation."

Some sources have said a majority on the 75-member commission had proposed new attitudes on contraception which would go far beyond the current church teaching allowing total abstinence or the rhythm system — abstaining from intercourse during a woman's fertile periods — as the sole means of birth control. The main problem now is whether to permit use of the contraceptive pill.

Scholarships For College Students Set

Two pharmacy students at Northeast Louisiana State College have been chosen to receive scholarships from the American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education during 1966-67.

Selection was made by the scholarship committee at the College, based on academic standing and other requirements as set forth by the AFPE Board.

The Foundation is a non-profit organization which provides financial support to undergraduate and graduate pharmaceutical education and pharmaceutical research.

Announcement of the awards was made by Dr. Ben F. Coopper, dean of the School of Pharmacy.

Sterlington's Homecoming Set

Friday is Sterlington High School's Homecoming Day.

Queen and maid of honor will be announced at an assembly at 2 p.m., in the school auditorium.

Preceding the 7:30 p.m. kickoff — with St Frederick High School — will be an alumni tea at 6 p.m. in the Home Economics Department.

Reunion Slated

The descendants of the late Lee and Ellen Lawrence will hold a family reunion, Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Olin Mathieson camp on Cheniere Lake. Mrs. C. L. Hancock, family spokesman, said the event will begin at 9 a.m.

Rusk Plans Week Of New York Meetings With Foreign Ministers At U.N. Debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Saturday that Secretary Dean Rusk will fly to New York Monday for a week of meetings with foreign ministers attending the opening of the U.N. General Assembly's fall session.

Rusk slated an important session Thursday with Soviet foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, the first such high-level U.S.- Soviet parley this year.

Rusk wants to sound out the Russians on Viet Nam, on a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons, and a range of other items. Another potentially significant meeting is due with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. Rusk hopes for further word on President Charles de Gaulle's Southeast Asian trip and on Paris' position toward the Atlantic alliance.

The French foreign affairs chief is expected to come to Washington early in October and see President Johnson as well as Rusk.

All told, aides anticipate that Rusk—starting with half a dozen appointments Monday—will wind up seeing individually or in groups nearly all of the approximately 90 foreign affairs leaders coming to the U.N. opening. The annual gathering of foreign ministers in New York has in fact become the most important feature of the U.N. General Assembly, in the opinion of senior, State Department officials.

These officials said the U.N. Assembly also had value in letting small countries play an international role and as a safety valve for airing issues. But the prime benefit, they said, was the opportunity for influential foreign policy figures from around the world to discuss privately all kinds of international topics.

The U.S. officials listed as the three most important elements in the forthcoming U.N. session:

1. Secretary-General U Thant's announced intent to retire. U.S. strategists think the Burmese international servant could be drafted for another five-year term, and they foresee a U.N. constitutional crisis over a successor if he isn't.

2. The Viet Nam war, not officially on the agenda because of Communist opposition but a common subject of corridor discussions. Many General Assembly orators are expected to sound their favorite themes about the Southeast Asian conflict.

3. African issues—moves by African countries against South Africa's white supremacy rule of Southwest Africa and against Rhodesia's white-minority regime.

As a secondary item, the U.S. officials named the perennial attempt to seat Red China. They said the United States again would oppose Peking membership, and they predicted a majority of other U.N. members would, too.

On the continuing conflict over U.N. financing, Washington authorities expected a continued stalemate. The Russians and French have refused consistently to pay for U.N. peacekeeping operations which they oppose.

LBJ Gets Support Of Business

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., called the President's proposal "a sound approach to present economic problems."

Congress began consideration of the President's plan. It calls for a 16-month suspension of tax incentive for business investment in the new equipment and buildings.

The suspension would apply both to a seven per cent tax credit on business spending for machinery and to fast tax writeoffs, the accelerated depreciation allowed on commercial and industrial buildings.

Support for the President's plan was not universal, however, particularly among Republicans.

George W. Romney, the Republican governor of Michigan frequently mentioned as a possible presidential candidate, said, "Discouragement of plant expansion at this time is exactly the opposite of what we should be doing."

Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel, was among the first to object.

A few days later, chief executives of Chase Manhattan Bank, including David Rockefeller, welcomed the President's action.

Then further support came from Frederick R. Kappel, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. chairman; Stuart T. Saunders, Pennsylvania Railroad chairman, and William B. Murphy, Campbell Soup Co. president and chairman of the Business Council, an advisory group.

But there were emphatic objections from a number of business organizations, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

A.V. Leshe, Douglas Aircraft Co., vice president, said suspension of the tax credit could dry up plane orders and plane production would be cut substantially if not stopped.

Daniel P. Loomis, Association of American Railroads president, said withdrawal of credit for equipment purchases would greatly hinder efforts to overcome a boxcar shortage.

Another part of the President's anti-inflation program moved through Congress to his desk—a bill giving federal supervisory agencies more flexible power to control the savings rates paid by savings and loan associations.

Cries Of Corpsman! Corpsman! Ring Out From Machine Gun Pinned U.S. Marines

NEAR THE DEMILITARIZED ZONE, Viet Nam (AP)—The Marines could not be seen, but their screams and cries for help rose from the rice paddy.

The paddy was deep with mud and high with rice. The Marines had dived into it from a dirt road when the Viet Cong opened up with machine guns.

Corpsmen couldn't tell how many men were hit. Shouts of "Corpsman! Corpsman!" and "Help, I'm hit!" pierced the din of bullets and mortars.

This was the lead platoon of Bravo Company, 1st Battalion, 26th Marines, 5th Marine Division, pushing toward enemy positions along the demiliatrized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Two local veteran Vietnamese militiamen from the border post of Gio Linh accompanied them and told of a Viet Cong platoon that over the years had killed many government soldiers.

They were about 1,500 yards short of the demilitarized zone and eight miles inland from the South China seacoast.

The lead platoon maneuvered along a dirt road that cut through green paddies. Gently rolling hills, overgrown with dense brush and jungle sloped up from the rice fields.

The platoon followed the road around a bend and then, just 20 yards short of a broad dump of dense brush, the enemy cut loose with furious machine-gun fire.

Everyone scrambled for cover into the paddies. In seconds the road was empty of men—except in the point position.

Two men there were hit with the full force of the opening enemy blast. They writhed, tried to crawl, groped helplessly in the air and then sprawled in the road.

Marines in the rear did their best to push forward to help. But they, too, had to get off the road and into the paddies. As they tried to run, knee deep mud sucked at their legs. Too much heavy equipment weighted them down. They plunged forward on all fours.

Corpsmen and machine-gun teams were the first to reach the battle scene. They peered over dikes and could see no one; they could hear the firing and the cries for help.

The machine guns began firing into the treeline. A rocket launcher team joined them, and the corpsmen crawled forward to find the injured.

They found wounded struggling to keep their heads above the muck. Their wounds were packed with mud, and two-inch leeches were clamped on raw flesh.

By the time the corpsmen reached the two lead men it was too late. One man was pulled to the roadside, and a corpsman desperately gave him artificial respiration and hoarsely pleaded: "Don't die! Dont't die You won't die! You can't die! Please, please, don't die!"

The corpsman, like the rest of the company, was in his first real fight in Viet Nam. He had never before treated a man so badly hurt.

He worked and worked. Then he stopped and put his ear against the man's bare chest.

"He's dead," he said.

Winners, Losers Over Rights Bill See New Measure

But both acknowledge that the current engagement probably will end Monday when a second bid to shut off debate and force action is expected to fall short of the two-thirds vote it needs.

If that happens, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has said he will reluctantly shelve the House-passed civil rights measure.

That means it would die with the end of the 89th Congress.

Senate Republican Leadre Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, whose opposition is the key factor in the anticipated rejection, and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who tried to guide the bill to passage, both said they anticipated a new Johnson proposal on civil rights next year.

"Certainly there will be a new civil rights bill next year," Dirksen said.

Dirksen said he did not know what would be in such a bill but if it were like the current proposal, it would be rejected.

Hart, predicting that a ban on racial discrimination in housing one day would become government policy, said he could not forecast the prospects of a new civil rights proposal next year.

But he indicated its chances would be better if it came early in the session. Johnson proposed the current bill in an April 28 message. It passed the House Aug. 9 and ran into a September filibuster in the Senate.

Because a new Congress will convene in January, the procses of passing civil rights legislation will have to begin all over again. And that could create a new problem.

Hart said it would be reasonable for the House, having passed a controversial civil rights bill in an election year, to insist that the Senate act first on any renewal of the proposal.

Dirksen thinks so, too.

"I have an idea that when you touch a red hot stove once, you're pretty careful after that," he said.

The task of civil rights advocates in the Senate would be more difficult if they had to begin the legislative process on a new Johnson proposal.

It would put a new delaying weapon into the hands of the Southerners opposed to such legislation because Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., heads the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This time the Senate bypassed that panel in an effort to begin action on the House-approved measure.

But at that point Dirksen, his Republican allies and the Southerners blocked the way. The bill itself has not even come before the Senate, only Hart's motion to bring it up for action.

Landslide Erases Huts

MATUSHIRO, Japan (AP) — A major landslide demolished 12 houses and huts in this quake-ridden town Saturday but no casualties were reported. The 500-foot-wide landslide was believed caused by continuous earthquakes rocking this town for a year.

One hundred forty residents — 28 families — were ordered evacuated after the mountain had started to move Friday.

Matsushiro, a town of 22,600 population, has been jolted by 1,000 to 3,000 tremors daily since August, 1965. The town is about 100 miles northwest of Tokyo.

Beer Blast Open

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Firecrackers, brass bands and official keg-tapping ceremonies marked the opening Saturday of the annual Munich Oktoberfest, the world's biggest beer-drinking festival.

Confident officials predicted more than four million visitors would consume at least a million gallons of beer during the 16-day carousal and wolf an estimated total of 350,000 fried chickens and more than 700,000 pork sausages.

Fund Drive Launching Set Monday

One hundred nineteen Monroe area men will launch a campaign to raise $107,191 for Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund Monday noon. The volunteer group, representing the largest division in this years' campaign, will be the guests of Sebron M. Sneed, American Bank & Trust Co. executive at a luncheon at the Paragon which will officially kick-off the drive for the Monroe Large Business Division.

Sneed, who is chairman of the division, was pleased over the quick response and ready acceptance which his section chairmen and team captains had received in their enlistment of the volunteer local business, education and government leaders to conduct the fund drive.

"The enthusiastic willingness shown by this group of volunteers convinces me that the philosophy of 'one Gift Works Many Wonders' through contributions to UGF is universally endorsed by a vast majority of all wage-earners, business, local government and education people in Ouachita Parish," Sneed said.

"The goal of this great solicitation team," Sneed concluded, "shall be to make sure that every wage earner in Monroe will have a simple, convenient means of enjoying the tremendous personal satisfaction which comes from voluntarily lending a helping hand to the less fortunate and the youth programs of our parish through a one-time annual pledge to United Givers Fund."

Two Youths Injured In Area Wrecks

JONESBORO (Special) — Two 18-year-old youths, Carey Lee Durbin and Chris Barnett, both of ward 7, Jackson Parish were injured Saturday when their auto left the road about four miles south of here on U.S. Hwy. 167.

They were taken to Jackson Parish Hospital here, where Barnette was treated for a broken leg and Durbin was treated for a fractured thumb. Both were taken to St. Francis Hospital in Monroe, where they were in undetermined condition late Saturday.

State police said the auto was headed south when the wreck occurred. Further investigation was underway in the case.

The auto was a total loss, troopers said.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Heavy rains and winds of Typhoon Elsie killed at least two persons, injured 30 and drove 10,000 from their homes, the police administration announced Saturday. The typhoon swept over southern Formosa Friday.

Sen. Knowles Presents Plan To Redistrict

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)— A state senator says if the state reapportionment commission's plan for redistricting the legislature "does not comply with all the court guidelines," he will present his own proposal.

State Sen. Jesse Knowles of Lake Charles presented his plan at a recent meeting of the commission, but it wasn't accepted. A final plan has been drawn up and will be presented at the commission's next meeting.

Sen. Knowles said Saturday that before the plan can be approved it must meet all court regulations. Recent court rulings stated that no district can deviate 15 per cent from the figure of one senator per 83,500 people.

Knowles says that some districts in the state exceed the 15 per cent deviation under the commission's plan.

RSUTON (Special) — An annual drive by the Ruston High School Band Parents is underway to raise money to support the school band by means of selling a calendar with important dates of the buyers listed.

A calendar for a family will have all the birthdays of the family members and the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Henry are in charge of the project with the following captains: Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. James Fallin, Mrs. Gladys Moore, and in charge of advertising is O L. Waltman.

New Concept

RUSTON (Special) — Clifton A. Dry has joined the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service in Lincoln Parsih as associate county agent with major duties to direct the new concept in 4-H extension work. Dry's appointment, which was effective September 1, was announced Friday by Lincoln Parish county Agent F. O. LeVasseur.

Dry, who has been vocational agriculture teacher at Ruston High School for the past six years, has also formerly held positions with the cooperative extension service in Morehouse, Catahoula, and Lincoln parishes.

LeVasseur said, "Lincoln Parish is very fortunate in obtaining his services because of his background, experience, and training in this field."

Attends Meetings

RUSTON (Special) — Lincoln Parish Librarian Miss Bess Vaughn attended the regional meeting of the American Library Association in Austin, Tex., this weekend. The meeting was primarily concerned with library construction and expansion.

Named Deputy

WISNER (Special) — Lawrence Roberts, Rt. 1, Wisner, was appointed recently to the office of Deputy State Fire Marshal, according to State Fire Marshal Milton Stire.

Roberts, 33, a lifelong area resident, will serve Wisner and surrounding areas.

Membership

RUSTON (Special) — A membership drive is underway by the Ruston Civic Symphony Society to increase the membership to 250 from last year's 225.

The membership fee is $10.00 per year for a family and guests. Deadline is Friday, Sept. 30.

Four concerts are planned for the Ruston season under the direction of Jimmie Howard Reynolds, director. The Sunday afternoon performances will be held in Howard Auditorium. Society President Mrs. Alex T. Hunt entertained the board of directors at a reception at her home prior to the annual membership meeting Thursday.

Joins Faculty

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Miss Ruby Womack of Dodson has joined the faculty of McNeese State College here. She will be staff accompanist.

Miss Womack, who just completed work on her master of music degree at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, was a cum laude graduate in music at McNeese in 1965.

Parish Featured

Fair Scheduled

EL DORADO Ark. (Special) — The Union County Fair will be held here Monday through Saturday, according to Jim Griffith, fair association president.

Topping events for the week will be the selection of the fair queen and the second annual junior horse show.

The queen competition, sponsored by the El Dorado Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held Monday night. The horse show, for entrants in grades one through 12, will begin Tuesday after a practice session Monday and continue through Saturday.

Lieutenant

FERRIDAY (Special) — Cadet Bob Turner, of Spokane, community, east of here on La. Hwy. 568, will serve with the rank of lieutenant at the Sewanee (Tennessee) Military Academy this year, where he is a senior.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Turner, Spokane Plantation.

The academy, recently opened for its 98th session, holds a designation as an "honor" preparatory school from the Department of the Army.

Paralegic Wed In Wheel Chair

COLCHESTER, England (AP) — Heather Russell, 33, almost completely paralyzed by polio for the past 11 years, went to the altar Saturday in a special chair equipped with a breathing machine for her wedding at a local church.

She was to spend most of her time in the iron lung and can go nowhere without a breathing machine. It went, with a rocking bed in which she was to sleep, into a specially equipped light truck which took the couple off for a short honeymoon.

VOTE TO KEEP HUNT

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER

8-A Friday, Sept. 16, 1966 Monroe Morning World

Hunt Given Endorsment Of Passman

Fifth District Rep. Otto E. Passman Thursday endorsed John S. Hunt in the Sept. 24 Democratic primary race for Third Public Service District Commissioner. Hunt, currently chairman of the commission, was appointed to the third district post in 1964 to succeed Gov. John J. McKeithen when the latter moved to the governor's mansion.

Passman cited the cooperation experienced between himself, Hunt and Gov. John McKeithen as the reason for his statement. He added that he intended to reflect no discredit on Hunt's opponent. He said he was "not attempting to tell anyone how they should vote."

Passman's statement:

"There are no three public positions where cooperation and coordination of efforts are more important or result in so much benefit to the people as those of the Governor, the Congressman and the Public Service Commissioner. In this particular situation, we have been, and are now, working very closely together, with a substantial measure of success, in improving and extending rural telephone and electric service, in dealing with the service and rates of our common carriers, in working to induce job-producing industries to locate in our area and state, and in other important matters. Best results are always obtained in cases of this type, which have both interstate and intrastate aspects, when the Governor, the Congressman and the Public Service Commissioner work in harmony, with unity of purpose, as Governor McKeithen, Commissioner Hunt and I have done, are doing, and will continue to do.

"During my 20 years as a Member of Congress, serving the Fifth Congressional District, I have never experienced such splendid cooperation as exists today in this respect, and I hope this teamwork for progress may be continued by Commissioner Hunt's election on September 24. I do not believe the working relationship which I have with Governor McKeithen and Commissioner Hunt could very likely be improved upon.

"Now, all of us recognize that neither Commissioner Hunt nor Governor McKeithen necessarily needs my endorsement, for each of them has created his own outstanding record and favorable public image by the high quality of his service to the people. However, in view of the circumstances, it certainly seems in order for me to express my personal hope that Commissioner John Hunt will be elected to a full six-year term in office so that he may continue with the commendable program that he has so ably begun."

During the past two years JOHN HUNT and his fellow Commissioners have:

1. Reduced cost of electricity in Louisiana 5 million dollars per year!
2. Reduced cost of long distance calls within the state almost 2 million dollars per year!
3. Kept your monthly residential phone rate the lowest in the nation!
4. Kept Louisiana the only state in the nation where you can still make a pay phone call for only 5c!
5. Made it possible for you to call anywhere within the state for only 50c after 8 p.m. and all day Sunday!

. . . to name just a few outstanding accomplishments!

You can be sure this progress will continu e with HUNT as your Public Service Commissioner.

Bogalusa Rights Head Okays Probe By Jury

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—Robert Hicks, vice president of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, said Saturday he would not object to a grand jury investigation of the league or the Deacons for Defense and Justice.

City Atty. Robert Rester urged an investigation of the two organizations Friday. He said the Voters League claims to be a non-violent civil rights group but that recent statements by its leaders indicate otherwise.

Rester said the Deacons, described by its leaders as a Negroe protective force should be investigated to "find out whether they have possibly violated any state laws pertaining to possession of firearms."

Hicks said the role of the Deacons is non-violent, but still a role of defense for Negroes.

"We go on our constitutional rights that a person has a right to defend himself when the law fails to defend him," he said.

Armed whites and Negroes confronted each other for a tense half hour early this week outside a desegregated junior high school. Police broke it up.

Rester said A. Z. Young, president of the league, told a rally Tuesday night that "if you own a gun, buy plenty of ammo for it and get ready to use it, because we might burn this baby down."

Rester then quoted Hicks as saying that the federal government won't do anything about Bogalusa unless the situation reaches the point where somebody gets killed.

"It won't do any good for a Negro to die, so it will have to be somebody else that dies," Rester quoted Hicks as saying.

Hicks said Saturday: "Statements are funny things. I think the city attorney has taken my statement and misinterpreted it."

Hicks said he fears somebody will get hurt before state or federal officials come into Bogalusa. "It looks like something will have to happen before any outside forces will come in and enforce the law. If the governor (Gov. John McKeithen) doesn't do something somebody will be hurt. I think most of us, including Gov. McKeithen, have been talking too much and not showing enough action," he said.

The Deacons, an independent organization, was formed at Jonesboro, La., with the announced purpose of guarding Negro sections and the homes of civil rights leaders in time of racial unrest.

Its members are armed. It is not against the law to possess or carry guns in Louisiana, under state law, unless the weapon is concealed. Only automatic weapons are illegal.

H. J. Hunter Dies; Funeral Rites Pend

UAW Head Wants Aid Of Congress

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — The president of the United Auto Workers is urging Congress that any future liberalization of the business investment tax credit include a provision to assist workers "displaced by the technological advances which the credit is designed to encourage."

Walter P. Reuther disclosed his plea in releasing here a letter written to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Reuther wrote Mills that newspapers report "consideration is being given to liberalization of the investment tax credit following the period of suspension recommended by President Johnson."

The President has recommended a 16-month suspension of the seven per cent tax credit accorded industry for new plant and equipment investment.

While saying that it was urgent that Congrses act promptly on the President's suspension recommendation, Reuther added there is "no similar need for immediate action to modify the provision that will govern the operation of the tax credit following the end of the suspension period."

Mer Rouge Girl New Cotton Festival Queen

BASTROP (Special) — "Great great," was all 17 - year - old Susan Gale Carter could say Saturday night as she was selected Queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair here.

The popping flash bulbs of photographers were delayed until the tears could be wiped away as the blonde, green-eyed freshman at Northeast Louisiana State College was crowned by last year's queen, Miss Debbie Swartz.

The winner, a Mer Rouge girl, measuring 36 - 24 - 36, sang "I Enjoy Being a Girl" and "Wouldn't It Be Loverly" in the talent competition after the swin suit vying. She will represent the festival and fair in the Miss Louisiana pageant.

First runner up was Virginia Palmer, 17, a senior at DeRidder High School.

Second runner up was Brenda Green, also 17, of Bastrop. She was sponsored by the Bastrop Optimists Club.

Also included in the five finalists in the judging were Rosemary Carpenter, 17, of Bastrop, and Donna Green, 18, also Bastrop. Martha Rose Rutledge of West Monroe, was voted by her fellow contestants as Miss Congeniality.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Carter of Mer Rouge, Susan will receive as winner a $750 scholarship from Mercer Price, head of the Price Foundation. Price was one of the judges. The first and second runners up will receive $100 scholarships from the foundation.

Man Charged On Resisting Arrest Here

Monroe police charged Tony Black, 44, with resisting arrest, discharging firearms and drunkeness in public late Saturday after his arrest near his Pine Street Landing house, authorities said.

Police said arrest followed a complaint that someone was "shooting at two men" at the landing. They were, police said, Earl Thomas, and Celias White, of the Tourist Motel. Neither was hit.

Earlier, Johnny Goodjoint, 25, of 210 Fontanna's Ally, and Otis Curry, 63, Chatham, were arrested at N. 14th and Pines Streets, and charged with gambling.

Mack Wilford, 305 S. 13th St., was booked for aggravated battery.

Soviets Observe Flying Suitcase

MOSCOW (UPI) —The rest of the world may have seen flying saucers. The Soviet Union has seen a flying suitcase.

Nedelya, the weekly supplement of the government newspaper Izvestia, reported Saturday that peasants in the central Asia village of Zirikovo were "extremely amazed" when a suitcase fell out of the sky there the other day.

It seemed one I. Kadyrov, whom Nedelya described as a "drunk accountant," was passing overhead in an aeroflot airliner and "decided to stretch his legs before landing."

The paper said he got the plane's rear door open, "but fortunately nothing happened except that one suitcase went flying."

Nedelya said the suitcase was eventually delivered to its owner. It did not report the luggage's condition.

Small Plane Hits Mountain

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A small private plane smashed into Sugarloaf Mountain at the entrance to Guanabara Bay in driving rain here Saturday and fell flaming into undergrowth at the foot of the famous landmark. Three persons aboard were killed.

The twin-engine plane, identified by air force search authorities as a Cessna 310, took off shortly after 8 a.m. According to officials it ran into the sheer side of the 1,296-foot Sugarloaf, two miles from the end of the runway of Santos Dumont Airport in downtown Rio.

Firemen found the wreckage three hours later.

NEW DIRECTOR J. Harold Gilbert receives the symbolic baton from retiring director L. V. E. Irvine in brief change-of-command ceremonies this week at the office of the Louisiana Tech Concert Series. Gilbert, a former member of the Wayne King Orchestra, takes over management of the series from Irvine, who initiated the LTCA 22 years ago. The series is presently conducting its membership drive.

Gilbert To Direct Concerts At Tech

By Travis Mayo

After 22 years as chairman of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association, L. V. E. Irvine this week turned the symbolic baton over to his successor, J. Harold Gilbert, the new director of LTCA who has arrived from El Dorado, Ark. to direct the 1966-67 concert series.

Gilbert, for the past 12 years, has been teaching band and orchestra in Oklahoma and Texas. For 11 years he has also played with the Amarillo Symphony. While a student of music in Chicago, Gilbert broadcast for five years with the Wayne King Orchestra.

James R. Gilbert, the new director's father, began a career with a railroad company in Ruston almost half-a-century ago. Gilbert's mother is active as a piano teacher in El Dorado and his brother, Raymond Gilbert, is choral director at the El Dorado High School.

While pursuing a degree in Economics, which he completed at Tech in 1946, Gilbert played under the baton of the retiring LTCA director in the Tech Symphony Orchestra and the Tech Collegians. Irvine, therefore commenting upon the appropriate symbol — the changing of the baton — recalled the past when he turned over the guidance of the concert series to his former associate.

Gilbert received his bachelor of music degree from the American Conservatory and his master of music degree from Northwestern University. "Mr. Gilbert had not intended to follow music as a profession when he was at Tech studying economics," Irvine recalled, "but his talents and interests in the music field were so great that he was persuaded to change his career ambitions."

Initial Series

Irvine, the retiring director of LTCA, came to Louisiana Tech as a full professor in 1938 to head the department of music. Having received a B.A. from Pitt and an M.A. from Penn, he had done further graduate work at Columbia, Penn State and Denver University. He had often served as guest instructor in summer sessions at New York University, Carnegie Tech and the University of Pennsylvania.

Soon after his arrival in Ruston in 1938, Irvine was persuaded by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gibson of Monroe to assist in gaining new members for the Monroe Civic Music Association. Gibson, manager of a Monroe hotel and president of the Monroe Civic Music Association at the time, enlisted Irvine's help in promoting the Twin Cities artist series in Ruston. Soon thereafter, Irvine had enrolled 72 new members in the Monroe series through the Tech Music Department office.

Irvine has continued through the years to cultivate a wholesome relationship between the Tech and the Northeast concert associations. "There has always been a cordial relationship between the Louisiana Tech Concert Association and the Northeast State Concerts Association," Irvine said.

Business matters for LTCA will continue under the management of Irvine for several months while Gilbert becomes acquainted with his responsibilities at Tech.

"I am extremely well pleased," Irvine said, "that president F. Jay Taylor has secured Mr. Harold Gilbert to be my successor. While I am confident that the peculiar contributions of the LTCA will be enhanced to the school and the community - at - large under Mr. Gilbert's able leadership, I am also confident that through the collaboration of Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Davis Bingham of Northeast the positive cultural influence of these two fine concert assocations will be felt even more in our areas."

Tech Series

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association will open the season on Oct. 18 and 19 with performances of the American Folk Ballet. This folk group headquarters in Los Angeles and directed by Burch Mann is making its first continental tour.

The New Orleans Symphony is scheduled for two performances on Nov. 10. The symphony recently was awarded $1,750,000 by the Ford Foundation as a tribute to its high place in the music world.

The Royal Hunt of the Sun, a stage spectacle labeled "theater at its best" will give matinee and night performances on Dec. 2.

Other attractions scheduled after the first of the year are Little Angels of Korea, Jan. 5 and 6; Fred Waring's 50th Anniversary Show, Feb. 9; Ruth Page International Ballet, Feb. 15 and 16; Dallas Theater Center's production of "The Tempest," March 6 and 7; The Fabulous Sabicas, king of the Spanish guitar, April 6 and 7, and pianist Lorin Hollander, May 2 and 3.

As has been the custom in buidling their season series, one or two additional events will be neogtiated and announced later in the season by the LTCA.

This week, LTCA solicitors working in 45 communities in North Louisiana and will seek to enroll new members in the subscription series.

Four Plunder Anglo Jewels

LONDON (AP) — Four men wearing nylon stock masks Saturday plundered the strongroom of Collingwoods. The Mayfair jewelers, where some of Britain's lords keep their coronets.

Two watchmen were tied up while the gang collected bracelets, brooches, rings and necklaces. No figure was given for the haul but it is believed to run into thousands of pounds.

Permits For Construction Announced

Building permits totaling $223,600 were issued during the third week in September by the Building Inspection Office, according to Dale B. Martha, coordinator of city building, electricity and plumbing.

Subtotals for the building projects were: Residential building, $20,000; residential additions and alterations, $203,100, and moved buildings, $500.

The largest construction project for which a building permit was issued, Martha said, was a $182,000 one-story brick parish house and class room building at 1400 and 1410 North 4th Street to be constructed for the Grace Episcopal Church.

Permits were also issued for the Grace Episcopal Church.

Permits were also issued for the following projects:

Residential additions and alterations — L. E. Johnson, 1500 Crescent Drive; Peeks Auto Service, metal garage, 1515 South Grand; Jack Jenkins, 3631 Louberta; Shell Oil Company, 1407 Sterlington Road; J. W. Sanderford, 803 Standifer Street; the Rev. Ernest J. Jones, 3900 Dunlop; J. C. Stovall, 401 Rochelle; Charles Johnson, carport, 912 South 17th; R. P. Graves, 3805 Lionel, Aetna Finance, alterations to brick office, 1004 North 18th; Fred Moore, 916 Atkinson, and Tom Mercy Jr., 1703 Dilling.

Demolished structures — Monore Steam Laundry, two-story frame building adjacent to main building at 420 S. Grand, lot to be cleaned; and Jack Buttitta, demolish one - story frame residence at 809 Winnsboro Road, lot to be cleaned.

Moved Buildings — Better Homes Realty, move one-story frame residence from Bon Aire Drive to 1616 Breard; and George Conley, move one-story frame residence from West Monroe to 3912 Halsell.

Family Rejects Words Of Captive As Untrue

AMHERST, Ohio (UPI) — The family of missing U.S Air Force Lt. Burton Wayne Campbell vehemently rejected Saturday reports by the North Vietnamese that he urged U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam.

"It is not possible he said anything like that," said his mother, Mrs. Ada Campbell, who lives in this northern Ohio town not far from the city of Lorain, where Campbell grew up.

Her denial came following a Hanoi broadcast which claimed the 27-year-old airman was captured July 1 and which quoted an alleged interview he gave to a leftist French newswoman, Madeleine Riffaud.

"I am definitely opposed to the war, as are the majority of my friends, and feel that it needs to be settled immediately, it needs to be stopped immediately," the Communist broadcast quoted Campbell as saying.

"I have known him 15 years and do not believe that he could possibly have made any such statements," said Campbell's wife, Bonnie.

The couple was married a week after Campbell graduated from Ohio University at Athens in 1961 with a degree in government and sociology. They first met while he was in the seventh grade at a Lorain public school.

The official North Vietnamese news agency said Campbell told the French journalist he agreed "with many of the senators in our country who are expressing the desire to allow the American people to know exactly what is going on over here."

The Hanoi broadcast also quoted him as saying that in order to "protect the honor" of the U.S. people, American troops must be pulled out of Viet Nam and bombing of the North halted.

"We are sure he never made the alleged statement," his mother said.

Ky Warns Of Change By Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said Saturday that last Sunday's national elections "gave the lie" to Viet Cong claims of wide influence in South Viet Nam, and warned the Communists probably would change their tactics.

Although he did not spell out the changes, Ky hinted the Communists now could be expected to concentrate more on scattered attacks at small outposts to make their presence felt.

In an address before the Foreign Correspondents Association in Viet Nam, Ky also said he did not think it would be necessary for American or Vietnamese troops to invade North Viet Nam.

This was a reversal of an earlier statement saying the war would drag on for up to 20 years unless the Communist heartland were attacked.

"I think we can stop infiltration of North Vietnamese by establishing an effective military control south of the 17th parallel if we have enough troops," Ky said.

He did not say whether he anticipated more troops, but the American buildup is continuing. In the past few days, at least three more American armored regiments have arrived in Viet Nam, boosting the number of U.S. fighting men here to more than 310,000.

Most of his remarks were on the election which selected 117 delegates to a national constituent assembly whose duty it is to write a new constitution for the country.

"The election was a vote of no confidence in the Viet Cong...and shows that the Vietnamese people are not afraid to face death in working toward democracy," he said.

Warning of new attacks from the Communists, Ky said:

"We must be on the alert for a change in political tactics on the part of the so-called National Liberation Front and the Viet Cong and their masters in Hanoi," he said.

"For this election, indeed, delivered a telling blow to the Communists. It has damaged what prestige they have here and abroad. It has given the lie to their claims of influence and control over large sections of the people."

Gospel Singing At Mansion Set

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Governor and Mrs. John McKeithen extended invitations "to all lovers of Goaspel Singing" to come to the Governor's Mansion here for Gospel Singing Day, Oct. 2.

Twenty-five thousand are expected to join the celebration on that Sunday, a spokesman said, from all parts of Louisiana.

The singing will feature many choirs including representatives of Baptist, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths, the announcement said.

Singing will begin at 10:30 a.m. and close at 3:30 p.m., after an "old time dinner on the grounds" at the noon hour.

Captain Restrains Men

U.S. Forces Ban Village Burnings

EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett spent three days this week with troopers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in a hunt for Communist units in the Bong Son area of central Viet Nam. Here he discusses the controversial subject of village burning.

By PETER ARNETT

THE CROW'S FOOT, South Viet Nam (AP)—When and why does an American troop commander in Viet Nam order the burning of an enemy village?

"Not today, for any reason," said bespectacled, unshaven Capt. Nelson Newcombe as he noticed wisps of thin white smoke spiraling over a cluster of brown, thatched huts that made up the hamlet of An Huu.

He barked into his radio: "Who the h— burning down those houses? There'll be no burnings today, that's an order."

The 2nd Platoon of Newcombe's company had moved across a soggy, mile-wide paddyfield earlier in the day Thursday to search for Viet Cong and enemy weapons. Shot at in the operation, they had put the torch to some of the meager dwellings.

Newcombe again insisted over the radio that they stop. He had had enough of burning villages.

Some newsmen reported what the troops had done, the headquarters of Newcombe's division, the 1st Cavalry at An Khe, got upset, and explanations were demanded right up the line to Washington.

At the bottom of the line in rain-swept coastal valleys called the Crow's Foot, where the war is not a vague conception of right and wrong but a brutal reality, Newcombe shook his head at all the fuss and obeyed orders.

In a few short hours the reality of the war struck home.

Several tons of rice had been found in An Huu, and Newcombe's platoon asked permission to burn it. The company commander asked for an okay from higher up the line, then the request went higher. In the end, it was refused.

By this time night was coming on. The platoon was looking uneasily at the thatched homes of An Huu, topping cavernous tunnels that were excellent hiding places for people both friendly and unfriendly.

Told to burn neither the rice nor the village, the platoon moved out into the paddyfield for the long hike back to the company base.

Just 50 yards out, fire erupted against them from skillfully hidden Communist positions around the village. One soldier on his first combat mission in Viet Nam was the first casualty, shot dead in the back.

Losses were light overall, but the platoon was pinned down for two hours until air strikes and artillery had silenced the snipers.

Next day, when the Americans attempted to recover the body of a soldier left behind the previous night, the snipers opened up again.

The GI comment was bitter. "Men dead and wounded just because we couldn't destroy enemy territory," one soldier said. "Are we in the Army or the Peace Corps?"

The cavalrymen were frustrated for a lot of reasons. They were operating in recognized enemy territory.

The hundreds of people in the hamlets around the Crow's Foot, which snakes south from Bong Son, did not vote in the recent Vietnamese election. the Viet Cong saw to that.

In past months North Vietnamese battalions have drawn sustenance from these fertile valleys. Over the hill behind burned-out Linh Hoi One hamlet is the twisted wreckage of a U.S. Air Force F100 jet shot down earlier in the week.

Holes were punched in five U.S. Army helicopters by groundfire near Linh Hoi One and An Huu.

To the cavalrymen, then, the hamlets with their deep bunkers and trenches were obvious targets for destruction.

The argument against destroying villages is that this will destroy the hope of ever getting cooperation from the people. This argument often has been dropped, however, when U.S. troops have operated in incorrigibly hostile areas.

Such an area was the Crow's Foot. U.S. planes dropped millions of leaflets on the hamlets, warning residents that homes would be destroyed if the Viet Cong hid there.

And the night before the military operation got under way, the commander of the 1st Cavalry Division, Maj. Gen. John Norton, told this correspondent: "We have to do something about these villages. We know they are used by the enemy. But how far can you go?"

When the rapid-fire assault began, Newcombe's troops burst through Linh Hoi One without seeing a soul. Believing the local population had fled along with the enemy troops, they began burning down the few houses that remained standing.

At this point scores of women, children and old men poured from deep hideouts under the hmes. They appeared more angry than upset as they watched their flimsy dwellings go up in smoke.

Newcombe figured that by burning down the houses, the enemy would be preoccupied rebuilding them in the next few months and spend less time fighting the war. And the torch also would serve as a reminder that punishment was always near for those who forcily opposed the government.

Realizing newsmen were present, the division high command ordered all burning to cease.

The lesson that Newcombe, a studious officer from Auburn, Maine, learned was that the burning of a village must not only satisfy purely military objections, which the cases of Linh Hoi and Huu amply did.

The politically explosive nature of news pictures and stories of huts being deliberately destroyed must also be considered.

And some ask: Is ti normally right to punish women and children by burning homes for sin committed by their husbands, sons and brothers?

Newcombe figures that sometimes you have to.

Foes Plot Overthrow, Mao Claims

HONG KONG (UPI) — Powerful "enemies" within the Chinese Communist party are plotting the overthrow of Mao Tse-tung, the fficial magazine of the Central Committee said Saturday. It indicated Red China was in the throes of a titanic power struggle with Mao's purge of his opponents far from over.

The authoritative publication Red Flag repeatedly defined the "enemies" of Mao and his apparent heir, Defense Marshal Lin Piao, as "including partyholders in the highest posts." They were not named, however.

Observers here said logically this would be the clearest indication yet that President Lin Shao-chi and those closest to him are leaders in the struggle for power being waged in mainland China. Liu was regarded for years as Mao's heir-apparent and his recent downgrading in favor of Lin appeared to support this thesis.

The editorial was published in Peking newspapers and relayed by Radio Peking in domestic broadcasts monitored in Hong Kong.

Observers here said the editorial indicated that the youthful Red Guard movement had failed to intimidate elements within the party which had voiced opposition to some of Mao's policies.

(Soviet newspapers Saturday carried denunciations of Mo and his "cultural revolution" by the British, Spanish, Czech and Bulgarian Communist parties. The British charged the campaign was aimed at the "deification" of Mao and wiping out opposition to his "fanatical, anti-Soviet" policy.)

West Monroe Negro Found Shot Dead

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A twenty-two-year-old West Monroe senior at Southern University was found dead Saturday in his off-campus apartment here, apparently a suicide, East Baton Rouge Parish Sheriff's Deputies said.

Deputies said Harold Dawson, Negro, West Monroe, apparently shot himself in the right temple with a .22 caliber rifle early Saturday.

He was discovered by another roomer who went in to awaken him for a telephone call.

University officials said Dawson was doing practice teaching at McKinley High School here.

He was the son of Mrs. Pansey Dawson, West Monroe.

Met Opera Opening Night Drama In Gold, Glitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Opening night of the Metropolitan Opera was a drama in glitter and gold —the most dramatic and the most gleaming anyone attending could remember.

One of the stars was the building—a new $45.7-million travertine and glass structure in Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. With crystal chandeliers given by Austria, it is baroque and opulent enough to satisfy most devotees of the faded elegance of the old Met, which saw its debut in 1883 and its farewell last spring. And the new house seems to be warm and true, acoustically.

The Friday night audience was full of expensively dressed and jeweled people, including Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and her guests, President and Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines. So many people had sent in orders for opening night tickets—at prices up to $250 each—that the Met had set up an anonymous committee from its board to decide who could buy them.

In the evening's biggest surprise, Rudolf Bing, Met general manager, stepped before the curtain after the second intermission to announce that the strike by orchestra members was over. The orchestra had voted during the intermission to accept salaries of $345 a week by 1968 and end the strike. It had been striking since Tuesday, saying that it would play the opening night of the season only, leaving the Met without a season to follow.

New productions, scheduled for Monday and Thursday, had been postponed. Executive deliberations during the third act brought a decision to keep the house dark Monday and present the new productions later in the week.

The opera chosen to open the new house, "Antony and Cleopatra," was a world premiere. Samuel Barber finished writing it this summer and made revisions up through rehearsals. The music is melodic and sounds Italian, but much of it is not memorable, and it lacks the lyrical duets and arias of the much-loved Italian operas.

Franco Zeffirelli directed and designed elaborate costumes and sets as if his principal intent were to overwhelm music and singers and show off all the marvels the new stage can perform. A pyramid flops open and later closes and glides away, Cleopatra's barge floats forward— this is impressive—at least from most vantage points in the house. Gold pipes, indicating all sorts of structures are raised and lowered and slide in from the wings. An enormous sphinx turns half way around again and again to show what happens in front of it and behind it.

The singers were not, however, overwhelmed. The costumes of Leontyne Price as Cleopatra glittered, but her voice was pure gold. Bass Justino Diaz as Antony and tenor Jess Thomas as Caesar were entirely laudable.

Here's the brand new '67 Chevy pickup! It's strikingly new in styling (if it looked any better we'd have to stop calling it a truck!). Lower, sleeker, its trim appearance puts many cars to shame—and so does the bump-smoothing ride!

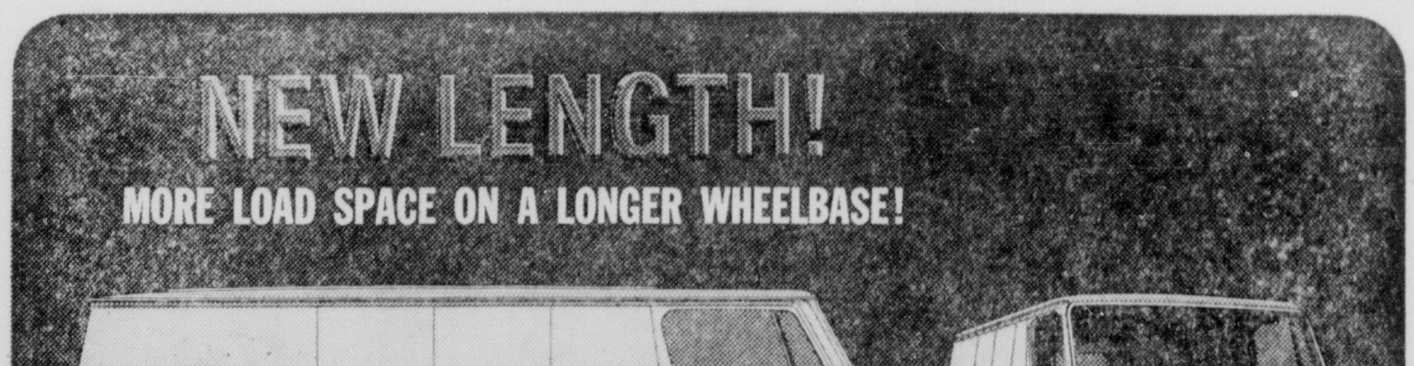
And this one's a tougher truck, too. Resists rust better with new fender skirts, undercoated wheelhouses and new body sheet metal that eliminates many welded joints.

There's a new all-steel pickup box, also, with full-depth double-wall side panels and tailgate. And a new tailgate latch that can be operated with one hand.

For more pleasant driving, the attractive new cab interior is color-keyed to the exterior paint. And for driving safety, there's better visibility plus added features such as padded instrument panel and sun visor, dual master cylinder brake system and others. There's the latest in truck power, too—a famous Chevrolet 6 or V8.

So bring on your tough jobs (and your camping trips!). The new '67 Chevy pickup looks so good and is built so well you can use it for almost anything!

A BRAND NEW BREED OF



New Chevy-Vans in two sizes for '67 . . . new V8 power, too!

Now you can get a long low-cost Chevy-Van (as well as the regular size)! All new for '67 is the Chevy-Van 108 with 108" wheelbase and whopping 256-cubic-foot load space. It's both longer and stronger for the big jobs. Or pick the Chevy-Van 90 with 209-cubic-foot cargo area. Both sizes offer sharp new styling and a smoother ride. Both can be equipped with hustling V8 power—a big Chevrolet 283 V8 with 175 horsepower! And both can be had in fun-loving Sportvan versions for family use.

As you can see, there's a brand new breed of Chevy trucks at your Chevrolet dealer's, so stop by and inspect them soon!

Mansfield Okays Build-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the senate majority leader who has opposed expansion of the war in Viet Nam, gave a qualified endorsement Saturday to the American military build-up in Thailand.

Mansfield said in an interview he had little official knowledge of U.S. military operations in the little country bordering Viet Nam. But he said he accepted as credible news reports that two new large military bases were under construction there.

"In view of the present conditions, as they actually exist, there probably is a need for these bases," he said.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Mansfield is a member, starts closed hearings Tuesday on the U.S. role in Thailand.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has raised the issue that the American build-up might convert Thailand into "another Viet Nam." He said Congress ought to know "what we are getting into."

But Mansfield said he doubted inquiring senators, who will hear Asst. Secretary of State William P. Bundy as the first witness, would learn much that is new.

"I doubt that we will find out any more in the hearings than we already know from credible news reports," he said.

Mansfield said Thailand operations had been mentioned "in only a fragmentary way" in White House briefings on Viet Nam. He added that so far as he knew, Congress was informed about activities there only from what it read in the papers.

The majority leader said the chief factor behind the American military build-up seemed to be for "defense against the threat of Chinese subversion of northeast Thailand." He noted that this area had a large population of North Vietnamese.

Mansfield said he was not prepared to challenge published reports that the United States had 25,000 troops in Thailand and was building big bases at Sattahip, on the Gulf of Siam, and at Nam Phong.

He noted, however, that Thailand would retain title to these and other bases built there if hostilities ended and the United States withdrew its troops.

He declined any comment on whether U.S. air strikes from Thailand against North Viet Nam and Communist-controlled areas in Laos could be classified as operations to defend Thailand from attack.

James Bond Banned

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistan government has warned importers of foreign films to use restraint in their selections and threatened to ban spy films of the James Bond type. The Central Board of Censors denounced the Bond series as being "full of crimes and bedroom scenes."

Judge To Hear Motions For End Of Case Against 17 Whites In Rights Slayings

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A federal judge plans to hear a barrage of last-minute motions Tuesday seeking dismissal of charges against 17 white men in the slaying of three civil rights workers in the "long hot summer" of Mississippi's 1964 racial unrest.

Defense attorneys filed 20 motions late Friday in Federal District Court at Meridian seeking to stave off the long-delayed trials now set for Sept. 26.

U.S. District Judge Harold Cox, who will be the trial judge, agreed to hear the motions here Tuesday. Cox last year threw out the key charges against the defendants on technical grounds but the U.S. Supreme Court overturned his decision.

Tobacco-chewing Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, Deputy Cecil Price and the other Philadelphia, Miss., area men—several identified by the FBI as Ku Klux Klansmen—faced trial under two Reconstruction era statues.

The motions were the latest in a series of legal battles which had twice resulted in charges being dropped against the defendants accused of conspiracy in the deaths of Michael Schwerner, James Chaney and Andrew Goodman in June 1964.

The motions for dismissal included allegations that the grand jury was drawn from lists which excluded Negroes, that news coverage of the case prevented a fair trial and that the defendants were not allowed to talk to their attorneys for a long period after their initial arrest.

One motion asked for dismissal on grounds that the grand jury was selected from lists of state circuit clerks, did not represent a cross section of the population and provided for "systematic exclusion of females, members of the Negro race" and other religious and economic groups.

Gallup Poll

LBJ's Popularity Down; Now At .48

By GEORGE GALLUP

President Johnson's popularity has continued to decline in the latest survey. Approval for the way he has been handling his job now stands at 48 per cent.

In early June, his approval score stood at 46 per cent — his lowest to date — but it reached 56 per cent after the bombing of oil tanks around Hanoi in July. Since that time — and presumably because this bombing had no appreciable effect on the course of the war in Viet Nam — his popularity started to decline.

Across the nation, people give many reasons why they are not so enthusiastic about President Johnson as they were a year ago when his popularity rating stood at 65 per cent. The words of a 29-year old Chicago housewife sum up the situation neatly:

"I'm disappointed and disgusted with the war and the racial situation — everything seems to be going wrong. I wish the President would do something."

Reputation As Doer

Before the Viet Nam war took on its present serious character, and before the emergence of "Black Power" and the rise in the cost of living, President Johnson had acquired great respect as a "doer." A year ago, 15 per cent of those interviewed cited, specifically, as a reason for approving the President, his "ability to get things done." By March of this year only 10 per cent were making this comment. And in the latest survey, only 4 per cent cite this quality.

President Johnson's ability to get things done in his first year in office led many to believe that he could solve almost any problem. Confronted as he is today with the war in Viet Nam, racial conflict, and economic problems, many persons wonder why he can't come up with equally good solutions.

Of course, there are many who do understand the nature of the problems he now faces and who do give him full credit for making his best effort to solve them.

A cotton mill worker from Avondale, Ga., said: "I think he's doing the best that can be done — he has more problems than any other President has had to face."

A Madison, Ind. housewife, commenting on the situation which faces the President, had this to say:

"I think it's a sad thing for a country to let itself get into such a mess as Viet Nam in the first place, and it's sadder for any soldiers to lose their lives fighting for another country. But I approve of the way Johnson is handling his job as President just the same. I feel he has been doing his best under the circumstances. The war and racial problems are terrible. But President Johnson doesn't have much choice except to do as he has been doing."

'Win And Get Out'

A key factor in the decline in the President's popularity rating during the last year is discouragement over the Viet Nam war.

The proportion naming Viet Nam among reasons for disapproval has grown steadily since a year ago when only 6 per cent of those in this group cited it. Now 29 per cent say this is why they disapprove. Some who voice approval also refer to Viet Nam, but to a lesser extent.

A large share of the criticism comes from those who think we should escalate the war still further — in order to shorten the war and bring our men home sooner. For many, the formula is simple: "Win and get out."

A 28-year old New York City fireman complains: "The President is hemming and hawing in Viet Nam — at the expense of lives. He can win, so why not do so?"

An elderly Seattle citizen argues along the same lines: "Either send the boys home or give the North Vietnamese the works. You can't tool around with the communists."

Although comments such as these clearly indicate support for carrying the war further, they often also reflect frustrations as much as expectations. For example, only one person in five predicts a total U.S. military victory in Viet Nam.

Chief Reasons For Approval

The chief reasons today for approving of Johnson's performance are: (1) "He's doing the best he can"; (2) his domestic programs: anti-poverty program, medicare, etc; and (3) his handling of Viet Nam (although a small percentage.)

Chief reasons for disapproval are: (1) the Viet Nam war; (2) civil rights disputes, and (3) "too much spending."

Civil rights disputes and riots in cities across the nation are upsetting to many Americans. An earlier Gallup Poll found nearly 50 per cent of the public saying the Johnson Administration is pushing integration too fast.

"I don't approve of forcing colored people on white people," said an Amarillo, Texas housewife who disapproves of Mr. Johnsons' job as President.

"Johnson has caused all the civil rights problems," was the opinion of another Southerner, "by giving Negroes all the rights and leaving us whites with none."

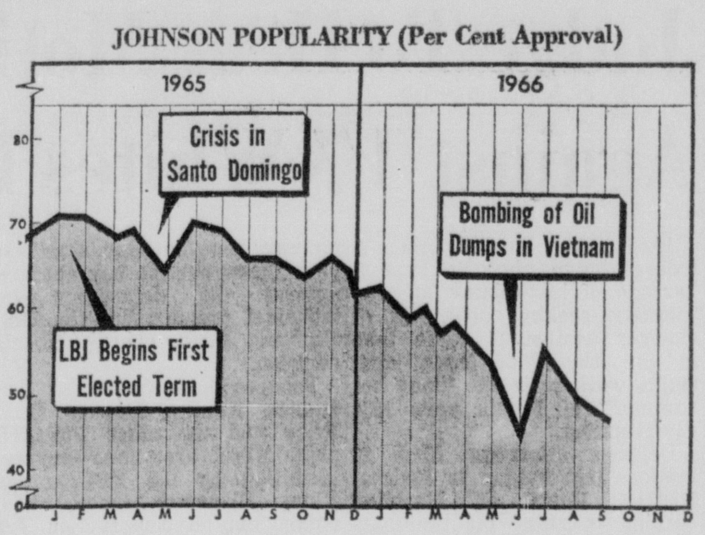
Spending Also Hit

"Excess spending" is also cited by those who disapprove of the way the President is performing in office. A 47-year old electrician from California, who voted for Goldwater, said: "This country is getting more socialistic every day. I resent having to work when Johnson hands money out to people who won't work."

A Milwaukee housewife said: "The so-called 'Great Society" is turning into the 'Great Give-away Society.' The national debt keeps going up, while the gold supply keeps going down."

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Johnson is handling his job as President?"

Approve	48 per cent
Disapprove	38 per cent
No opinion	14 per cent



PRESIDENT Johnson's latest popularity rating stands at 48 per cent approval. His lowest score to date was reported in early June. Following the bombing of oil tanks around Hanoi in July, his popularity rose to 56 per cent.

Ellender Lashes Out At Spending

World Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday he agreed with the President's plans to reduce federal spending, and indicated that "Great Society" programs would be a good place to start.

In a prepared statement, Ellender noted that although President Johnson had planned to cut spending on all "low priority" programs, no Great Society projects were included in this classification.

He said that he was "disappointed to see that the President's message attempted once again to shift the blame for the rise of inflation on the Congress."

This charge was due, Ellender said, in part to the modification of President Johnson's budget requests, some of which have been increased.

The senator said that the budget recommendations proposed some sweeping changes that the Congress found unwarranted and unwise.

"In many instances, reductions were proposed in tried and proven programs," Ellender said. "Upon investigation, it was found that the reductions were in no way justified.

"As a matter of fact, it is my opinion that the reduction in several programs were proposed so that additional funds could be found to allocate to the new and untried 'Great Society' plans."

Ellender said that it was in the area of these plans that most of the large spending increases are to be found.

"However, I intend to do everything possible to help the President to cut back on nonessential expenditures," he said.

The senator said that the first cutting task he would take on was the foreign aid appropriations measure, which, he said, will return from conference committee with much of the earlier Senate reductions restored.

"In my view," Ellender said, "the Senate should not, by any means, agree to provide more money than was authorized originally by the Senate-approved bill."

Ellender also approved the Senate vote that saw the move to close off debate on the Civil Rights Bill defeated.

He said that this reflected the unpopularity of the bill in all sections of the country, and he called it an "unconstitutional measure" that had as its main provision a proposal for "forced housing."

The senator said the Democratic Primary election results in the Maryland governor's race, which saw the anti-open housing George P. Mahoney the victor, is an open reflection of public distaste for the measure.

"During the civil rights debate in 1964, when there were many demonstrations going on in all parts of the country, we were told that the all-inclusive rights bill must be passed to get the civil disturbances out of the streets and into the courts," Ellender said.

He reflected that Southern legislators had maintained that passage of the bill would have just the opposite effect, and said, "unfortunately, our predictions were well-founded."

Koch Blames 'LBJ's' War On Defection

MOSCOW (UPI) —Former Chicago Priest Harold M. Koch said Saturday he defected to the Soviet Union because President Johnson betrayed the American people by leading them into war and playing the Barry Goldwater role in Viet Nam.

The latest blast by the 34-year old Koch, who left the priesthood in 1963 when his superiors recommended psychiatric treatment, was carried as a "statement to the press" by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Koch previously had appeared on Moscow television to condemn what he called Johnson's brutal and unjust war in Viet Nam.

Koch, whose defection was announced here Monday, repeated that he left the United States and sought political asylum in the Soviet Union "basically because I totally disagree with the policies of the Johnson administration . . ."

"We have a situation in America where literally the entire American people have voted for peace or at least for nonescalation of the Vietnamese war and the American leaders, notably Johnson, (Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the military-industrial complex, have led them into war," Koch's statement said.

Doctors Split Siamese Pair By Surgery

TORONTO (UPI) — Three-month-old Siamese girl twins were separated Saturday during delicate heart and liver operations. A hospital spokesman said they were awake, alert and in satisfactory condition.

Doctors at the Hospital for Sick Children in two operations lasting 6 hours and 20 minutes separated the twins' fused livers and corrected heart abnormalities. Their hearts, lying horizontally instead of vertical as normal hearts do, were contained in a common pericardial sack, each protruding into the chest cavity of the other twin.

Physicians said the operations were necessary if the twins—Sherry Ann and Crystal Ann McGee—were to have any chance to survive. They were joined by a band of flesh from chest to navel.

"Crystal Ann's heart has been returned to its proper position and the closure of the chest has been accomplished," said Hospital Administrator John Law.

He said Sherry Ann's heart had not yet been returned to her chest cavity but was covered with a plastic dome prepared before the operation for such use.

"The operating team is happy but they realize the post-operational period will be critical," Law said.

The twins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGee, of Guelph, Ont., wept when they were told of the operation's initial success. Doctors had warned them the twins' chances of survival were slim.

Red Chinese Claim Intrusion

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged today that a U.S. aircraft had "intruded" into China's air space near the North Vietnamese border Saturday morning "for reconnaissance and provocation."

Peking's New China News Agency said Chinese planes had intercepted the U.S. craft and damaged it as it "fled southward in confusion."

U Thant Gives His Views On Viet War

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant declared today he sees nothing but danger to world peace in any concept that the Viet Nam conflict is a kind of holy war between the forces of communism and democracy.

In a statement sharply at odds with the Viet Nam policy proclaimed by President Johnson and other U.S. administration officials, Thant said he remains convinced the basic problem in Viet Nam "is not one of ideology but one of national identity and survival."

"I see nothing but danger in the idea, so assiduously fostered outside Viet Nam, that the conflict is a kind of holy war between two powerful political ideologies," he said.

Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high administration officials have stressed that the United States is in South Viet Nam to help repel Communist aggression from the North. They contend an end to that aggression, including subversive activity in support of the Communist Viet Cong, would end the war.

Thant's views were given in the introduction to his annual report to the 117-nation U.N. General Assembly, which opens its 21st session Tuesday.

In a gloomy tone he summed up the problems facing the delegates — the slowdown on disarmament talks, failure to come to grips with issues barring agreement on peacekeeping procedures, the widening gap between developed and developing countries, and the serious situation in Africa. He blamed most of the lack of progress on the Viet Nam crisis.

His report came at a time when pressure was being put upon him by the United States and virtually the entire U.N. membership to change his mind about stepping down when his five-year term expires Nov. 3.

When he announced his decision Sept. 1 not to offer himself for a new term he made plain that concern over Viet Nam was a major consideration. In a speech Thursday he advised the U.N. membership to get on the job of finding a successor.

In his report to the assembly he declared the Viet Nam crisis was the major obstacle impairing international cooperation needed to resolve the crucial issues confronting the United Nations.

He said he had done his best to help in efforts to reduce escalation of he war and to move it to the conference table.

"In doing so," he added, "I have been increasingly distressed to observe that discussions of the matter have by and large been dominated by consideration and analysis of the power politics involved, and that there has been much less concern for the tremendous human suffering which the conflict has entailed for the people of Viet Nam and also for the people of other countries involved in the fighting. My heart goes out to them."

He declared survival of the Vietnamese people must be seen as the real issue, to be resolved "not by force but by patience and understanding, in the framework of a willingness to live and let live.

"If this approach can be accepted on all sides — and the moral influence of governments and peoples outside the immediate conflict can help to bring this about I believe it should be possible to reach a settlement which would end the suffering in Viet Nam, satisfy the conscience of the world at large and remove a formidable barrier to international cooperation."

Thant summed up the year between this and the last session of the assembly as one in which disappointments outweighed modest gains made in some directions.

He noted that the India-Pakistan conflict over Kashmir had been calmed with the aid of the United Nations, but added that tensions had heightened and violence had erupted elsewhere.

He was critical of the major powers, saying they had not "during this period shown themselves able to rise above the suspicions, fears and mistrust that spring from their different ideologies and from their different conceptions of the best interests of the rest of the world."

He said the rich nations had not risen "above their concern for the continuation of their own prosperity, nor the poor nations above the deadweight of their chronic poverty and their anachronistic social structures."

He criticized the U.N. special committee appointed to resolve the dispute over peacekeeping procedures for issuing a "negative report." He said "it not only shows the continuing failure to agree on basic principles, but also reflects a reluctance to come to grips with the problem."

In the field of disarmament he called for quick agreement on a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons and also on a treaty banning all nuclear tests, including underground tests now permitted under the limited test ban treaty.

He warned that if underground tests result in a unilateral technological breakthrough in either offensive or defensive nuclear weapons capability "it could upset the existing uneasy balance of terror, and lead at once to a new and greatly accelerated nuclear arms race."

He came up with a specific proposal — that an appropriate U.N. body "explore and weigh the impact and implications of all aspects of nuclear weapons, including problems of a military, political, economic and social nature relating to the manufacture, acquisition, deployment and development of these weapons and their possible use."

"To know the true nature of the danger we face may be a most important step towards averting it," he declared.

In reference to the policy of apartheid in South Africa — denounced in the United Nations for years — he asserted that the five permanent members of the Security Council and the main trading partners of that country "have a special responsibility, as well as the means to persuade the South African government to abandon its present course, and seek a solution consistent with the charter of the United Nations and the resolutions of the Security Council and the General Assembly."

On the Rhodesian issue, he suggested that Britain will need to take "further and bolder measures, even though they may be more difficult now to carry out than they would have been some months ago."

As for South-West Africa, now under South African rule, he said he saw no other course for the United Nations than to pursue its search "for constructive measures which will help the people of South-West Africa to exercise their right to self-determination, and which will make the government of South Africa the willing partner it should be in this undertaking."

In the field of aid to the developing countries, he urged the General Assembly to "bring its attention still more positively to bear on strengthening what must be a worldwide attack on poverty."

He said the leaders of the industrialized world must bring their own people to face the fact "that the future of the world will be largely determined by the extent of their effort to promote progress and to defeat despair in the developing nations."

Festival Set In October At Columbia

COLUMBIA (Special) — "The World on a String" is the theme for the 11th annual Louisiana Art and Folk Festival, Oct. 15-16, at the Community Center Grounds, Columbia, according to Cameron C. Minard, president of the organization.

"The theme expresses the enthusiasm of all who promote, participate and attend the festival," states Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, chairman.

Last year the affair, the largest of its kind in the state, attracted over 12,000 people and it is anticipated that equally as many will do so this year.

Unique in many respects, the festival is for artists of all ages and experience. The very finest artists share their work with the amateurs. With no hanging fee, no pre-registration, and no limit to the pieces exhibited, the artist feels free to exhibit in all the media he wishes. He may arrange his work and receive as at a one-man show.

Qualified judges consider only original work and place ribbons. Participation of this feature is optional.

Professional exhibits and sales are welcomed and have proven a fascination part of the festival.

The scope of the festival has enlarged through the years and includes art, craft, needlework, writing, photography, and the performing arts.

A day - long program, under the direction of Joe Barry Mullins, head of the Music, Department, Northeast Louisiana State College, and Duchein Cazadessus, member of the Music Faculty at Louisiana Tech will run concurrently with the outdoor show.

An accredited Flower Show, sponsored by the Caldwell Parish Garden Club is traditional.

Spectacular features will be announced as plans progress.

"Guests and exhibitors are invited to wear costumes from around the world and to enjoy this day in the country where 'art is for every one' ", states Mrs. Reynolds.

Constitution Week Is Noted

In observance of Constitution Week being observed throughout the nation this week, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard Friday signed a proclamation urging residents of Monroe to "pay special attention . . . to our Federal Constitution and the advantages of American citizenship."

Mayor Howard urged everyone also to note the 179 anniversary of the Constitution, which gave the basic freedoms to all Americans.

The proclamation was signed by the mayor in the presence of members of the Fort Miro Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which is sponsoring the special week locally.

Air Force, Navy Facing Shortage Of Young Pilots

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force and Navy are facing what some military officials describe as a severe shortage of young pilots — a shortage they said may not be eased until the early 1970s.

In a series of interviews, top officers said the shortage is largely due to two factors: the increased U.S. commitments in Viet Nam and the increased demand for trained pilots in the booming airlines industry.

The situation is so serious, some sources said, that within the past two years an estimated 2,000 qualified but nonflying officers — many of them in key administrative positions — were ordered back into the cockpits.

It was learned that the matter is receiving the top attention of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who is now considering an expanded Air Force training program. Current programs will boost the number of pilots 30 years old and younger by approximately 75 per cent over the next nine years. The defense secretary will be handed a similar proposal from the Navy soon, qualified sources said.

"This has been a high-priority subject," one defense source said. "I don't think anything is higher on the secretary's list."

Despite the over-all shortage, top military officials emphasize that all manpower needs in Viet Nam and in the Strategic Air Command are being met. But they concede that elsewhere, things often are not up to par.

The immediate facts are these:

—Thousands of Viet Nam pilots are scheduled to be rotated back to the United States this year and must be replaced. Officials indicated that some pilots may have to return for a second tour unless the picture changes by 1969.

—The Air Force is planning more extensive use of the F4 Phantom jet, which requires two pilots. In addition, the Air Force hopes to begin using a two-pilot version of the F111 as soon as production of that new jet begins.

—The heavy stepup in the air war. In one day last week, U.S. pilots flew 150 missions over North Viet Nam involving at least 450 planes and 387 individual sorties over South Viet Nam. Last Sunday pilots set a record by flying 170 attack missions in North Viet Nam.

—Through Thursday, a total of 211 Air Force personnel and 38 Navy men, most of them presumably pilots, were officially reported as missing in connection with the Viet Nam war.

—Many more pilots are needed and used on training missions stemming from the many adjustments qualified pilots need before going to Viet Nam and after being rotated back for U.S duty.

On top of all this, the Air Force and Navy report a drop in the pilot re-enlistment rate, much of it stemming from airlines recruiting.

Reflecting the concern over pilots, the Air Force and Navy recently surveyed sample groups of resigning officers to determine the impact of airline recruiting efforts.

The Air Force study showed that 60 per cent of its senior pilots intended to become commercial pilots after separating from the service. A similar survey in 1964 showed that only five per cet of the resigning officers planned to join an airline.

"We expect this trend to continue as a direct relation to the airline need," the study concluded.

The Navy reported, in response to a query, that about 67 per cent of its pilots who resigned in the fiscal year that ended last June 30 ended up working for the airlines.

A spokesman for the Air Transport Association, which accumulates data on airline pilots, said about 7,000 pilots have been hired since 1964 when the industry began experiencing huge growths in passenger service. About 70 per cent of the airline pilots are recruited from the service, he said, adding that the commercial demand for pilots will continue at least through 1968.

"Why should they risk going to Viet Nam when they can work for $15,000 and be safe?" he asked.

To combat this manpower loss, service officials have begun motivation and other studies to determine why officers leave the service at certain ages and at certain points in their careers.

Although Pentagon officials are reluctant to talk about it, there's another reason for the lagging re-enlistment rates: A few pilots in Viet Nam have turned in their wings rather than fly in the war.

But top officers say that fear of Viet Nam duty is not a major factor. As one put it: "In any outfit you're going to find the working boys and the gravy boys. As soon as the gravy congeals, the gravy boys want to get out."

For the loss of such officers, it was made clear, the Navy and Air Force feel no regrets.

But Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, recently told Congress that the "rate of officers voluntarily leaving the Air Force increased from 4.4 per cent in fiscal year 1965 to 6.2 per cent in the second quarter, fiscal year 1966."

And the Navy reported that all indications show that its current retention rate for officers is declining, although it did not supply any specific figures. One Navy officer put the siuation more bluntly: "One of the big problems in the Navy is keeping pilots in."

A Defense Department official defended McNamara's present and past policies on pilot training, saying there is no shortage now that amounts to anything more than a question of the number of pilots now serving in noncombat positions.

After World War II, he explained, "many excess aviator requirements were developed by the services to accommodate the large number of pilots left over."

NUERNBERG REVISITED

Monroe, La., Sunday, September 18, 1966 1-B

They keep the men who refuse to do a day's work there now, but in these cells at Nuernberg, Germany 20 years ago were Goering, Ribbentrop, Keitel and other top Nazis, awaiting death. The scene is greatly changed now, and many Germans profess not to remember, but Nuernberg profoundly affected the world.

By THOMAS A. REEDY

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) — It was a motley little crowd of men. The work in the vegetable garden was easy even though the sun was hot.

Not looking old or young or almost anything, they shuffled back to the prison. They were, after all, prisoners.

These nobodies were returning home from a partial day's work outside. They entered the cells and the doors clicked shut.

Most of them would be there for a short time only. Their sentence was to do some work. They were listed as "arbeitscheu". In German, that means "work shy." They were the bums of the neighborhood, the men who refuse to do a day's work — the Bowery bums of West Germany.

FAIRLY HARMLESS

"They're fairly harmless but they must be taught to live and work," said the prison director.

The place where they are being "taught" has a significance these men themselves do not fully realize.

They are populating the cells once occupied by Hermann Goering, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, and the other survivors of Hitler's "thousand-year Third Reich" which listed only twelve.

The Nuernberg prison where the top Nazis were incarcerated, where some committed suicide, where some won freedom in fact a score of years ago, and where some were hanged, is today a simple German jail.

Across the courtyard is a small building once called a "turner halle" which in English comes out as a gymnasium or gymnastics. It was there that 10 Nazis were hanged 20 years ago on the night of Oct. 16, 1946 — Goering cheated the hangman by committing suicide in his cell.

NOW WORKSHOP

Now it is a workshop for prisoners. There are lathes and slabs of wood. It is full of junk. Twenty years ago it was stark and empty and a grisly gallows stood at the far wall. Today, the prison officers are fascinated to be told where that gallows stood. Either they don't really know or they are good pretenders.

Off to the right is the Palace of Justice where the trial of Hitler's lieutenants was conducted by the Americans, British, French and Russians.

[illegible] the 20 years since the historic trials [illegible] ld courtroom has been completely [illegible] t. The public gallery has been re[illegible] ed. A huge crucifix hangs over the [illegible] es' bench and that is new. The dock [illegible] re the remmants of Hitler's empire [illegible] s just about the same and the well [illegible] e lawyers sat keeps its appearance. [illegible] vas here that the four powers elect[illegible] Nov. 25, 1945 to try the top Nazis [illegible] r counts: crimes against peace, war [illegible] s, conspiracy to wage aggressive [illegible] and crimes against humanity. The [illegible] cts:

[illegible] th: Goering, the reichsmarshal; [illegible] ntrop, the foreign minister; Keitel, [illegible] ief of the armed forces; Ernst Kal[illegible] nner, surviving successor to [illegible] rich Himmler as head of [illegible] Gestapo; Alfred Rosenberg, [illegible] priest of Nazi Ideology and [illegible] tor of the doctrine that "subhumans" in Eastern Europe should be liquidated; Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior; Hans Frank, governor general of ravaged Poland; Julius Streicher, the Jew-baiter editor of "Der Stuermer"; Fritz Sauckel, boss of slave labor; Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austrian-born Nazi who was chief of occupied Netherlands; Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff, and Martin Bormann, party chief tried in absentia and never found since.

LIFE TERMS

Life: Rudolf Hess, the deputy Fuehrer who flew to Scotland in May 1941, trying some sort of peace mission which never has been fully understood; Walther Funk, president of the Reichsbank which had a special depository for the gold teeth ripped out of the mouths of dying Jews; Ernst Raeder, commander in chief of the navy.

Ten years: Karl Doenitz, U-boat commander and nominated by Hitler as his successor after the Fuehrer committed suicide in the Berlin bunker.

Acquitted: Franz von Papen, former chancellor, ambassador to Vienna and later to Turkey; Hjalmar Schacht, former economics minister and president of the Reichsbank; Karl Fritzsche, radio expert in Paul Joseph Goebbels' Propaganda Ministry.

MOST ARE DEAD

They are all dead except for Speer, Von Schirach, Hess and Doenitz. Speer and Von Schirach served their terms in Spandau Prison in Berlin. Hess, the last man in a four-power jail once built for 650 men, is regarded as slightly round the bend at the age of 72 and a logical candidate for a hospital.

The decision on whether to close out Spandau involves all sorts of four-power thinking. Some say the Russians insist on keeping this foot inside West Berlin. Others say the Allies insist on the same thing to preserve the four-power character of the isolated city, at even the cost of something like $200,000 a year just to guard one man — Hess.

Lawyers will argue forever over the validity of a "conquerer's trial" as Goering called it. Germans see it differently from others. Back on their feet, a power in world politics, economics and finance they are prone to find fault with others, apt naturally to forget their own shortcomings and above all eager to forget a shoddy past.

Students and attorneys general throughout West Germany today claim the Allies were too soft in Nuernberg. The reason for this stems from the postwar trials the Germans themselves conducted. There were two Auschwitz trials in Frankfurt, the purpose being to show the truth of that horror camp in Poland where three million people died. Free of Allied influence, free from occupation and free of all other domination, the Germans found themselves that everything about Auschwitz was really true.

STRUCK HARD

This struck them so hard that they have ever since blamed the Allies for not having cleaned up everything in their path and relieving them of such a necessity.

Dr. Robert W. Kempner, once a leading official in the Russian state police who fled to America when Goering took over Prussia, has been pursuing this thinking for years. He returned to Nuernberg as an American war crimes prosecutor and today spends several months a year in Germany. Otherwise he lives in Lansdowne, Pa.

Said Kempner: "The Nuernberg trial had a pretty good effect on the German people. It cleared the air for a new regime which could start from the bottom without fear that these men could come out of the dark corners to embarrass them."

Kempner said he is constantly being importuned by students and by German lawyers to define the lasting effect of Nuernberg.

MANY COMPLAINTS

"It's really not necessary," he said. "Every courtroom in Germany is affected by the Nuernberg decisions. We hear complaints all the time that we were too soft, not energetic enough in Nuernberg. But the Nuernberg decision must give the smaller nations a feeling of security that similar things cannot happen again. Even Nuernberg terms have crept into political language. The American War Department has changed its name to the Defense Department. Now, do not forget that the primary phrase in Nuernberg was that of waging aggressive war. No one today wants to be called an aggressor. That goes back to Nuernberg. The Chinese, the Russians, not even the Americans in Viet Nam, want to be called an aggressor. There is the word 'genocide,' the destruction of a race, and that came out of Nuernberg. All these things show the value of Nuernberg."

Kempner was one of an Allied staff of about 1,000 who tried a total of 199 Nazis at Nuernberg including the original trial of the top-echelon Nazis.

Even Communist East Germany recognizes the validity of the first Nuernberg trial. One of their top lawyers, Fritz Kaul, urged at the Auschwitz trial in Frankfurt that the principles of Nuernberg be carried out, rather than the West German law.

Why were the Nazis tried?

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, then British attorney general and now Lord Kilmuir, had a big hand in the prosecution and he says: "To let them go would have been to mock the living and insult the dead."

EVIDENCE OVERWHELMING

To him the evidence was "overwhelming". For the future, he recommends this thought:

"After exhausting wars, men tend to suffer from a weariness of the mind. It can produce a facial skepticism about their evil deeds. New generations dislike reading the history of the gas chambers and so the fact that men claiming to be civilized put millions to death in the gas chambers slips from history.

"Further, every devil has his advocate. We have seen apologies for everything. It is just as well that in respect of Nazi war crimes that the apologies of the future will be confronted by the admissions of the many accused found guilty, and the mass of incriminating documents produced at the trial. Both the devil and his advocate are faced by an unscalable barrier of truth."

The trial yielded such bald facts that 10 million people died in direct combat, 12 million otherwise lost their lives through Hitler's directives including six million Jews, and another seven million slave laborers were subjected to fates not even a computer could figure out.

Most of the principles are gone but one of the things that remains is the legend of Goering.

Of him, Maxwell Fyfe commented: "He was the most formidable witness I ever cross-examined."

Goerings' influence began, visibly, when the trial started. The four-power tribunal asked the defendants how they pleaded to the four-count indictment, guilty or not guilty. Goering set the pace by saying: "Not guilty in the sense of the indictment."

The others parrotted that.

They went to their executions, all save Goering. He committed suicide 90 minutes before he was to hang, at midnight Oct. 16, 1946.

U. S. M. Sgt. John C. Woods, now dead, was assigned to perform the hangings in the jail's gymnasium, starting at one minute after midnight.

At 10:30 p.m. an American guard found Goering dead from cyanide poison. But the hangings proceeded, later than scheduled.

At 4 a.m. the bodies of the 10 who were hanged plus Goering were rushed out of the prison complex in U. S. Army ambulances. They were taken to Munich, cremated in the city crematorium and the ashes were spread in the Isar River.

Several days after this happened, this correspondent met a translator who was needed to tell the Allies what Goering had written in German. One letter was to Col. Burton Andrus, the American commandant of the prison. It scolded him, but praised his soldiers.

In effect, Goering wrote: "You shifted my cell from time to time. For you to have a system was for the Reichmarshal to understand it. I had three pills, I permitted you to find one in my gear at Montfort in Belgium and one in my pomade jar. The third one was hidden anally, sometimes in my navel. Sometimes in my toilet. I understood German plumbing and you didn't. It was weighted with lead and would not flush down. Sometimes it was even in my jacket pocket."

To his wife, Emmy, he wrote what any man would write to his wife. Earlier, in August 1946, he had told Emmy "I will not hang," but she misunderstood it to mean he believed in his acquittal.

To the German people, he wrote an admonition to get along with the Western powers because he promised them they would fall out with the Russians in due time.

None of the Nuernberg defendants holds any rank today as a martyr or as a hero. The prison officials still refer to them as "Die Prominente" — The Prominent — which spares them the need to use the word Nazi. On the streets, any discussion of Die Prominente now develops only one conclusion:

To the Germans, they were losers. Losers here are like losers anywhere.

HERE IN THE then -Nuernberg Trials, a time for the world to inspect war-time atrocities and infamy. This is the morning session of the second day, in a tense, crowded courtroom where an allied prosecution staff of 1,000 is trying the leading Nazi survivors of World War II. Perhaps, in years to come, the so-called civilized mentality of man will be able to comprehend the staggering, incomprehensible millions of deaths attributed to those leaders in their strivings for conquest and Hitler's "Lebensraum" (living space). Since Adolf Eichman's more recent trial in Israel for "Crimes Against Humanity" and his execution there in May, 1962, the intellect of today still cannot fully grasp the full significance of the awesome crimes attributed to the Nazis. NUERNBERG PRISON (building, at left) in West Germany where 20 years ago 199 Nazi "war criminals" were imprisoned while on trial by an allied staff of about 1,000. The survivors of Hitler's thousand-year Third Reich - - which lasted only 12 years - - were housed in the cells here. It is still, today, a prison. Across the courtyard in what is now a tool shed and junk-storage workshop is the former "gymnasium" which then housed the gallows where 10 were hanged on the night of October 16, 1946. The 11th, tried and accused Reichsmarshal Goering, had committed suicide one - and - one - half hours before gallows time. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

ABOUT FOUR MONTHS AGO, Paratrooper Rudiger Richter arrived in Viet Nam with the Fourth Battalion of the 173rd Brigade. Counting his seven years as a youth with the French Foreign Legion in Algeria, Berlin-born "Rudi" is a trained fighter in the desert, the mountains and the jungle. He has been trained as an underwater demolitions expert. He has made five combat jumps, and has been decorated three times. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

RUDIGER RICHTER, Berlin-born, joined the French Foreign Legion before he was 16, and fought in Algeria for seven years. After returning to Germany, at 23, he accepted sponsorship of an uncle and visited the United States. Deciding to stay and become an American citizen, Richter was drafted recently. Duty In Foreign Legion Came Before Army Tour

By HENRI HUET

What does he think is the toughest military outfit in the world?

The French Foreign Legion, naturally.

Richter comes by the opinion through hard experience.

For him, the road to Viet Nam began when his family fled the Russian army's World War II advance into Berlin. As a youth in postwar Germany, Richter joined the Foreign Legion at the age of 16 by shifting his birthday back a bit.

REMINISCES

"It was a great unit and I am proud to have served in it," Richter reminisces in the Vietnamese jungles with his new comrades.

For seven years, Richter fought in Algeria with the Legion's famed "Regiment Etrangere Parachutist," the crack 1st Paratroop Regiment which ended its career by taking on Charles de Gaulle.

That was during the final turmoil of the Algerian rebellion when many Legionnaires supported the series of anti-De Gaulle outbreaks. As a result, the proud 1st Regiment was broken up and Richter finished his days in Algeria at headquarters in Sidi bel Abbes before that, too, was lost to the Legion.

After seven years of fighting in Algeria, Rudi Richter went back to Germany as a seasoned veteran of 23 with nothing particular to do. Living in Berlin with his mother, he accepted the sponsorship of an uncle and went to the United States. His family had scattered—his brother went to France, one sister went to Sweden and the other to America.

BECAME CITIZEN

"When I saw how people were living, I wanted to stay and decided to become an American citizen," Richter said.

"I didn't plan to join the Army again, not after seven years in the Legion, but since I planned to become a citizen I couldn't very well object when I was drafted," Richter said.

With his background as a paratrooper, Richter was a natural for the airborne and wound up with the 4th Battalion of the 173rd Brigade, arriving in Viet Nam about four months ago.

"The United States takes far better care of its men than the Legion did," Richter said, "but in general the Legionnaires were tougher. They were all volunteers."

Counting his Legion experience, Richter is a trained fighter in the desert, the mountains and the jungle. He has been trained as an underwater demolition expert. He has made five combat jumps and has been decorated three times.

"I figure I will be able to do a job here," Richter said. "Anyway, I always wanted to travel."

Hunt And Saturday's Voting

The World endorsed John S. Hunt of Monroe in the first Democratic primary for the North Louisiana seat on the State Public Service Commission, of which he is now a member and Chairman.

We gave that endorsement enthusiastically, although there were five other candidates — some of fine repute. Three of the five were of conceded vote-getting strength.

We now re-endorse Mr. Hunt for the second primary voting next Saturday with even greater enthusiasm. The reaction of the voters throughout North Louisiana to Mr. Hunt's candidacy, as well as the high level manner in which his campaign has been conducted in both primaries, all testify to the soundness of our decision.

The people of the North Louisiana (Third) Public Service District — which includes the 28 parishes from Alexandria in Rapides Parish east to Mississippi, west to Texas and north to Arkansas — gave their approval of our beliefs concerning Mr. Hunt by giving him a record-breaking total vote at a better than 2 to 1 ratio over the nearest of his five opponents in the first primary. They made him high man in 25 of the 28 parishes. He was high man in a tremendous proportion of the more than 800 individual precincts throughout the area, whether urban or rural.

Further, Mr. Hunt's character and caliber have stood forth in the campaigning during both the first primary and the second, now drawing to a close. He has campaigned solely on his ability and qualifications for a post which he already holds, and in which he has served with exceptional distinction for about two and a half years.

He has not used personalities of any type in his campaign, nor has he resorted to innuendo or false inferences. Best of all, he has not permitted those who are helping him in his campaign to do these things. He has confined himself to the important duties of the Public Service Commission and to his own record while part of that Commission.

During Mr. Hunt's two and a half years on the Commission, nearly $2 million in rural telephone expansion has been put into effect or is under way in North Louisiana — approximately $1 million of it this year, which surpasses the total for any past year.

There have been North Louisiana reductions in electric power rates totaling around $5 million in this same period.

The Commission — now under Mr. Hunt's leadership as Chairman — has worked closely with the state Department of Commerce and Industry in learning and meeting needs of already established industry in the state, and particularly in North Louisiana, as well as working with outside industry seeking sites for new plants.

When outside industry considers North Louisiana, it turns in its early consideration to the Public Service Commission. It wants to know what the Commission is doing — or likely to do — on power communications, freight problems — routes and rates — in water, rail and highway transportation. The Commission, with Mr. Hunt as chairman has met every test by outside industry. It has a prime part in current North Louisiana development.

The Public Service Commission has nothing to do with any other agency in the state or with any other state activity except these matters of rates and service from public utilities — and their effect on the consumer, whether the consumer is an individual, an industrial plant, or a prospective factory or industry.

The Commission's job is to see that the consumer gets the lowest rates possible while the company providing services is permitted to make a fair profit, but no more. That has been well done by the present Commission in behalf of both consumer and producer, and Mr. Hunt has played a leading part, particularly for the North Louisiana area.

Why should this setup be changed?

Mr. Hunt is recognized all over the area as a man of unquestionable character, honesty, and capability as a private citizen, as an attorney, and as a public official. The only danger he faces in next Saturday's election is failure of the people to go to the polls and vote. There is no question in our minds that a tremendous majority of the people of North Louisiana want him to remain in his present seat on the Commission. It is up to them to say so Saturday.

Mr. Hunt has the support of many of our outstanding leaders, both civic and political, in North Louisiana — including Congressman Otto Passman of the Fifth Congressional District (Mr. Hunt's home district), and Congressman Speedy Long of the Eighth Congressional District, two of the outstanding conservatives of the federal Congress. We know of no leader of broad importance who has publicly opposed him.

Freedom Benefits Labor

Union labor bosses, apparently always of the opinion that we must take away the people's right of freedom in order to give union labor special advantages, must have found a report issued by the United States Department of Labor a big eye - opener.

Leaders of various unions throughout the nation have long contended that the national right-to-work law, embodied in Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act hurts the cause of legitimate unionism. Yet right - to - work laws, under the Taft-Hartley act, are not anti-union.

The report from the Department of Labor showed that during the four - year period in 1964, the national Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations suffered a net loss of 28,800 members in non - right - to - work states and realized a net gain of 87,000 members in right-to-work states.

In addition, Department of Labor statistics showed right-to-work laws contributed substantially to economic prosperity. The 19 states which have enacted right-to-work laws under Section 14(b) authorization are outstripping the remainder of states in the creation of new jobs in business and industry, in wage improvements and in the production of new wealth and personal income.

On those bases, union labor should be a strong backer of right-to-work laws.

Kennedy Half-Dollar

One act performed by Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of President John F. Kennedy, having to do with her husband's likeness on an American coin, deserves high commendation. It was a noteworthy display of patriotic appreciation of the founding of this nation.

It has been disclosed by the former chief engraver of the United States Mint that it was originally planned to put Kennedy's likeness on the quarter, instead of the half-dollar. Mrs. Kennedy vetoed the idea on the ground that she did not think it fitting for her late husband's likeness to replace that of George Washington. Benjamin Franklin's likeness was replaced instead. Although Franklin was one of the nation's greatest men, we agree with Mrs. Kennedy that it was better not to replace the likeness of the "father" of our country.

Opposes Two Terms

Start, Louisiana

To the Editor:

Your editorial, Sunday, September 4, concerning two terms for governor was one of the most clever smoke screens thrown around a subject that I have seen in many a day. Of course, I doubt that you will print this, but let me remind you that as editor you have a right to print your opinion on any subject. You also have a grave responsibility, if you believe in freedom of speech and freedom of the press to print the views of other people, especially if it is concerning changing what might be a good law for a bad law or vice-versa.

This is a point you missed altogether in your editorial — is a one-term for governor law a good or a bad law? — This is the point which the people should consider about the upcoming proposed amendment. The personality of any man should not be considered in changing the law whether in your judgement you consider him good or bad.

The Scripture says, Come let us reason together. First, a one term law was passed to keep bad governors from building a political machine which was almost impossible to beat. Now suppose that McKeithen is as good as you think he is and suppose Davis and G. Long are as bad as you think they are and the amendment passes as you want it to. You have destroyed your one - term constitutional law, what would keep the Louisiana Legislature from making a three or four term law. If a one term law is bad and a two term law is good, would not reason teach you that a three or four term law would be even better. This might be fine if McKeithen was as good a governor as you say he is and good men like him could be elected to office all the time.

Now, let us look at the other side of the coin. Suppose, the amendment is passed and suppose Davis, Long, or some of the others in what you call minority groups are elected governor or suppose that after the two term amendment was passed MeKeithen should not live to run for Governor again. In either case, would you still want a two, three, or four term amendment.

How about washing the mud out of your eyes and give us an editorial as to whether a one term for governor is a good law or a bad law based on its own merit. I would vote for an amendment to restrict to one four year term in a life time to all law-making bodies from the president on down. Then after they have served their term, they would have to live with the laws which they passed just as the remainder of us. I believe under such a system, the people would be much more watchful of whom they elect.

To the Editor:

Bastrop, Louisiana

I read your Editorial Sunday, September 4, about Governor John McKeithen and I was really proud that I could live in a state headed by such a wonderful man; but then I got to wondering if we both knew the same John McKeithen. Could it be that he is a kind of 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde'?

Is the man you were talking about the same one who attacked Mr. Long and the Lake Gang, and when they started to strike back he suggested that it be dropped "for the good of the state?" And is he the same man who vetoed the miminum wage bill of $1.25 per hour for school lunchroom workers and janitors even though some of them make as little as $25.00 per week? Is he the same man who promised the teachers full implementation of a new salary schedule, but when the election was over he could only give them half of his promise; yet he took more than would have been required for the teachers to pay off another campaign promise to the people of New Orleans?

As for the new industry in the state, and we are proud of it, isn't it a fact that other southern states are enjoying equal or even greater progress? Louisiana is running comparable to Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia, but far behind Texas and Florida. Is our governor responsible for this?

True enough I think we have a great state with many fine people, but as far as I am concerned Mr. McKeithen has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

'Economizing' LBJ Asking $9 Billion

THE $3.1 BILLION in new foreign aid funds slated to be considered by the House next week is a perfect illustration of professing one thing and doing exactly the opposite.

While President Johnson almost daily is stentoriously declaiming about the urgent need for government economizing, at the same time he is insistently demanding that Congress vote more billions for foreign aid spending. His own recommendation early this year was $3.386 billion.

The $3.1 billion figure is what the House Appropriations Committee approved. It may be slashed by the full House, and almost certainly by the Senate. What the final total will be is anyone's guess. But it will definitely be more than $2.5 billion.

In strenuously pressuring Congress for another multi-billion dollar foreign aid appropriation, the President is not only squarely contradicting his frequent economy pronouncements, but deliberately disregarding three directly related facts of which he is fully aware:

1) THE LONG AND scandal-scarred record of gross waste, mismanagement, incompetence boodling and worse that has characterized the handling of foreign aid. These costly failings and misdeeds, running into billions of dollars, have been repeatedly exposed by Senate and House investigations and by the Government Accounting Office. They are a matter of official record, as the President well knows.

2) As of July 1 of this year, there was an estimated $6.739 billion in unexpended funds in the AID (foreign aid agency) pipeline. Previously voted by Congress, this immense sum was available for military and economic aid spending as authorities deemed advisable.

3) Actual Johnson administration requests for new foreign aid funds of all kinds exceed $9 billion. This does not include military assistance for South Viet Nam; that's in the defense budget.

SPELLING IT OUT — Of this last, little - known, highly significant fact, Representative Otto Passman, D-La., head of the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the foreign aid budget, says flatly, "This fantastically immense sum is requested in 15 separate items presented to Congress."

"Only one is listed publicly as being foreign aid," continues Passman, long - time leading opponent of large foreign aid spending. "The other 14 items are just as much a part of the foreign assistance total program as the head is part of the body. Foreign aid has been so fragmentized and so enmeshed in the overall budget that it is difficult for members of Congress to unscramble it."

Following is the list compiled by Passman on new foreign aid funds sought by President Johnson in the first eight months of this year:

Foreign assistance (Mutual Security)	$3,385,962,000
Receipts & Recoveries from previous credits	246,887,000
Military Assistance Advisory Group (MAAG)	74,000,000
Export-Import Bank (long-term credits)	2,500,000,000
Public Law 480 (agricultural commodities)	1,617,000,000
Inter-American Development Bank (Latin America)	250,000,000
International Development Association (IDA)	104,000,000
Peace Corps	112,150,000
Export-Import Bank (regular operations)	600,000,000
Permanent construction overseas (military)	70,500,000
Contributions to international organizations	100,826,000
Educational (foreign and other students)	56,050,000
Ryukyu Islands (regular, supplemental, pre - treaty claims	41,243,000
Migrants and refugees	6,050,000
Atomic Energy Commission (Euratom)	2,000,000
Total	$9,166,668,000

JUICY KITTY — Of the $6.739 billion in unexpended foreign aid funds from previous appropriations, $4.595 billion is for economic assistance, $2.144 billion for military assistance.

Regarding this immense backlog, five members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee say caustically:

"In the President's message to Congress on foreign aid last February, he observed that the requested amount was the absolute minimum to meet foreseeable needs, indicating also that a supplemental appropriation would be requested if a need developed.

"It seems to us that the 'cup runneth over' with funds to be made available, either bilaterally or multilaterally, in this fiscal year, to say nothing of the more than $6.7 billion estimated to be available from prior years' funds. Thus the requested 'new money' is supplemented twice over by the 'old money' authorized and appropriated but not expended, sometimes because of bureaucratic red tape and sometimes because the projects are no good and AID has to find other uses for the money.

"In any event, these actions result in an extraordinarily large unexpended balance of funds — the so-called pipeline —which when added to current fiscal year fund availabilities from all sources, total $12.3 billion — just about four times the amount of the 'minimal' administration request."

MORE BLASTS — Numerous serious AID deficiencies and weaknesses are detailed in a voluminous report on its functioning in Latin America by Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, chairman of the subcommittee on Foreign Aid Expenditures.

Based on first-hand studies of AID operations in Chile and other Latin American countries, Gruening's report charges the following shortcomings:

"Weakness in evaluating merits of projects and programs; lack of 'memory' of previous experiences with which to assist performance and to make operational decisions; constant shuffling of AID employes resulting in dangerous knowledge vacuums; ability to monitor and expedite technical assistance glaringly inadequate; projects flounder because of inadequate technical assistance;

Crying Congressmen Don't Blame Selves

POLITICANS seldom take the blame for troubles they themselves help to create. We see this again in their mumbo-jumbo about today's high interest rates.

When inflation becomes felt in living costs it becomes politically unpopular. So do the accompanying interest rates. But when the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink talk about curbing inflation by knocking down interest rates whom do they think they're kidding?

Their mumbo - jumbo puts the cart in front of the horse.

Interest is merely the rent on money. When the rent on money is high it is the same as if the rent on houses were high. The high rate is not the cause of the inflation. It is the result of the inflation. You can reduce the cost of borrowing only by reducing the inflation.

The main cause of today's inflation is overspending and an over - expansion of credit. If we do not overextend in money and credit the rent of money (interest rates) will automatically adjust to lower rates. This is the way it will always be, for the law of supply and demand cannot be repealed.

THE CHIEF inflationary pressure under our inflation is our government's own mishandling of our money at home and abroad.

Private credit is a privilege, not a right. Government credit is a right, not a privilege. Thus private debt must meet certain repayment standards that limit it. Government debt need only be voted and voted and voted.

The effect is simply to borrow, tax and dollar - depreciate the economy. We should not be diverted by technical factors, theories about "myths," or other politically convenient alibis for financial irresponsibility.

Deficit financing — borrowing to spend more than the government's income — means debt, inflation and unsound money. As a government (any government) continues to spend beyond its income and borrows more and more to pay its bills, the dangers multiply. For its borrowings from banks create more and more credit, increase the money supply and help create the inflation.

THIS CANNOT be stopped until the deficit financing (spending beyond income) is stopped. And if it is not stopped the U. S. dollar goes down the drain. Our dollars are made into dollarettes.

Is this happening? The 1939 dollar now has a purchasing power of less than 45 cents. At the present 1966 rate of decline it will be worth 25 cents in exactly eight years. No wonder we taxpaying peasants have to run faster than Alice just to keep even.

The last and fleeting balanced budget was in 1960, before the New Frontier and Great Society took over. Since then the smallest deficit has been $3.4 billion.

Fiscal 1965-66 expenditures and receipts, including the government trust funds for Social Security and highway building, were far higher than the administrative budget. Payments and collections both exceeded $135 billion. Without these inclusions the administrative budget at $106 billion exceeded $100 billion for the first time.

What happened to President Johnson's famous $100 billion budget? The Administration has finally been forced to put the Viet Nam War in the budget, after the budget was approved by Congress, and with this and other increased spending the deficit will probably be three times as large as President Johnson originally forecast in January.

AS A RESULT, we taxpaying peasants are also smothered by misinformation about the proportion of our earnings that goes to the Great Society's lauded welfare programs in our behalf.

Next to national defense the interest on the money Washington has borrowed is the largest item in the budget. It's more than Mr. Johnson has budgeted for health, welfare and housing combined.

By nature and training, and even with the best intentions, Mr. Johnson talks 90 per cent politics and 10 per cent economics when he gets on economic subjects. But his White House economic advisers, Messrs. Ackley, Duesenberry and Okun — the three blind mice — are supposed to know better. And it is utterly preposterous to deny the relationship between always spending beyond income and inflation (air forced into a balloon) and bust.

As long as the Great Society keeps voting debts onto ou[r] backs, with the monetary re[sults] that inevitably follow fro[m] this process, President Joh[n]son's jabber about keeping [in]terest rates down is merely Ki[ng] Canute shouting back the sea.

Conservative Victory Possible In New York

THERE ARE ALMOST as many analyses of what is going on in New York politics as there are candidates for Governor. Only two of them have any chance at all to win, and between the programs of the two there is nothing at this point of any significance: a ritualistic accent here, a factional purr there, a different set of divinities invoked (Lincoln-Roosevelt-Eienhower) (Jefferson - Roosevelt-Kennedy). Both candidates are centralizers, both of them expert political machinsts, both of them ambitious, though Mr. Rockefeller seems to have abandoned if not the dream of the Presidency at least any hope of its realization; while Mr. Frank O'Connor has always been prepared to cap his career in Albany.

Simply another election, one yawns, even if preparing to pack one's bags and take shelter from the ruination of the Empire State. But shortly before the Democratic nomination, by that time sewed up by O'Connor, the Liberals having carefully waited to see whom the Democrats would nominate, announced that O'Connor would not be acceptable to them. Why not? The Liberals contrived the excuse that O'Connor was the candidate of the bosses. In fact, the Liberals, it is now clear, wanted to run their own man provided they could persuade a luminary to run.

THE REASON why is as simple as that the Conservative party outpolled the Liberals in the New York City race a year ago, and if now it should outpoll the Liberals, it would fall heir to Row "C" in the ballot boxes, wresting from the Liberals the prestige of being the third largest political party in New York. Such an elevation would mean a quantum jump in the Conservatives' political fortunes: kings and ministers and satraps would come wooing them, even as, in the past, they have come to the Mecca of David Dubinsky and Alex Rose. The Liberals face nothing less than the terrible prospect of shriveling into insignificance.

The dreadful question then arose: Who? It had to be a big vote-getter, or else the split with the Democratic nominee would be pointless. None of the Simon-pure left-ideologists who breed in New York like jackrabbits is a tested, or very likely big-time vote-getter, and so since what was important to Boss Rose was that the vote should be large, rather than that the candidate's heart should be pure, what better than to nominate the son of the second person of the Democratic Trinity, Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr.?

IT WAS ALL especially neat in that it had been FDR Jr. who in his primary contest raised the charge against O'Connor that he had made a with the bosses a year a support Beame for May 1965 in return for the b support of himself in 1966. such a deal is about as he as agreeing with one's wi go to a charity ball on Tu if she will adjourn objecti going to the fights on W day. A Useless Sacrifice

The following article is a reprint from The News of Lynchburg, Va., and is one of the best we've seen along this line. The title is "Unless We Win . . A Useless Sacrifice."

It is almost inconceivable to understand the apathy of the American public toward the way President Johnson and his computer boys are conducting the war in Viet Nam after reading something like this. As for me, it is impossible how a real American could stomach the situation we have and not go to the polls when the opportunity arises to vote this type of government out — from the local scene to the national.

The article says:

He's back from his tour of duty in Viet Nam. He's "had it." But of the 12 men, his close "buddies," who went over with him, only two are back. The other ten were killed.

Don't get him wrong. He believes in what they went there to do. He is convinced it has to be finished, and would have been willing to stay, if able. He is a patriot, and knows what it is all about.

But he is also convinced, as he says the other Americans over there are, that it should be finished quickly, with the weapons we have to accomplish it. (No, I don't like to see those people killed, but even so I don't want to see Americans continuing to die over there when it is not necessary.) Every GI knows we have the weapons over there to finish it in one decisive move. And he and the others are convinced no Chinese or other people are going to move in if those necessary weapons are used.

Out of the tighest spot his outfit was in, at night in the jungle, the only way out was if a "chopper" could reach them and lift them out. That is extraordinarily difficult at night, under such circumstances. But a chopper came, with the risk of guidance from their flashlights.

"That chopper crew had guts — all of them do — the way they go in anywhere under fire and get you out, or bring reinforcements."

"In the chopper you don't hear the crack of rifles," but you do hear the bullets going by, and the impact of the ones on target."

The heat, yes; the humidity, yes; the swamps, yes; the mosquitoes? — you learn to sleep through them because you are exhausted and they are so almost always there.

The enemy is rough, tough, merciless — often you can't tell friends from enemies — and they know the country, know how to strike and get away. The Americans are dying without seeing the enemy. But what are they dying for — the diplomats and politicians who lack the guts to call for ending it as we can end it?

This GI knows what it is like. A good soldier, he survived. But "Why should all those guys I know be killed because our government refuses to use what we have to end the war?"

Why, indeed!

They are self-seeking politicians not fighting men. They deal in theories, not in realities. "Who-the-hell cares, in Viet Nam, about who is a Democrat or a Republican?"

But our soldiers care about America, about their country's survival in freedom, about the killing of Americans while peace-mongerings befoul the atmosphere, and the politicians lack the guts to end it.

Our soldiers in Viet Nam know about the Communists back home; they know about those who demonstrate, burn draft cards, while Americans die to save the decent American people from Communist savages.

This GI is clean, decent, intelligent, a fine soldier, a patriot, who knows what it is all about except one thing — why it is moving toward another Korean stalemate; and why there is not an order from the top to end it by destroying the enemy instead of letting it drag while the casualty list lengthens.

A man can't fight with his right arm tied behind his back. That's what it amounts to. And with the referee ignoring the enemy's foul blows. But no men ever fought better than the men who are over there — when the politicians in Washington allow them to, and give them what they need to do the job.

One bomber on a successful run could stop it; one Polaris missile aimed at the right target could paralyze them.

"Yes, my father is an overseas veteran of World War II; I'm a veteran of the war in Viet Nam. More and more bodies are being shipped home; more and more maimed, ill, are being sent back home to the hospitals. But some will never leave a hospital — and what about all the Americans who apparently do not care?"

It's a poignant experience to talk with a GI just back from Viet Nam — quiet, unassuming, intelligent, with a mark on him that will always be there — and a question in his mind that no one in Washington has the guts to answer adequately.

But we have to win — win quickly — to stop it. No treaty means anything. It's just a scrap of paper which says, no matter what the words: We'll stand by this as long as it is to our benefit, and advantage. Nobody ever held to a treaty they didn't like, or was stopped from continuing plans to "get you."

It Is Amazing

To us, it is still amazing to hear people say they can't understand the riots, why college students and others do the things they do.

The answer should be easy. Just recall some of the statements by our so-called leaders, the people who should know better, the political leaders, civil rights chieftains and clergymen.

Read the following examples of how the fires of revolution and violence have been started:

President Johnson: "I am proud this morning to salute you as fellow revolutionaries. Neither you nor I am willing to accept the tyranny of poverty, nor the dictatorship of ignorance, nor the despotism of ill health, nor the oppressions of bias and prejudice and bigotry. We want change. We want progress. We want it both abroad and at home — and we aim to get it . . . I hope that you . . . will go into the hinterland and rouse the masses and blow the bugles and tell them that the hour has arrived and their day is here; that we are on the march against enemies and we are going to be successful." (Aug. 3, 1965, speech at White House to college students.)

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York: "There is no point in telling Negroes to obey the law" because "to many Negroes the law is the enemy" and in the New York riot areas the law "has almost always been used against Negroes." (Statement of Aug. 17, 1965).

Vice President Hubert Humphrey: Describing what he would do if the had to live in slums — "I think you'd have more trouble than you have had already, because I've got enough spark left in me to lead a mighty good revolt under those conditions." The Vice President also said that unless Congress provides rent subsidies for the poor "we will have open violence in every major city and county of America." (July 18, 1966, speech in New Orleans.)

These rabble-rousing statements are clearly written in the record. Even though Johnson, Humphrey, and Kennedy all disavow violence, the evidence is that their very statements have had the effect of inciting mobs to violence in the nation.

The World's Week In Focus

Gemini 11 Astronauts Soar To New Heights

By Oland Silk

British Fliers in World War II called their successful missions against the Jerries "a piece of cake." Compared to the studiedly nonchalant R.A.F. pilots, American spacemen act as if they were happy school boys and their missions a mere lark on a roller coaster.

"We're out of this world."

"Utterly fantastic. The world is round."

"Ride 'em cowboy."

These were a few of the expressions of Gemini 11 pilots Chuck Conrad and Dick Gordon last week as they zipped through a three-day mission that was indeed a piece of cake.

Perhaps the cake sagged in spots, but the icing — space records, that is — was a subject calling forth awed appreciation. Consider these marks:

FASTEST rendezvous using on-board equipment. Other flights had help from the ground. Getting dashedly independent.

FIRST multiple docking in space. Each astronaut did it twice.

FIRST flight of tethered vehicles. The Gemini craft and its Agena flew for three hours tied together with a 100-foot-nylon tether.

LONGEST extra - vehicular activity: Gordon exposed to vacuum for two hours, 52 minutes.

FIRST automatic re-entry. On previous flights, astronauts have manually controlled re-entry or shot back on a ballistic course.

The astronauts splashed within view of television cameras stationed aboard the pickup carrier Guam, sitting off Florida. The splashdown was closer than any other manned spacecraft has come to its main recovery ship — only two miles.

BEARDED and smiling, Conrad and Gordon spoke briefly to the welcoming sailors aboard the Guam. Said Conrad: "We have a very good flight and after a couple of hours reset we'll be ready to go again."

Gordon added, "This old world looks pretty good from the deck of this carrier. But I'll tell you something else, it looks great from 850 miles up. You ought to see that."

Their mission was one in a series whose ultimate goal is a moon landing in 1970.

A joint session of Congress was treated to stirring oratory from Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos last week. Among other things he said the United States has become the "guardian of the hopes of Asia. You have ensured the security of my part of the world. We have followed you and we do not regret it." The Philippines has 2,000 men in Viet Nam, mostly in construction work. Marcos, a bright new voice in Asia, received an increase in U.S. aid to bolster his economic programs, and signed a pact reducing U.S. leases on bases in his country from 99 to 25 years. He is here on a 15-day visit.

More Primaries

THE PRIMARIES are about over. From now until November 8, politicians will concentrate on that one opponent standing between them and the public trough. Here are the results of last week's major contests:

Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, rejected for renomination by his own Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, defeated A. M. "Sandy" Keith to win nomination for governor. The DFL party convention had endorsed Keith over Rolvaag, but the people had the last word. Rolvaag will face Republican Harold LeVander, a South Paul lawyer, in November.

EDWARD J. McCormack whipped Kenneth P. O'Donnell for the Democratic nomination for governor in Massachusetts. McCormack, tumbled into political obscurity four years ago when he was defeated by Edward Kennedy for the U.S. Senate, is a former state attorney general and nephew of House Speaker John McCormack. O'Donnell is a former White House aide of President John Kennedy. He was favored by the Kennedy family, although they did not actively participate in the campaign. McCormack will oppose Republican Governor John Volpe, a veteran of two two-year terms.

In Maryland, contractor George P. Mahoney won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He campaigned primarily in opposition to open housing. He defeated Rep. Carlton Sickles who supported it. Mahoney now faces GOP executive Spiro Agnew.

Former Massachusetts Governor Endicott Peabody, trying for a comeback, defeated Boston Mayor John F. Collins in the Democratic race for Senate nomination. Peabody will face in November Republican Attorney General Edward Brooke, who, if victorious, would be the first Negro in the U.S. Senate since the 1880s.

ELLIS ARNALL, balding, liberal ex-governor of Georgia, rolled up a big lead in the Democratic gubernatorial primary — and waited out the returns to see who his runoff opponent would be. Out of six rivals, Lester Maddox, arch segregationist of Pickwick fame, emerged triumphant. The Arnall-Maddox clash is expected to test the weight of growing progressivism in Georgia.

Arnall was governor 20 years ago. He campaigned as a progressive, saying, "I am a local Democrat, a Georgia Democrat and a national Democrat." Maddox berated the federal government, but left many details of his conservatism to the imagination. He attributed his runoff success to "God and a lot of wonderful Georgians." Maddox is known nationally for shutting down his fried chicken business rather than serve Negroes. The winner will run against Rep. Howard "Bo" Callaway, Republican Congressman who quit his post to run for governor.

IN ANOTHER part of the political forest, former Vice President Nixon set out to help Republican candidates for Congress. He plans to speak in 30 states. The major issue confronting the voters in 1966 he said, will be "Johnson's prices and Johnson's interest rates." In Ohio, Nixon, whom most party leaders believe will be the 1968 nominee for president, assailed Johnson as a medicine man. "He spoons out bad-tasting medicine," he declared, "and tells you that everything is going to be all right. But once he's left town, all you have left is the bad taste in your mouth and the problems are still there."

Nixon believes the GOP must win a minimum of 30 seats in November or the party is done for.

MEANWHILE, in Washington, Senator Everett Dirksen and Rep. Gerald Ford challenged Johnson to reveal whether he plans to ask Congress after the Nov. 8 elections for a tax increase, wage-price controls or a poverty war slowdown. The Republican demand came as more industry spokesmen testified before the House Ways and Means Committee against the President's proposals to suspend the 7 per cent tax credit for business investment. They also opposed plans to accelerate depreciation schedules on commercial buildings.

Trouble In Grenada

ONE HUNDRED and forty-six Negro pupils marched into the John Rundle High School and an elementary school in Grenada, Mississippi Friday without incident. No one knew for sure how many white children were attending. It was an enforced calm after a tense week featuring lawlessness and brutality.

Trouble started last Monday when several hundred whites showed up at the two schools. They attacked Negro children and newsmen with ax handles, chains, broom sticks, tree limbs, and fists. One 12-year old Negro boy suffered a broken leg. The angry crowd attacked a UPI reporter, and two photographers from the Memphis Press-Scimitar. Their cameras were smashed. One photographer, Jack Cantrell, wrote a first person account of his violent encounter.

CANTRELL said he saw a mob of whites coming toward him, but didn't think they were after him. He discovered too late that he was on target. They jerked the camera from around his neck, and swarmed over him with broomsticks and fists flailing. He fought back, but fell to the street where they kicked and stomped him. Cantrell said he fought his way to his feet and started swinging wildly.

"I was so completely dazed and swinging so wildly that I hit the deputy sheriff right square in the mouth," he said. "He looked at me and a city policeman said to me: 'Man, what are you doing hitting him for, he's a sheriff." Cantrell apologized for the error.

THAT WAS on Monday. Gov. Paul Johnson moved State police into Grenada after it became clear that local policemen made no real effort to protect the children and newsmen.

The troopers, dressed in riot gear, gradually got things under control. Attorney General Katzenbach, meanwhile, filed a suit demanding that Grenada officials be made to protect the Negro children. Witnesses testified in court Thursday.

Grenada is a northern Mississippi farm town of 8,000, almost half of whom are Negroes.

IN ATLANTA, Mayor Ivan Allen wrestled with a tumultuous situation left in the wake of riots two weeks ago. He met with Negro leaders, and at one point offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a white person who fired from a car killing a 16-year-old Negro boy. A police officer was wounded in the same melee. Trouble lasted two straight nights before calm was restored.

Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, was convicted of a contempt of Congress charge. He is subject to a maximum penalty of one year imprisonment and a $1,000 fine. The Alabama Klansman was cited for refusing to turn over KKK records. His defense was that the House Un-American Activities Committee didn't specify what it meant by "records."

IN WASHINGTON, Senator Dirksen stuck to his guns in opposition to the 1966 civil rights bill with its open housing provision. President Johnson tried to dissuade his but failed. Cloture—a vote to shut off debate — in this case, a filibuster — lost by 10 votes. The hard-core opposition includes 21 Republicans and 21 Democrats. A last effort will be made tomorrow to invoke cloture, but no one predicts success.

Powell In A Jam

A "BLACK power" advocate, Stokely Carmichael, was released on bond in Atlanta after being jailed on charges of instigating a riot. In Washington, his old friend Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was in a squeeze of a different sort. The preacher - legislator faced a revolt on his House Education and Labor Committee. It could blow up into one of the nastiest fights Congress has had in years.

Led by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a group of committee Democrats hope to put through rules changes that would leave Powell as chairman in name only. All power would be placed in the hands of six sub-committee chairmen. Gibbons said he moved to act because of Powell's excessive absences, his dismissal of key staff personnel without apparent reason and his "black power" advocacy. Gibbons, a racial moderate who voted for the civil rights bill, said Powell missed 164 of 218 roll calls in the House this year.

POWELL first revealed the plot against him Thursday. He said it was racist - motivated, an "incredible proposal."

The bill to raise the minimum hourly wage to $1.60 in 1968 and extend coverage to eight million more workers was on the President's desk. The first hike would be to $1.40 next Feb. 1. Those covered will be some farm workers, non-teaching employees of grade and high schools, hotel, hotel, cafe, laundry, transit system, and college and university employees.

Foreign Highlights

EIGHTY per cent of South Viet Nam's five million people voted for a Constituent Assembly in spite of Viet Cong terrorism and a Buddhist boycott. U. S. officials, lukewarm at first count, had decided by week's end that the successful elections pointed to more stability than could have been forseen months ago, and that the turnout was a testimonial to Premier Ky and his government. Ky himself was ecstatic over the results.

The Assembly will write a Constitution, and then disband. American officials tend to favor a presidential system for the new government, but will keep hands off. A sure recipe for disaster, they figure, would be for the U. S. to impose a formula on the legislators.

On the military side in Viet Nam, it was a week that saw more Marines land; the largest aerial assault of the war on North Viet Nam; a daring pre-dawn raid by a Viet Cong demolition squad into a military motor pool near Saigon which blew up 52 trucks. Losses totaled $1 million.

THE NATIONALIST Party of South Africa unanimously chose Justice Minister John Vorster as the new Prime Minister to replace Hendrik Verwoerd. The new premier was militantly pro-German in World War II, and as Justice Minister kept a tight grip on the all-white government's enemies and critics. Vorster (pronounced Foster) said he planned to "walk further along the path on which Dr. Verwoerd fell."

Red China suspended its sweeping nationwide purge and ordered the Red Guard youths to halt their revolutionary drive. The teen-agers were reportedly interfering with farm and factory workers. In one town, a crowd of 100,000 battled the guards when they demanded the resignation of the mayor. Mao's government apparently believes production is more important right now than purges and youthful rampages.

THE BRITISH Commonwealth sent an ultimatum to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to end his 10-month rebellion by December 31 or face new sanctions. Britain has refused to use force on the minority - ruled country, which has rebelled against taking steps to bring majority rule to the colony's four million blacks.

United Nations diplomats refused to accept as final Secretary General U Thant's repeated declaration that he will leave office when his term expires Nov. 3. Thant himself advised all concerned to get on with picking his successor, rather than waste time trying to draft him for an extended term.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Organization, like public opinion, can be a great force for good, when it happens to be on that side. And the Twin City area last week was witnessing a lot of organizing and organizations at work — of the good sort, to be sure.

In a nutshell, "Let's get organized!" was more than a slogan. It was the week's rallying cry for the Monroe Chamber of Commerce for one example, and of local governmental entities for another. Other brainpower was sluicing along the same channel.

At the same time, major public and business improvement projects were in motion that made perfectly manifest the benefits that may be expected of forward-looking planning and organization.

TYLER

And, although the week's news included also some superlative examples of plans that go awry, the momentum of an overall optimism is being brought forward into the week starting today.

But to begin at the beginning, the Chamber last week was laying a foundation of steel beneath its idealistic image of the area, as sketched in a 78-point Program of Progress released in May. Even with five years to work—the period covered by the Chamber blueprint — only so many steps can be taken at a time.

PRIORITIES

Those steps were laid out, as priorities were assigned to 15 principal aims of the original 78, under five major headings—balanced community development, community analysis, comprehensive planning, revitalization, and modernization of local government.

Leaders and planners have a literal tiger by the tail — in the sense that they can hardly hold or let go — and the Monroe area is booming with an intensity that presents the happy challenge of providing the best possible direction for a sure growth.

One of the foremost requirements the Chamber pointed out is additional work at Selman Field. Already equipped with an ultra - modern terminal at the field, befitting its role as a business hub, Monroe has not yet acquired runways to give access to the jet flights of tomorrow. One-thousand-foot extensions are on the agenda.

Among numerous other pointers set in place were plans to make Monroe worthy of its name as the Convention City in accommodating the expected doubling of visitors when the new Civic Center is completed. New business parks were called for to further improve the area's industrial climate.

Amid such growth and prospective growth, may not the several governing bodies of a thriving area tread upon one another's toes? It has, in fact, already been demonstrated that they can and do, but an effort was advanced last week that will make such a dancer's dilemma a thing of the past.

What it was was inter - governmental planning, a concept the likely benefits of which were agreed upon earlier this year in a meeting of top officialdom arranged by the Chamber shortly after the release of its progress guidelines.

Officials last week were generating their own steam, however, as Robert Downing of the Ouachita Police Jury's inter - governmental committee announced the scheduling for next Thursday of a working meeting in the office of Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard.

No formal agenda was released, but one isn't needed, according to Downing. The precedent is the value of the meeting and the "understanding" that such a group — customized and flexibly — can meet quickly in the future, or at the drop of a problem. Coming to the session, besides Downing's six-man committee and Howard, are West Monroe Mayor Bert Hatten and engineers from each of the three governments. The mayors welcomed the meeting and Downing expected "a lot of good to come of it."

PRIME EXAMPLE

A prime example of what efficiency of organization can produce was the announcement last week that the $708,000 plant of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation is nearing completion. Actual operations at the plant in the Selman Industrial Park will start before the end of the year, the announcement by Sen. Russell B. Long and ITT executive Vice President John Lobb said.

Training of employees, most from the Monroe area, will begin next month. Though the plant was built by the City of Monroe for lease to ITT, it will be a part of the operating family of ITT's Cannon Electric Division and will manufacture electrical connectors. Long, a key voice in describing Monroe's advantages during the ITT deliberations before locating, said at groundbreaking last winter that the operation could grow to mammoth proportions.

Assignment of the plant to the Cannon Division was read as a good omen along these lines.

Separate from but pertinent to the ITT announcement was word during the week from Louisiana Highway Board Vice Chairman James W. Moore of Monroe that federal sources have approved a significant request which would simplify access to the industrial park from Interstate-20. Though financing of the approximately $200,000 project is not entirely clear, an interchange at the I-20 and Garrett Road was approved in principle by the Bureau of Roads. Preliminary design is under preparation.

Planning paid off in still another area last week as the long - awaited shift of Ouachita courthouse operations began, putting commencement of construction in a $1.7 million expansion and renovation project just around the corner. The move of courthouse agencies, to be completed early in October, is itself to a location scarcely more than just around the corner.

The facilities are being set up for the required time — about 18 months — in the former Ouachita High School, only a couple of blocks away, on South Grand Street. First to move was the parish voter registrar, Mrs. Mae Lucky.

Another project on South Grand received a shot in the arm and fresh news value from courthouse action, when the police jury resolved for a Ouachita "riverward" repair job on the floodwall gap from Bry Street to Grammont.

In a related action, the jury joined the Tensas Levee Board, which will share costs with Uncle Sam — in rejecting the less expensive but more detrimental - to - business approach to repair that would bulid the floodwall through 11 existing buildings — 10 of them occupied.

SALES TAX

At least seemingly dormant for a time, the controversial proposal of a Fifth District sales tax for educational — and other — purposes last week returned to the headlines. The tax plan stalled when disagreement reared its head over distribution of a so-called surplus — that amount, nearly half the funds which would be collected, remaining after payment of school salaries.

Superintendents from throughout the district gathered in Monroe on Tuesday and presumably agreed on a new assessment of how much money they would require of any acceptable split. A committee was formed to transmit the latest thoughts of the group to Gov. John McKeithen and ask him to include in the coming special Legislature a reworking of the tax bill along new, undisclosed lines.

Though reporters and the public weren't privy to the meeting's content, Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, whose administration would share handsomely in the original plan's surplus, could see writing on the wall. He said, as the superintendents were meeting in secrecy, that any plan not considering the salary needs of municipal employees would forfeit city support and, by and large, foredoom itself.

Howard and West Monroe Mayor Hatten still have suspended their public consideration some weeks ago of a sales tax of their own, exclusively for municipal pay raises. It could be a race to the polls.

For his part, Ouachita School Supt. Milton C. Hall saw a substantial problem on the horizon in getting and holding teachers, even if the considerable maneuvering results finally in full implementation of their boosted pay scale. In some south Louisiana parishes, he said, salaries this fall soared to nearly $1,000 more per year than Fifth District systems can pay.

But, from across the state, the week's skipping news pattern jumped across town and to the Monroe City School Board. Plagued with the growing likelihood of an insufficiency of funds in its $6 million building program to match the announced goals of the program, the board also was struggling with a budget originally thought insufficient to continue payment of the system's $200 annual "cost of living" supplement.

Belts were tightened, however, after consultation with officials in Baton Rouge, and the $3.7 million budget adopted in a special meeting Wednesday included funds to pay $100. Hope for the other half of the supplement was not abandoned, but that package hangs by the thread of the budget's surplus, if any.

Budgets and sales taxes were not the only issues of size being dealt with by the respective local school boards. A record figure by the end of the first day of registration, enrollment for the new school year was pushed further skyward by the two - week registration reports. Totalling an aggregate of over 28,300 students, the reports listed more than 10,800 for the city, and almost 17,500 for the parish.

During this time, registration and commencement of regular classes were taking place at Northeast Louisiana State College and at Louisiana Tech, although no totals were available at press time. At the Ouachita Valley Vocational-Technical School in West Monroe, the enrollment, in new quarters, set an outstanding record of 438.

OTHER NEWS

As is customary, in lieu of elaboration in this dwindling space on a limited number of subjects, an effort is forthwith made to touch on as many items as possible for the benefit of returning travellers. Also last week:

—Monroe made a new move of its own in the planning field, amending its budget and allocating $10,000 to start a fund for participation in the purchase of major road rights-of-way. The fund, to be supplemented annually, is aimed at ensuring the availability of property, when it is needed, near the pattern of major arteries.

—The city lost a revered former citizen, C. E. Wollman, who died in Houston, Tex., at the age of 76 and as the top officer of Delta Airlines. Though headquarters now is in Atlanta, Ga., Woolman founded Delta in Monroe nearly 40 years ago as a crop dusting firm and brought the stockholders' meeting each year back to Monroe.

—The threat of a strike and-or a boycott came to West Monroe, where the town's aldermen refused a contract with a union of municipal employees. Officials maintained that, even in the absence of a contract, the provisions of a former one, now cancelled, are being maintained.

—Mrs. B. W. Biedenharn was appointed by the police jury to another five-year term on the library control board of control, and the Monroe City Council named John I. Neel and Mrs. Mildred Ewing to new terms of the same length on the Monroe-Ouachita Regional Planning Commission.

New Round Due In Long-Standing TFX Plane Dispute

TFX stands for tactical fighter, experimental. The initials have also come to spell controversy. For three years, Washington has been abuzz over whether a Pentagon decision to select one version of the TFX over another has resulted in a colossal blunder. The controversy is expected to continue for more years to come.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said he wanted a single fighter aircraft of great dependability at the lowest possible cost for joint use by the Navy and Air Force.

What McNamara ultimately got was four aircraft and speculation by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., that maybe he had committed "a reckless, $5-billion blunder."

Each of the four aircraft is a distinct version of the variable wing, TFX — tactical fighter, experimental — now called the F111.

To explore the possibility of a costly blunder, the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, headed by McClellan, is preparing to reopen the TFX hearings which were recessed Nov. 20, 1963.

Under present plans, the subcommittee's hearings probably will be resumed in January or February although there may be one brief session this fall to receive a TFX progress report from the Pentagon.

CRUX OF DISPUTE

The crux of the dispute is this: Did McNamara force a second best aircraft on the Navy and Air Force in an attempt to save $1 billion?

Was the section of the design submitted by General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex., over the one proposed by the Boeing Co., of Seattle inspired by either politics or favoritism? Or both?

Now, nearly three years later, only one thing is clear:

General Dynamics and its principal subcontractor, Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., of Bethpage, N.Y., have, so far, failed to develop an aircraft acceptable to the Navy.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told McClellan on the Senate floor in August:

"The Navy stated it could not use the plane in its present configuration and size."

McClellan said he wanted to know — and said the country needed to know — whether the performance of the TFX as a weapons system was being sacrificed just to achieve an aircraft for use by the Navy and Air Force.

NOT WANTED

The Marine Corps, a part of the naval establishment, has already told Congress, the F111 is unsuitable for its purposes.

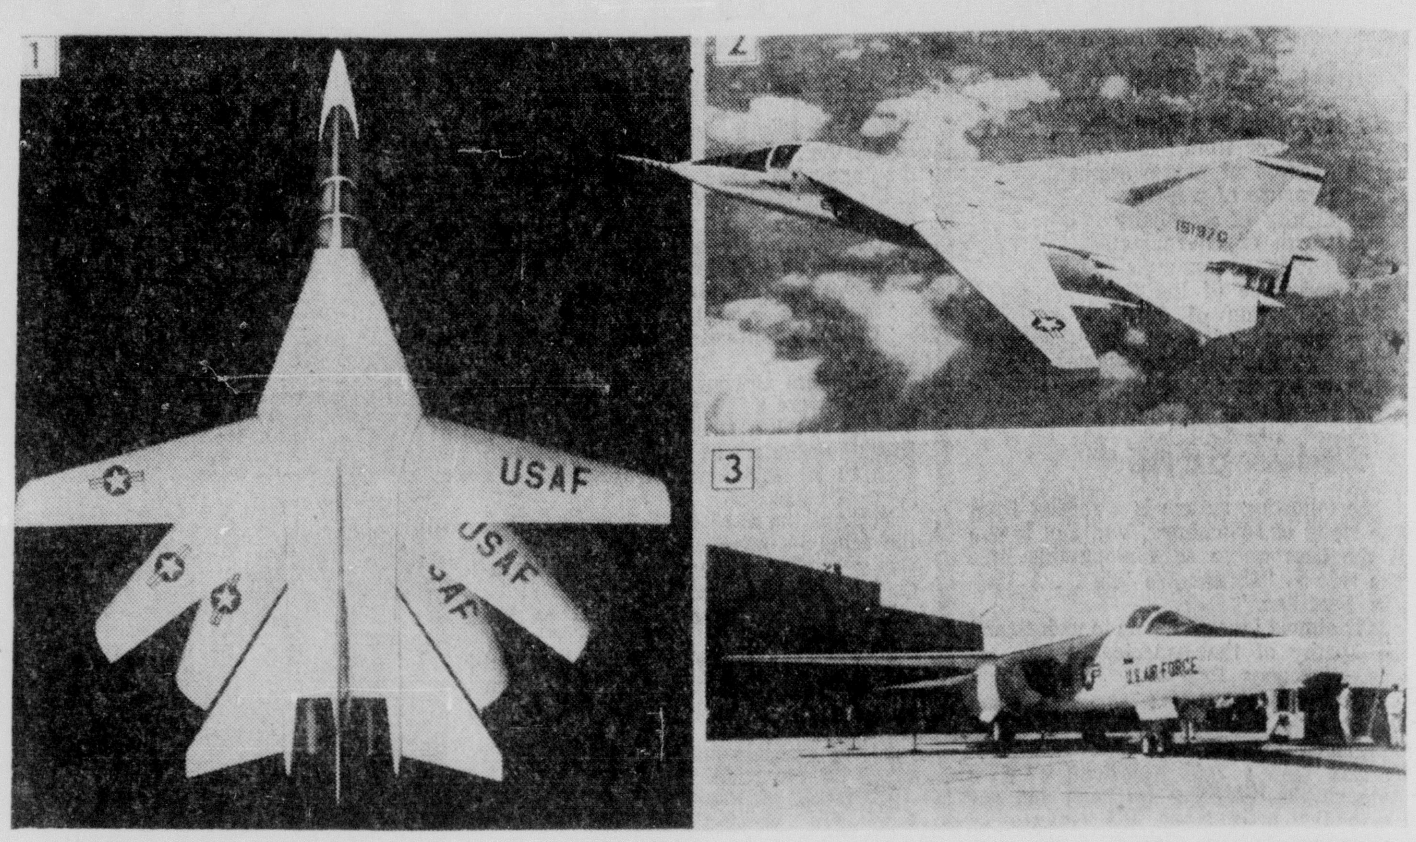
McClellan said he also wanted to know the terms of the contract for the sale of 50 of the F111s to Australia. The ultimate "buy" is reportedly around 574 for both nations.

The whole subject of the F111 is a touchy one in Breat Britain and Australia. The present British purchase order totals $840 million for 50 planes, including spare parts and spare engines.

In buying the F111 as a strike aircraft, the British abandoned development of their own fighter-bomber, the TSR 2, a fact which brought a chorus of protests.

McNamara told Congress in 1963 he had set out to acquire "an advanced fighter, offering substantial performance advantages over the previous models."

"It seemed clear to me," he explained, "that my second and third objectives, maximizing the dependability and minimizing the cost, could be best accomplished if the Air Force and Navy were to utilize the same aircraft."



ORIGINALLY the controversial Tex. - - Tactical Fighter, Experimental - - came off the drawing boards about three years ago. Here (1) is the Defense Department's recently-released drawing of the plane, showing movable wing positions. Assembly of the first test model is anticipated later this year; (2) the F111B is the Navy's version which was flight-tested in May of this year; and (3) the F-111, which is the U.S. Air Force's version of the "TFX." (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

CONCEPT EXPANDED

As matters now stand, McNamara's single TFX fighter concept has expanded to development of four aircraft. They are:

F111A — an Air Force fighter-bomber capable of exceeding 1,500 miles an hour at 60,000 feet.

F111B — a Navy interceptor with performance characteristics similar to F111A, but with a shorter nose and "high lift" wings three feet longer. It must be operable from carriers.

FB 111 — A strategic bomber which is essentially an F111A with Navy wings and a "stretched" fuselage to give it more fuel capacity.

General Dynamics has a contract to build 16 prototypes of the F111 for the Air Force, while Grumman is to build five for Navy consideration.

Originally, General Dynamics proposed to build 1,700 of the F111s for $5.5 billion, whereas Boeing proposed to build a like number for $5.4 billion.

EXTENSIVE TESTIMONY

To understand the controversy, it is essential to go back to the 1963 hearings which began Feb. 26 and recessed Nov. 20. The hearings developed 2,740 pages of testimony.

The McClellan subcommittee heard testimony that four times a source selection board had accepted the evaluation work of a 235-man team of military and civilian aviation experts. These experts had assigned operation superiority to the Boeing design each time.

Four times, the subcommittee was told, McNamara ordered a re-evaluation of the findings, an act which the subcommittee heard was without precedent in the Pentagon's history.

On the fourth go-round, and after both General Dynamics and Boeing had submitted revised designs, the evaluators concluded there was little to chose from although Boeing still was assigned a slight operational superiority.

EXPLAINED DECISION

In explaining his decision, McNamara said the General Dynamics design was more conventional than Boeing's; that Boeing's cost estimates were "unrealistic"; that Boeing in trying to meet the Navy's weight requirements 50,000 pounds fully fueled and armed was, in truth, offering two planes, whereas he thought he could save $1 billion by adhering to the one plane concept.

The subcommittee asked Joseph L. Campbell, then comptroller general, to ascertain from McNamara just how he arrived at the estimated $1 billion savings figure. What were the basic calculations?

Campbell then testified:

"McNamara went back to the beginning to give us the whole story of the whole philosophy and the planning. When it came time to examine the records he stated that he had the figures in his head, indicating to us he did not have them on paper."

To clarify the differences in performance offered by General Dynamics and Boeing, the committee prepared a chart, the accuracy of which was attested to by Air Force Col. Roy A. Jaynes, weapons system staff officer for the F111TFX.

For security reasons an "X factor" common denominator was assigned to each aircraft.

CHART SHOWING

In relation to the General Dynamics' design, the ferry range of the Boeing planes "X" plus 1,276 miles.

Boeing's proposed plane could carry 69 per cent more bombs with the wings fully extended; 11 per cent more with the wings swept back a full 72.5 degrees.

Boeing's plane could carry 50 per cent more nuclear bombs; 100 per cent more air-to-air missiles.

Further, Boeing's design afforded the Navy model an ability to "loiter" on combat air patrol 5½ times longer than General Dynamics.

General Dynamics' was rated superior in size, a fact which would enable the Navy to carry five more aboard a carrier than the plane proposed by Boeing.

A memorandum, dated Nov. 21, 1962, justifying the selection of General Dynamics, was introduced into the hearings. It was signed by McNamara, Navy Secretary Fred North and Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert.

It read: "Inasmuch as either of the proposed aircraft can perform the mission required by both services and the evaluation of the proposals provide no overriding margin between the competitors, it is necessary to consider other factors.

COMPARABLE BASIS

"The first of these is the degree of commonness. On a reasonably comparable basis, 85 per cent of the parts in the General Dynamics version are identical, contrasted with 60 per cent in the Boeing versions. Boeing is, in effect, proposing two different aircraft."

In his one and only brief personal appearance before the committee, McNamara asserted that at the decision-making level in the Pentagon "we desire that there be no influence whatsoever of self-interest. To the best of my knowledge there is none."

McNamara told the committee in response to questions, there was absolutely no connection between the selection of General Dynamics and the fact that the then vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, came from Texas.

The defense chief said that in his opinion there were three areas in which he thought he might be questioned — political influence, financial self-interest and "ignorance, stupidity or poor judgment."

Since he had denied political interference and made public a record of all his financial holdings, McNamara said, that left only the third category and he had made the General Dynamics decision on the basis of what he thought best for the nation.

Since the committee has yet to issue a report, conclusions on the subject of politics and possible influence have been left hanging.

All of this was nearly three years ago. General Dynamics has turned out 14 of the proposed 16 prototypes for the Air Force, while Grumman has built four for the Navy.

TECHNICAL PROBLEMS

Both General Dynamics and Grumman still have myriad technical problems to solve, not the least of which is still the weight of the Navy version of the F111.

Then there is the matter of costs.

The General Dynamics' contract for prototype production was $571 million. As of last June 30, the Air Force alone had obligated $882 million to the F111A, while Navy costs were above $210 million. The Navy originally contemplated spending $84 million on its version.

Pentagon sources report the unit cost of the F111A is now above $6 million, while the unit costs of the F111B are between $8 and $9 million.

The Pentagon said by way of explanation: "Government change orders to improve the capability account for 85 to 90 per cent of the total increased cost of developing the F111."

The unit cost projected in the 1963 hearing was $2.9 million.

COST ESTIMATES

To buy 800 of the F111A's and 150 of the F111B's at the current unit price would cost about $5.4 billion — without spare parts or engines.

If the Pentagon bought 1,700 as originally planned, including 450 F111B's, the cost would be around $11.1 billion — again without spares.

The Navy is to make a final evaluation of the F111B sometime in March or April.

With reports circulating that the Pentagon was prepared to buy 475 of the F111A's and 25 of the F111B's in the near future, McClellan offered an amendment to the defense appropriations measure which forbids the Pentagon from using unexpended funds to buy production models of the F111B.

It was adopted.

Shock Waves Are Increasing From War

Viet Nam has been described as a small dog with a huge tail. Every wag shakes the world. It has estranged the United States from its European allies, intensified the Soviet - China split, frightened and divided Asia. An analyst asks, 'Will the next wag start World War III?'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

By most comparisons in history, the war in South Viet Nam is only a little thing, a backwoods fight. But increasingly it is sending shock waves throughout the world.

The little nation's long, cruel struggle to survive affects and often shapes great nation policies which have grave meaning for the prospects for world peace or global war.

South Viet Nam is not much bigger than the state of New York in area and has about as many people. Yet the backlash of its struggle is felt almost everywhere — a tiny tail wagging a Gargantuan dog.

The guerrilla war in Viet Nam complicates and confuses relations between the United States and its allies. It does the same for Red China and the Soviet Union. It contributes to sharp divisions of opinion at high levels within governments of big and little nations, and makes policy-shaping difficult.

As the great nations become more and more involved in the conflict over Viet Nam, weaker and smaller countries have nightmares. They have noted a warning from U Thant, U. N. secretary-general that World War III can result from the struggle through gradual escalation on all sides.

HEAVY IMPACT

For the United States, there never has been a crisis quite like the Viet Nam crisis. It has had a heavy impact on U. S. activities around the world. It has taken the American eye off other situations of far-reaching importance to U.S. and Western security. It has contributed to a general weakening of the American position in Europe and damaged U. S. alliances there and elsewhere. It has caused political and economic difficulties inside the United States itself.

But it is a problem for the Communist world too — a big one.

As matters stand, the Soviet Union probably would like to see an outcome in Viet Nam leaving Moscow's reputation undamaged. Yet Moscow needs lessened tensions in the West if it is to get going on its internal growth problems. The war has hindered U. S.-Soviet approaches, though it has not entirely precluded them.

As matters stand, China probably wants continued war in Viet Nam, but not to the point where it might mean a showdown with the United States through direct Chinese involvement. Red China has invested in Viet Nam its hopes of recovering from severe diplomatic setbacks elsewhere in the world.

Neither Soviet nor Chinese help to the Vietnamese Communists is likely to be substantial enough to have heavy economic repercussions at home. But there is some effect. For China it probably requires some strain and some cutting back on plans for economic penetration elsewhere. And while the Soviet investment is trifling alongside that of the United States, it is nonetheless expensive and may have played a role in a retrenchment of Soviet foreign aid, which has failed to meet expectations, for example, of India and some of the African nations.

It is on the political side that the Viet Nam conflict does its greatest damage to the Communists.

In 1954, when North Viet Nam came into being as a Communist state, it had to rely on two main sources of help — the U. S. S. R. ad China. The Viet Nam situation itself did not cause the Soviet-Chinese split, but the existence of the war has been a big part in the world Communist quarrel.

CALL BLUDGEON

For the Red Chinese regime, the Viet Nam situation is a club with which to beat the Russians, whom Peking accuses of being secretly in league with the United States and giving "sham help" to the Vietnamese Communists.

For their part, the Russians use a call for "unity of action on Viet Nam" as a bludgeon against the Chinese, to demonstrate that Peking obstructs the aims of a united world communism.

Since the beginning of this year, the Viet Nam conflict has deepened and aggravated the Soviet-Chinese split. Red China looked with deep suspicion on the mission to North Viet Nam of a high-ranking Soviet leader. Peking claimed that Moscow tipped off Washington in advance of what it was up to, and that the United States paused in its bombing of the north "in the hope that the Soviet Union would exert influence to persuade Hanoi to sit down at the conference table." Russia, said Peking, was involved in a "holy alliance" with the United States to surround, isolate and contain China.

On the other hand, Moscow accused the Chinese of obstructing the flow of Soviet supplies to North Viet Nam, and of otherwise confounding hopes for "unity and cohesion of the Communist camp."

Viet Nam had yet another effect, however, so far as Moscow and the West were concerned. It tended to focus Soviet attention on Europe, as it sought to turn its back on the grave risks involved in too much involvement with the Southeast Asia powder keg.

Europe seemed to be losing its fear of the Soviet Communists. Viet Nam had tended to cast Moscow in the role of potential peacemaker, whether the Russians wanted it that way or not. A parade of leaders — Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, President Charles de Gaulle of France. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, U Thant of the United Nations and others — journeyed to Moscow to talk about Viet Nam.

India, too, is bedevilled by the Viet Nam War and by a certain amount of ambiguousness of attitude. China is regarded as a menace. Pro-Western Indians say openly that the United States is fighting India's war in Viet Nam, because if the Americans were not there, the Chinese threat would be far more ominous. But Indians are Asians. A war between Asians and white men is unpopular, despite their fear of the Chinese.

In Indonesia, many express the opinion that the Viet Nam war had much to do with keeping a nation of 107 million people from falling into the hands of the pro-Chinese Communists last fall. They speculate that had it not been for the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia, the Communist timetable might have been more careful. There is a good possibility that the temptation to Peking was irresistible to seek Communist control of that sprawling, strategic nation and thus close a geographic nutcracker on Southeast Asia.

Peking inspiration evidently was behind the abortive coup which blew up and brought destruction to the Indonesian Communist party and mortification to Peking.

Viet Nam is a source of deep worry for all Asians. The Viet Nam example is being copied on a small scale in Thailand by Red guerrillas there. Malaysia remains vulnerable to a "people's war." South Korea, having been through a Communist takeover attempt, fights in Viet Nam alongside the Americans, while Red North Korea, worried about involvement against its will, declares independence of both Moscow and Peking.

Association Here Ready For New Season Of Best Music

HERE ARE SOME of the outstanding musical features that will be presented here in the Northeast Louisiana Concert Series. From left, "Rigoletto" by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre will be presented on Oct. 20 at Neville Auditorium. It will be an example of the Boris Goldovsky method of operatic presentation, now adopted by opera groups all over the country. The basic creed of the Goldovsky Opera Theatre is unified and homogeneous musical and theatrical style. Roger Wagner, director of the chorale bearing his name, has been designated a Commander Knight of the Order of St. Gregory by Pope Paul VI. The high honor was given to Wagner for his services on behalf of liturgical music. International Favorites, the Varel and Bailly Company, Chanteurs de Paris, made their American debut in 1956 and have returned to America every season since then. The French singers will be here on March 16, 1967, for a festival of musical merriment. Jan Peerce is one of the world's busiest artists, appearing on every part of the globe in opera houses and concert halls. The 62-year-old tenor sings in more than seven languages. His concert here will be on Jan. 9. Classical Ballet as well as comic selections characterize the program by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet. Dancers Fred Strobel and Sonia Taverner will be among the 25 dancers here for the Feb. 25 concert. Siegfried Behrend, as an ambassador of German culture, has traveled in five trips around the world, playing the classical guitar for heads of state and music lovers ranging from connoisseurs to natives. He will be here as soloist with the Chicago Chambers Orchestra, April 17.

Many of the leading stars of the music world will be presented here in the 1966-67 season by the Northeast State Concerts Association. Here is a report on coming attractions.

By TRAVIS MAYO
Staff Writer

"The Best In Music," the annual goal of the Northeast State Concerts Association under the chairmanship of Davis Bingham again becomes a reality as the 1966-67 season presents many of the top international stars of the music world.

First on the season's list is the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre's presentation of "Rigoletto." In the operatic world, Boris Goldovsky is hailed as "Mr. Opera" and he is praised for having presented an entirely new concept of operatic production.

The Goldovsky Opera Theatre is characterized by unusual rehearsal and training methods, by electronic aids to insure correct tempi and musical ensemble, by new acoustical materials for building scenery and by experimental projection devices.

BASIC CREED

The basic creed of the Goldovsky Opera Theatre is unified and homogeneous musical and theatrical style. He insists on balance and coordinated performance rather than "star" quality in his performers.

The theatre's "Rigoletto" will be presented at Neville Auditorium on Oct. 20.

On Nov. 29, the NSCA series will present the world-famous Roger Wagner Chorale, with orchestra.

The Chorale is making its 10th tour of the United States and its third with orchestra. This season a new chapter is being added to the Chorale's history in the form of a State Department invitation to tour Soviet Russia for the first time.

While the Roger Wagner Chorale is recognized as one of America's finest groups of singers, it is also famed as a "springboard" for individual talents — vocalists who have distinguished themselves in solo careers.

Dr. Roger Wagner is head of the choral departments at two University of California campuses — UCLA and the new facility at Irvine, Calif. In addition to his academic responsibilities, he devotes considerable time each year to choral workshops throughout the nation.

FAMOUS TENOR

Jan Peerce, America's foremost tenor, will appear here on the concert series on Jan. 9, 1967. Peerce has achieved the rare combination of not only being one of the giant names in the world of great music, but also one of the best known and best loved artists of our time.

Since his debut, he has been a mainstay of the Metropolitan Opera every season and the standees of the Met have voted him their favorite tenor.

In 1965, Peerce amazed New York audiences with his stamina when he appeared in his now - famous Canegie Hall concert. The tenor in his early 60s sang with the stamina of a tenor half his age. Not only did he sing well but he presented selections in seven languages as if he were native to each of them.

Peerce is originator of the "Culture Corps" plan for sending American performers abroad to acquaint people of all nations with the culture of the United States.

On Feb. 25, 1967, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet will appear at Neville Auditorium with orchestra. Although Canadian in origin, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet today has achieved an international reputation. Under its director, Arnold Spohr, the company of 25 dancers has exchanged ideas and artists with the Leningrad - Kirov Ballet Company, the Royal Danish Ballet and the former Sadler's Wells.

When Princess Elizabeth and Duke of Edinburgh visited Canada in 1951, they were impressed with the virtuosity of the company which gave a performance by Royal Command. Permission was therefore granted for the company to use the title "Royal." The group later toured the United States with Alicia Markova as guest artist and made the film "Shadow on the Prairie" for the Canadian Film Board.

Over the years, Spohr brought guest artists and teachers to Winnipeg from Denmark, England and Russia. With the foundation of the School of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in 1962 under the direction of its prima ballerina Jean McKenzie, director Spohr and his troupe could take stock of an enviable record of artistic and popular success.

The ballet troupe of 25 dancers will be here as one stop on a 10-week United States tour.

MUSICAL MERRIMENT

The Varel and Bailly Chanteurs de Paris have packed houses and heard "bravos" all across America. This talented and light - hearted group of Frenchmen will be here on March 16, 1967, for the NSCA series.

The company has appeared in concerts coast to coast and on television. Their concert here will be titled "A Festival of Musical Merriment."

Ander Varel and Charly Bailly are often termed the Rodgers and Hammerstein of France and their songs are favorites with recording stars.

The singers first appeared in America in 1956 and have returned every season since then for hotel and television engagements.

The Chicago Chamber Orchestra under its permanent conductor, Dieter Kober, will appear here on April 17, 1967, as the final selection on the concert series. As a permanent resident orchestra it is composed of Chicago's best professional musicians.

Soloist with the orchestra will be virtuoso guitarist Siegfried Behrend. A native of Berlin, where he was born in 1933, Behrend began his formal musical training at the age of 16.

An intensive study and practice of the instrument was followed by a first professional recital after only 10 months.

The succeeding 10 years were marked by an uncompromising devotion to the pursuit of perfection in his new art which led to the now legendary success at his debut in the Soviet Union and his subsequent rise to international acclaim.

The program of the orchestra's 1967 spring tour will include concertos for guitar and chamber orchestra by Vivaldi and Rodrigo, featuring the German guitarist as guest artist.

Other compositions from the classics that will be presented include a recently discovered "Water Music" by Telemann, Symphony No. 4 by Boyce, and selections by Dittersdorf and Mozart.

The Chicago Chamber Orchestra has appeared for 12 consecutive seasons in nearly 300 concerts in the Chicago area.

All NSCA programs will be presented at Neville Auditorium. The membership campaign will be launched Monday and will run through the month. About 70 workers are participating in the drive to enlist members for the closed subscription series.

Draft Chief Sees Limits To Protests

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Selective service director Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, greeted by 150 conducting a peace vigil, said Saturday the nation should no longer tolerate "suicidal" protests and dissension over United States policy in Viet Nam.

Hershey said there are "constitutional limits" to which protestors can go under the guaranteed right of dissension.

"Tolerance should be abandoned when a pacifist neither wants to go abroad nor wishes to remain at home but seeks to drill a hole in the bottom of the boat carrying troops or collects blood to donate to the Viet Cong," he told a news conference.

"The pacifists make the wars and the freedom lovers give their lives trying to regain the peace."

Members of the Vermont Student Movement silently picketed outside the Post Office carrying placards urging peace and protesting the Selective Service System.

Hershey called for an end to "wholesale dissension before the protest efforts become suicidal for society as a whole."

He said news accounts of pacifists demonstrations have "submerged what the other 99 per cent of the people who are fighting the war are doing for the country."

Conscientious objectors, he said, "want to be around for the dividends of democracy but don't want to show up on assessment day."

Hershey said every person should be required to serve the government in some capacity in both peace and war time.

Rep. Passman Comments On Aid Program

WASHINGTON (Special) — Fifth District U. S. Rep. Otto E. Passman (D - La.) says he is prepared to go to the floor of the House of Representatives with an appropriation bill for the "mutual security" phase of this country's foreign aid program that is $408 million less than the amount authorized by Congress.

Passman said if he is successful in holding the reduction, this will bring to about $8.7 billion the total amount of cuts below budget estimates he has engineered since becoming chairman in 1965 of the House Foreign Operations Appropriations Committee.

The budget requests for "mutual security" have aggregated $44.2 billion over the 11-year period Congressman Passman has handled the money bill. The funds actually appropriated, however, had been reduced to $33.5 billion, up to this year.

The appropriation bill the committee approved Friday calls for $3,092,762,000 for foreign economic and military aid.

In reporting the bill to the House, Passman said the aid program "has been beset with innumerable mistakes in administration, with too much waste, and too many ill-advised or premature projects."

He said, "Foreign aid has been fragmentized and is now plowed into 15 different bills presented to Congress — this 'mutual security' measure being only one of them. It is difficult even for dedicated members of Congress to search it all out, but during the first seven months of this year alone the Johnson Administration has requested $9.1 billion for foreign aid. The situation is indeed a frightening one."

U.N. Observes Tragic Date

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. officials Saturday observed the fifth anniversary of the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarksjold in a plane crash near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia.

Secretary-General U Thant placed a four-foot chrysanthemum wreath before a memorial plaque outside the U.N. mediation room.

Aid For Nepal

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—A grant of $1.5 million in aid for Nepal was announced by U.S. officials Saturday. The aid is intended to assist Nepal development projects, including forests, civil aviation, hydroelectric power, industry and education.

Papal Visit Marked

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The 1965 visit of Pope Paul VI here will be commemorated with a reception at the Waldorf-Astoria on the first anniversary, Oct. 4. The Vatican's U.N. observer, Msgr. Alberto Giovannetti, will be host.

FAISAL TRAVELS

BAMAKO, Mali (UPI) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabis held talks with Malian leaders Saturday before departing for Tunisia today on the last leg of his tour. Informed sources said the talks were "highly satisfactory." The King already has visited Turkey, Morocco and Guinea to discuss his ideas of an Islamic community of nations.

U.S. Hunts Tough Stuff For Windows

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The State Department is tired of replacing smashed windows in its embassies. It is looking for something tougher than glass to replace them.

Failing that, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told lawmakers in testimony published Saturday, the department may erect screens or other protective devices to ward off damage from brickbats or other nurled missiles.

"We are getting to the point where we had a lot of glass damage abroad," Rusk said in reference to outbreaks of violence that have plagued U.S. installations in various capitals.

In a further development on the security front, the department has recruited Navy Seabee reservists to inspect departmental building sites overseas to make sure electronic bugs are not installed during construction for later "audio-surveillance peneration" —or eavesdropping.

Other State Department spokesmen said two more wired microphone systems were uncovered in the past year, at an overseas post not named for security reasons.

Other overseas troubles, the State Department said, included high wages for locally hired employes in some Western European nations.

A spokesman told a House appropriations subcommittee that if European wages keep rising, it may become cheaper to employ Americans. He said this may soon be true in Britain, France and Germany and perhaps Italy at a later date.

Brown Lipstick

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — An African woman pharmacist, Felicia Basse, has produced brown lipstick in all shades, light to darkest, because, she said, it seems more appropriate for Negro women than red lipstick.

Improved Indians Blast Southeast Missouri, 20-9

Final Period Scoring Drives Gain Victory

Northeast State, still shakey in spots but definitely improved overall, opened its 1966 football season successfully before a full house at Ouachita Stadium Saturday night by defeating Southeast Missouri, 20-9.

The Indians, down 7-6 at halftime, hooked up on fourth quarter scoring drives of 47 and 62 yards to win going away.

The triumph was the first for Coach Dixie White's Indians since this time last year when they whipped this same Cape Girardeau, Mo., club 5-0 in the season opener.

It appeared much easier for the Tribe this time around thanks to improvement in several vital departments. In fact, three categories seem so vastly improved they stuck out like a sore thumb, and it was these which provided enough spark to win convincingly.

The principal phases of improvements were (1) kicking game and (2) speed in the offensive backfield which made possible (3) the ability to score.

Northeast's point total marked the first time since 1963 that the Indians have scored 20 points.

when freshmen Clark Blake, just out of the marines, booted two first quarter field goals from 30 and 31 yards out. The first came with five minutes left in the first period and the second three minutes later.

Southeast Missouri came back for a 7-6 lead one minute later on a 68 yard scoring pass from quarterback Greg Brune to Cheuck Koerner plus the PAT kick by Bruce Nall.

Then the point spread went to 9-6 pro-SE Missouri thanks to a safety in the third period when Northeast safety Nick Damico was trapped in his endzone after fielding a Missouri punt at the 10 and circling backward in an attempt to find running room.

From this point, however, the tide began to turn. Freshman punter Ronnie Holland, the other leading character in Northeast's fine kicking game, boomed a 65-yarder from the 20 when Northeast had to kick to the visitors following the safety.

Here SE Missouri drove from its 33 to the Northeast 47, but faltered and seemed to lose some steam.

The Indians got possession at the Southeast 47 late in the third quarter and with fullback Bobby Scafidel, halfback Alton Thomas and quarterback Steve Mansur alternating carries Northeast marched to the go-ahead score.

The second Tribe touchdown was upcoming the nest time Northeast got the ball. Taking over on its own 38 when Brune was trapped for a nine yard loss by Greg Jubert on fourth down, the Monroe Indians promptly drove the ball downfield with a powerful looking ground attack that blasted for six and eight yards at a time.

The 62 yard scoring march took 12 plays and included four first downs. Scafidel, who was the game's leading rusher with 91 yards on 20 tries, got the touchdown on a one yard ram over left tackle. Again Blake kicked true and the Indians had their 20-7 win.

The visitors' offense was led by Walt Smallwood with 38 yards on nine trips, Mike Smith wih 28 yards off eight carries and Jim Farrell on 20 yards in five tries.

Floyd Giblin was Mansur's favorite target, hauling in three for 38 yards while Tommy Lewis caught two for 12. Koerner had two receptions for 83 yards and John Diepenbrock had one 25-yarder off the arm of Brune.

LSU Romps Past Dietzel's Gamecocks

BATON ROUGE — Rabid football fans, longing for revenge for five long years against Paul Dietzel, their one-time idol, finally got it this humid Saturday night as the Louisiana State University football team swept through South Carolina 28 to 12.

The setting was perfect and ironic in many ways.

Dietzel unexpectedly left LSU as head football coach five years ago, breaking a long contract. It left many fans unhappy to say the least and many had longed for the day when the Tigers would meet a Dietzel-coached team. That happened in the season opener this year as Dietzel, after spending a few years at Army, moved to South Carolina this season.

Ironically, it was while he was still head coach at LSU that Dietzel helped to schedule this LSU game with South Carolina.

In a spectacular contest marked by fumbles, pass interceptions and opening mistakes, the Tigers showing occasional spurts of brilliance both offensively and defensively, finally rolled up 28 points, the last touchdown coming as the clock ran out after a South Carolina gamble failed.

Apparently the jammed crowd of 67,512 were satisfied as they roared their applause throughout the game and at the end.

All fall, officials at LSU had asked fans not to boo Dietzel, who became a living legend while at Tigertown, when he brought his football team onto the field.

There were some, but not as much as most fans thought there would be. In fact, most thought the Ole Miss team drew more than Dietzel when it plays here.

The loudest boos came at the end of the game as Dietzel was leaving the field of play.

It obviously was a wonderful victory for Tiger coach Charles McClendon, who made himself scarce along the sideline during the game. McClendon was Ditezel's chief assistant when he was at LSU.

One big question was also answered for anxious LSU fans—what about quarterback Nelson Stokley, the darling of the Bayous. Stokley, who was injured last season, underwent a knee operation during the winter and, although he operated fine in practice, it was not known until this game how he would do. It appeared to be in fine shape, as he scored one LSU touchdown and ripped off several sweeping runs.

Once in the second half, he was slow getting up after being pushed out of bounds on a sweep. An anxious hush fell on the crowd and you could have heard a pin drop. When he finally got up and headed for the Tiger bench a tremendous roar went up.

Actually the game was closer at many points than the score and statistics indicated with Dietzel showing more daring and passing offense than he ever did at LSU.

Statistically speaking, LSU picked up 283 yards rushing to 101 for South Carolina, but completed only one pass for 9 yards to 71 for the Gamecocks.

In first downs, the Tigers picked up 19 to 10.

In commenting on the game, Dietzel said LSU was "excellent. It was a fine football team with great speed. We were well received by the officials here and I was proud of the way the LSU fans conducted themselves when I coached here and the same was true tonight. I was proud to bring our Carolina Gamecocks here to play."

To most, however, there were some glaring errors made by the Tigers, but it must be remembered they are a young ball team and this is a rebuilding year.

Defensively, John Garlington, the fast-moving end from Jonesboro - Hodge High School and a native of Quitman, sparkled, intercepting two passes, one of which was nullified by a penalty, and often crashed into the Carolina backfield to throw ball carriers for losses.

The Tigers scored early in the first period after Carolina's quarter-back Mike Fair, an excellent passer and player, fumbled on the Tiger 26 and Tommy Fussell recovered. With Stokley guiding the attack, and fullback Gawain Diebetta packing the ball, the Tigers drove to the Carolina 26. Stokley, showing his old form to the delight of the crowd, went to the 11.

He then swung to his right on the next play and went over from 11 yards out for the score with end Tommy Morel throwing the key block at the one yard line. Steve Daniel's kick was good and the Tigers were ahead 7-0.

But the Gamecocks blasted back quickly with fair hitting with almost unbelievable accuracy. In all he completed four consecutive passes to put Carolina on the LSU 17. Then he dashed to the Tiger 6 and three plays later tailback Jimmy Killehn scored from the one. Jimmy Pole's kick was blocked.

Early in the second period, the Tigers scored again after starting a drive on their own 20. Stokley and DiBetta again combined to move the ball to the Carolina three from where DiBetta crashed over on fourth down. During the drive, Stokley recovered a key fumble and picked up key yardage. Daniel missed the conversion.

Late in the first half, the Tigers put together another drive after speedster Sammy Grezaffi, known as the "Green Hornet," recovered a Carolina fumble at the LSU 35. However, the drive fizzled at the 17 and Daniel missed on a 27-yard field goal attempt.

On one Carolina punt, Grezaffi almost got away for a touchdown. A Carolina defender, already on the ground, threw up a hand and tripped him, or he would have been touchdown bound. LSU's third touchdown came quickly in the third period when Carolina's Jeff Jowers, back to punt on his 28, bobbled a low pass, and his try was blocked by tackle Jack Dyer. After a mad scramble, linebacker George Bevan came up with it in the end zone for the score. Stokley, in a beautifully executed play, hit sophomore Tommy Allen with a pass for the two points to make it 21-6.

A few minutes later, big Mike Pharis blocked another Jowers' punt, on the Carolina 30. However, LSU couldn't take advantage of the break as substitute quarterback Fred Haynes fumbled and lost the ball at the 19.

The Gamecocks threatened a short time later, moving to the LSU 11. Two plays later, Fair fumbled, and Garlington recovered for the Tigers on the 21. but Carolina was not to be denied. LSU was forced to kick and Bobby Bryant took it in on his 23 and flashed down the sidelines 77 yards to score without a hand touching him. Carolina failed to convert and the score stood at 21-12.

LSU's final touchdown came in the final second of play, after Carolina, deep in its own territory, gambled on fourth down and lost the ball on its 18.

Four plays later, Haynes scooted over from two yards out as the clock ran out. Kickoff specialist Ronnie Manton booted the extra point.

Individually, Stokley picked up 78 yards rushing and completed only one pass in seven attempts for 9 yards. Sophomore Maurice LeBlanc, a sophomore LSU coaches believe will develop into a top player, picked up 63, Allen 40, and DiBeta 53.

For Carolina, it was Ben Garnto who gained 51 yards, while Fair completed 6 of 17 passes for 71 yards.

LSU officials expressed pleasure at the way LSU fans treated Dietzel and his Carolina team. Some fans pointed out that the quote attributed to Dietzel earlier in the year that he expected the world's biggest boo when he came to LSU, was part of his effort to get Carolina players up.

McCleondon said, "South Carolina was a good looking football team. I think that the people could see how good quarterback Mike Fair really is. Of course I was proud of our boys. They did an excellent job on offense, particularly when you consider that several of our boys were playing their first game. Our offensive line blocking was better than we anticipated. We expected the spread formation (Carolina used it on occasions), but it took us a while to adjust. I know that our defense will be all right, but we most certainly must devote more time to our kicking game. I feel that the extreme humidity hurt both teams late in the game."

Spts, 3rd Add, 48-8, Northeast

It was no secret that the primary needs of Northeast last year centered around the kicking game and the inability to put together any type of consistent offense mostly because of a lack of speed.

There's no doubt now that the kicking game is in good hands (and feet) and with Thomas, Mansur and LeBlanc providing outside threats to go along with the bull-like charges of Scafidel inside, the offense seems headed for better days.

Thomas, an all-GSC defensive halfback last year, looked real good several times on wide jaunts and finished with 84 yards on 10 tries, quarterback Mansur had 57 on 16 trips and LeBlanc carried six times for 46 yards.

LeBlanc, the 9.4 sprinter who's quick enough to make football practice and Student Congress meetings (he's student body president), came out on his own this fall and appears to have made the transition from track to football in fine form.

Defensively, the Indians got exceptional service from linebackers Wayne Cunningham and Ron Gaetano, tackles Ron Sumter and Roger Bowman and ends Vega and Charles Rohner.

Although Missouri QB Brune finished with only four completions in 12 attempts he had men open often but couldn't put it there.

Dietzel Praises LSU Fans

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— South Carolina football coach Paul Dietzel said Saturday night that Louisiana State fans "were just great" during the LSU-Gamecocks contest.

"LSU officials really bent over backwards to greet us," said Dietzel, "They did a fine job."

The Gamecocks lost to the Tigers 28-12. Dietzel coached a national championship team at LSU in 1958 and left three years later. LSU fans accused him of breaking his contract.

There were only a few scattered boos when Dietzel and his team arrived on the field. The 67,500 fans yelled "Tiger bait," a traditional yell when opposing teams hit the field.

Hanging from the stadium dormitory windows were two bed sheets. One said "I'll never leave LSU; Paul Dietzel 1958." When freshmen boys arrived in the stadium they chanted "go the h— Paul Dietzel, go to h—." It lasted about five minutes.

In the South Carolina dressing room following the game the South Carolina blamed the loss primarily on two Gamecock punts blocked by LSU.

Coach Charlie McClendon said after the game that "this was a tremendous win for me and I'm glad it is over. This has been one of the longest games I have ever had to prepare for."

McClendon said quarterback Nelson Stokley showed that he was physically sound. Stokley suffered a knee injury last season and underwent surgery this spring. But he was able to run at full speed Saturday night.

The LSU quarterback was shaken up in the first half and McClendon said his knee bandage came loose. "We weren't going to take any chances," McClendon said.

Stokley was pulled from the game and the knee bandage was secured. He returned to the field a few plays later.

Dietzel said he was impressed with LSU's speed and predicted the Tigers would have a fine season.

As for his own fortunes, he said, "You know I really didn't promise instant success when I took the job at South Carolina."

UCLA Dumps Pittsburgh, 57-14

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA buried Pittsburgh 57-14 as Bruins quarterback Gary Beban and halfback Mel Farr had a field day against the outmanned Panthers Saturday nigh.

A crowd of 36,692 watched the Bruins run up the biggest score in the series with Pittsburgh as they scored eight touchdowns — two in each period.

Beban scored two touchdowns, passed for another and ran a two-point convention, while Farr scored three touchdowns before Coach Tommy Prothro called his regulars off the field going into the final quarter.

Late in the third, Pitt's Dewey Chester bulled six yards for a touchdown, climaxing a69-yard trust against the Bruins reserves. The Panthers scored again on a perfectly-executed pass from alternate quarterback Mike Elliott to Bob Longo for 58 yards.

Pitt's deepest penetration prior to the touchdowns came in the second quarter when they got to the UCLA 20. But a fourth-down field goal attempt by Howard Heit was wide.

UCLA held a 29-0 lead at the half and before the rout was over, had gained 336 yards rushing and 138 yards passing.

Stanford, 25-21

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Sophomore quarterack Gene Washington ran four yards for a touchdown and passed 31 yards for another Saturday in leading Stanford from an 11-point fourth-quarter deficit to a 25-21 victory over San Jose State in their football opener.

Washington passed 31 yards to end Bob Conrad for the winning touchdown with 8 minutes, 57 seconds to go.

Quarterback Danny Holman, playing his first game for San Jose State, rallied the Spartans for a pair of touchdowns after Stanford had taken a 7-0 lead.

Holman first passed to end Steve Cox for four yards and a touchdown. He completed an 11-yard scoring pass to S.T. Saffold in the second quarter.

Huskies Power By Vandals, 19-7

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Washington's Huskies brewed up a redhot footall combination of pass and run Saturday to overwhelm Idaho's Vandals 19-7 after spotting the visitors an early touchdown in the intersectional season opener.

A hefty Vandal team that was expected to keep Washington fighting all the way manufactured only one sustained drive.

Early in the second period the visitor from the Big Sky Conference launched a drive that carried 84 yards in a dozen plays.

Most of the yardage was gobbled up by 248-pound fullback Ray McDonald, but the payoff came when quarterback John Foruria flipped a 25-yard scoring pass to speedy end Manny Murrell.

Mississippi Rebels Overpower Memphis State For 13-0 Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— The break-away running of Doug Cunningham and the passing of Jody Graves sparked Mississippi over bumbling Memphis State, 13-0, here Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Ole Miss, a contender for the Southeastern Conference title, faltered occasionally, but the Rebels managed to please a sellout crowd three times by rising enough to flash on the scoreboard.

The spark that moved the Rebels on those three drives came primarily from the slick running of Cunningham and crucial, neatly caught passes from Graves to split end Rocky Fleming.

Three of the Graves-Fleming combinations got the Rebels moving on their only touchdown drive in the second quarter, and one flying Fleming snag kept the Rebels alive for their second field goal.

Memphis State's jittery attack caught on only once during the evening when the Tigers found a passing team of Terry Padgett to Richard Coady and moved as close as the Rebel 21 late in the game before being thrown back.

The Rebels outgained the Tigers heavily both on the ground and in the air, and were dominant all across the statistics sheet as well as on the scoreboard.

It was the Rebels' 20th consecutive victory over Memphis State in a hotly contested rivalry over a period of 45 years.

Duhon Fires Tulane Past Virginia Tech

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Bobby Duhon, Tulane's southpaw-tossing Cajun quarterback, dazzled Virginia Tech in the air and on the ground Saturday night as the Green Wave handed Jim Pittman a 13 - 0 victory in his debut as a head coach.

Duhon, a 185 - pounder from Abbeville, passed for a touchdown in the second period and guided two long drives that ended with field goals in the third period.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Statistics of the Virginia Tech-Tulane football game:

	Va. Tech	Tulane
First downs	13	18
Rushing yardage	151	195
Passing yardage	16	47
Passes	4-13	5-10
Passes	4-13	5-10
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	6-36	4-34
Yards penalized	35	20

His running, laterals and accurate passing kept the Gobbler defense off - balance after the scoreless first quarter.

A stout Wave defense contained Tommy Stafford, Tech's senior quarterback, except for an opening period display that took the Gobblers to the Tulane 22 and a second period drive that got to the 21.

These were the nearest threats that Virginia Tech mounted, as the Gobblers were shut out for the first time in 37 games, dating back to 1962.

Tulane, a slight underdog which had not won a season opener since 1960, was playing its first game as an independent.

After a scoreless first quarter, Duhon brought the Tulane offense to life, engineering a 68-yard touchdown drive in 11 plays. From the Tech nine, Duhon cocked his left arm back and hit Lanis O'Steen in the end zone. Pontius's conversion was accurate and the Green Wave was on the way.

The third quarter was all Tulane's, with Duhon's end sweeps, laterals and passes keeping the partisan crowd of 22,500 on its feet. Tech had the ball only twice during the quarter.

The Green Wave took the second half kick and marched to the Tech 19, where the Gobbler defense stood firm. Pontius came in and kicked a 35-yard field goal. Minutes later, Tulane was on the move again with a 54 - yard drive that stopped on the 12. Again, Pontius came in and kicked a 29-yard field goal.

Tulane collected 18 first downs to 13 for Tech and the Green Wave gained 195 yards rushing and 47 passing. Virginia Tech had 151 yards on the ground and 16 in the air.

McNeese Falls To Texas A&I

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Texas A&I Javelinas, replacing departed passing ace Randy Johnson with a herd of fine running backs, defeated McNeese State of Lake Charles, La., 12-6 Saturday.

The Texas squad capitalized on McNeese mistakes for two first quarter scores. After that, the Cowboy offense could not get cracking until too late.

	McNeese	Texas A—I
First downs	7	9
Rushing yardage	93	125
Passing yardage	90	85
Passes	6-23	5-12
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	11-42	10-35
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	62	46

The first score came when James Hill got behind the McNeese pass defense for a 49-yard touchdown play on a pass from Terry Oglesby.

McNeese used a 48-yard pass from David Bourgeois to C. J. Bourgeois to set up the fourth quarter score. The pass carried to the Hog five and David sneaked in from the one on fourth down.

The brightest spot for McNeese was freshman Coco Rossitto, who averaged 42 yards on 11 punts and got off one for 61 yards.

Southwestern 11 Tops Wildcats

PINEVILLE (Special) — Thanks to a hard-nosed defense, the Southwestern Bulldogs capatilized on Louisiana College mistakes to post a 24-0 victory before 3,500 fans here Saturday night.

The stubborn USL defensive unit allowed the Wildcats only 80 yards on total offense and used two fumble recoveries to set up Bulldog scoring opportunities.

Bergeron completed three of five pass attempts for 48 yards and also led USL rushers with 31 stripes in 11 tries. Two of his completions were to Kleinpeter — the first a short one-yard scoring toss early in the opening quarter that put USL ahead to stay.

Landry scored once on a seven yard run, kicked a 27-yard field goal and all three extra points.

Oilers Trying For Third Win Against Tough Jets

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last year Houston's defense would have had trouble with the big, bad wolf. A huff and a puff and down it went.

"The line was just being blown out of there," Coach Wally Lemm explained. "They were just too small."

But the Oilers aren't small anymore with the addition of two mammoth defensive tackles — 6-foot-9, 315-pound Ernie Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Pat Holmes. The only thing small now is the opposition yardage.

But the Oilers' new-found defensive strength will get its severest test so far this season when they tackle the Jets at New York today in a battle for the Eastern Division lead in the American Football League.

With Buffalo's two-time champs already showing two losses the Houston-New York game will be watched for a true indication of the strength of the only remaining undefeated teams in the Eastern Division.

Houston allowed 191.6 yards rushing and 176.4 yards passing a game last year compared with 53 and 149 in two games so far this season. And Lemm leaves no doubt that Ladd and Holmes have made the big difference — particularly against rushing.

"We've taken care of the problem of being too small with the addition of Ladd and Holmes," Lemm said. "And when your defense can stop the opposition, it gives your offense a better chance to gain ball control — and it takes ball control to win games."

Lemm must be right. The Oilers are 2-0 and have scored 76 points. The opposition has scored seven.

Offensively, the Oilers haven't changed too much. George Blanda, the 39-year-old quarterback, still flings that ball around but with Sid Blanks back — he was out all last season with a leg injury — the Oilers have a stronger running game.

Ode Burrell, the little 185-pound halfback, is the No. 4 man in the league in rushing and No. 7 in receiving, giving the Oilers one of the most versatile players in the league.

The Jets will have gimpy-legged Joe Namath starting at quarterback but will have to pull their running game together to get by the Oilers. Fullback Matt Snell, the big gainer, was not impressive in New York's opening 19-14 victory over Miami.

The Chiefs announced their internation of challenging for the Western crown by mauling Buffalo 42-20 as Bert Coan had a sensational day at halfback and Otis Taylor showed why the club let last year's No. 1 flanker, Frank Jackson, go to Miami in the expansion draft.

The Chiefs may not have too much trouble with an Oakland team that hasn't been able to get untracked. Quarterback Cotton Davidson seems to have made a successful recovery from an arm operation but Clem Daniels, the club's leading rusher, has gained just 23 yards in 21 carries.

The Bills, who have been unable to put together a consistent offense with quarterback Jack Kemp suffering with a sore arm, might be able to get started against Miami. The Bills are making one important change, inserting Arkansas rookie Bobby Crockett at split end in place of Glenn Bass.

The Dolphins, who are going with rookie Rick Norton at quarterback, plan to start two former Bills — fullback Billy Joe and flanker Bo Roberson. Joe and Roberson were shipped to Miami in the expansion draft.

Denver showed nothing against Houston — the Broncos couldn't even get a first down. But then Boston wasn't too impressive against San Diego. However, Jim Nance finally seems to be blossoming at fullback for the Patriots and quarterback Babe Parilli should start hitting the target.

"POOR WHITE TRASH"

TEXAS A&M quarterback Edd Hargett (10) is about to be hit from behind by Georgia Tech defensive tackle Mike Ashmore (71) here in the first quarter of the contest in Atlanta Saturday. The pass was incomplete. Georgia Tech scored 38 points in the last half to win, 38-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Clendenon's Homer Gets Pirates Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donn Clendenon brought Pittsburgh from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday as the Pirates snapped the Los Angeles Dodgers' eight-game winning streak 9-5.

The victory lifted the second-place Pirates to within 2½ games of the Dodgers in the National League race.

The Pirates went on to clinch the triumph with four runs in the eighth inning.

Jackets Rout A&M With Big 2nd Half

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lenny Snow led a Georgia Tech football comeback by scoring three touchdowns in the second half Saturday which carried the Yellow Jackets to a 38-3 conquest of Texas A&M.

The Aggies led 3-0 at the half in the opener for both teams before the fleet junior halfback put some fire in the Tech attack.

	Texas A&M	Ga. Tech
First downs	6	28
Rushing yardage	56	268

Passes	4-19	15-27
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	9-46	2-32
Yards penalized	50	25

Snow scored on runs of 7, 3 and 7 yards and set up Tommy Carmichael's 33-yard field goal with a 15-yard burst to snuff the Aggies' bid for an upset.

Sophomore quarterback Larry Good threw two touchdown passes in the last minute to make a rout of the battle in which the Aggies did not manage a first down in the second half.

Texas A&M, unable to generate a sustained drive, had opened the scoring with a 30-yard field goalp by Glynn Lindsey late in the first peroid.

The Aggies never threatened again, but their defenses blunted all Tech's scoring bids until the Yellow Jackets went on an 80-yard drive in the third quarter, kept alive when Texas A&M was penalized to its 31 for roughing the kicker on a punt

Snow took a pitchout and scored from the seven, and Carmichael kicked his field goal later in the third period to widne the lead to 10-3.

A pass interception by Haven Kicklighter on the Tech 39 started the Yellow Jackets' second scoring drive capped by Snow's three-yard plunge. The Tech halfback scored again with 7:45 left in the game on a seven-yard burst after Tommy Burke returned an Aggie punt 38 yards.

The Aggies used three quarterbacks—Harry Ledetter, Edd Hargett and Charlie Riggs — but none was able to hti through the air, with Texas A&M completing only 4 of 19 passes for 33 yards.

Kim King, Georgia Tech's southpaw quarterback, connected on only 5 of 16 passes for 40 yards in the first half, but he found the range in the last two periods and finished with 12 completions in 24 tries for 112 yards.

The game, in 60 - degree weather, attracted only 36,215 fans, one of Georgia Tech's smallest crowds in recent years.

Gun, Archery Clinic Slated By Optimists

The Gun and Archery Safety Clinic, a growing "must" for any area youths who ever expect to handle guns or archery equipment, will be presented in three installments at Bancroft Camp on Cheniere Lake next Saturday and Sunday.

The clinic, jointly sponsored by the Optimist Club of Greater Monroe and The Twin Cities Optimist Club, will be spread into three sessions for the benefit of youths who might not be able to attend one of the other sessions.

Two sessions are scheduled for Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and a single session is billed for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Free transportation on city buses will be provided for boys desiring this means of going to and from Bancroft Camp.

Buses will leave the Monroe City Hall at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday, make a pick-up 15 minutes later at the West Monroe First Baptist Church and then proceed to the gun range. The Sunday bus run starts at 1 p.m. at the city hall here, and also makes the West Monroe church stop.

Gun safety instruction will be given by Art Hill and Jim Stotts, Winchester - Olin representatives; and A. J. Cobb, president of Pine Hills Gun Club and officers of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

Kit Beecher, director of the Bernstein Park zoo here, will be a featured instructor as he gives his colorful snake demonstrations and cautions concerning poisonous snakes in their natural habitat.

Sheriff Bailey Grant again is clinic master, and Optimist Club committee chairmen arranging plans for the clinic are Leroy Magee, Dan Lemoine, Jim H. Branch, Earl Lingle and Jimmy Moore with their respective presidents, Sheldon Ray of Greater Monroe, and Bob Jackson of Twin Cities.

THIS IS PART of the crowd of Ouachita parish youths — and some adults — that attended last year's Optimist Club Gun Safety Clinic at Bancroft Camp. This year's clinic, adding archery safety, is expected to attract even larger crowds for two sessions next Saturday and a single session the following Sunday.

Second Showdown For Packers Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay faces its second showdown game in two weeks Sunday at Cleveland and if the Browns don't do better than Baltimore, the Packers can start scouting the American Football League for the super bowl game.

The Packers' defense picked off three of Johnny Unitas' passes last week in an impressive 24-3 victory over the Colts. Coach Vince Lombardi has the defending champs primed for a rousing rematch with the Browns, the team they beat for the National Football League title last year.

Because Chicago and Los Angeles played Friday night, there are only six games on the Sunday NFL schedule. Dallas, which drew a bye last week, gets into actions against New York in the Cotton Bowl and San Francisco, tied by Minnesota last week, is idle this go round.

In addition to Green Bay, 1-0, at Cleveland, 1-0, other Sunday games will have New York, 0-0- … Dallas, 0-0, Washington, 0-1 at St. Louis, 1-0, Detroit, 1-0 … Pittsburgh, 0-0-1, Baltimore, 0-1, at Minnesota, 0-0-1, and Atlanta, 0-1, at Philadelphia, 0-1.

Cleveland will get its first regular season look at the Browns without Jim Brown (they did play an exhibitionat Cleveland). The Browns didn't miss Jim last week when they intercepted five Sonny Jurgensen passes in a 38-14 victory over the Redskins after a slow start. However, they could use the big fullback against the big Packer defense. Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green will try to ake up the slack but the Browns undoubtedly will send Frank Ryan out to throw the football.

The Packers, 23-12 winners over the Browns last Jan. 2 in snowy Green Bay, opened strong against the Colts with Jim Taylor running for 76 yards and Bart Starr hitting with 14 of 19 passes.

Dallas, boomed as a title hope in the Eastern Conference, will show its new big play offense, featuring Mel Renfro, Don Meredith and Bob Hayes in its opener after sweeping five exhibition games.

The Giants, who tied Pittsburgh in a battle of fumbles, must depend on Earl Morrall's passes. A big crowd is expected to jam the Cotton Bowl to greet the Cowboys.

The Colts, derailed by the Packers, hope to get on the right path at Minnesota with Unitas still needing two TD passes to tie Y. A. Tittle's lifetime record of 212. The Vikings got only 10 pass completions from Fran Tarkenton but scrambled to a 20-20 tie in San Francisco and should be better in their home opener.

The surprising Detroit Lions, upset winners over Chicago last Sunday, will sent Milt Plum and Tom Nowatzke after the Steelers and will give Bill Nelsen a big pass rush. Bill Austin's rebuilding Steelers hope to surprise the Lions with rookie Bill Asbury and Nelson's tosses to Garry Ballman.

St. Louis is home for the second straight week with Otto Graham's Redskins as the opposition this time. The Cardinals rallied to beat Philadelphia in their opener on a Jim Bakken field goal after Johnny Roland aroused the offense. The Redskins, who led the Browns at the half but faded fast, hope to hold on this time.

Atlanta's new Falcons and the Eagles, both beaten in their openers, will be shooting for a first victory at Franklin Field. The Falcons lost an exhibition game 9-7 to the Eagles Aug. 1 when a bad pass from center cost them a chance for a field goal on the final play. Tim Brown, a 10,000-yard man, will test the Falcons defense while Randy Johnson attempts to pick yoles in the Eagles.

MSU Ground Game Too Much For NSC

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State, frustrated in the air, put together a devastating ground attack Saturday as it wore North Carolina State down and won an intersectional opener 28-10.

North Carolina State, which grabbed a 3-0 lead midway in the second period on a 49 yard field goal by Harold Deter, could do little else as MSU's infantry went to work. The visitors finally got a touchdown with just seconds left.

	N.C. State	Mich. State

Passes	11-16	7-11
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-36	2-19
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	0	49

The MSU running attack varied from the powerhouse galloping of Clint Jones to the outside slants of fullback Bob Apisa and the nimble scampering of quarterback Jimmy Raye. All scored.

Jones' score came on a 39 yard smash. He brushed off four tacklers as he churned in his way across less than four minutes after North Carolina posted its field goal. The drive covered 60 yards in six plays.

North Carolina State held MSU to a 7-3 halftime lead but the second - ranked Spartans dominated play the rest of the way.

MSU picked up a couple of touchdowns in the third period as North Carolina State could not muster a first down.

Spurrier-Paced Gators Romp To Easy 43-7 Opening Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Steve Spurrier, the most exciting quarteracK in University of Florida football history, passed for three touchdowns and kicked two field goals Saturday in leading the Gators to an impressive 43-7 intersectional victory over Northwestern.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Statistics of the Northwestern-Florida football game:

	Northwestern	Florida
First downs	13	29
Rushing yardage	61	206
Passing yardage	152	340
Passes	14-36	27-37
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	7-40	4-44
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	5	30

Outweighed by the Big Ten team, Florida used superior speed and Spurrier's pinpoint tosses for a rout in what was expected to be a close game.

Richard Trapp, a junior speed demon, caught two touchdown passes and started another drive with a 32-yard run.

A bunch of sophomores meshed into the Florida nucleus of veterans with the result of a far more impressive Gator team than the one picked before this season opened to be middle bracket in the Southeastern Conference.

The 40,056 spectators whooped and cheered at the prospct of a good season as the Gators—sprinkled with inexperience — performed with the skill of a vetrean combination.

Northwestern marched 73 yards to its only touchdown at the start of the second half but made no other serious threat.

Although Spurrier passed for 219 yards, he sat on the bench about one third of the offensive time while his understudies—Harmon Wages and Kay Stephenson carried on, and they each engineered a touchdown drive.

The most brilliant sophomore in Florida's camp, halfback Larry Smith, got only a brief moment to shine. He set up the first touchdown with a 36-yard burst over the middle and down the right sideline and gained a total of 57 yards in six runs—but was cut down with a hip injury and out of action in the second quarter.

The 95-degree heat on the field obviously troubled Northwestern in the late stages, but it wasn't as significant as Florida's fired-up attack.

Florida rolled up more than 500 yards—206 running and 340 passing. The performance promised a better-balanced attack than last season—when Spurrier gained 2,467 yards but the rest of the offense made negligible dents in opposing lines.

The Gators' touchdown drives traveled 55, 74, 53, 42 and 80 yards. It wasn't often Northwestern was able to stop Florida short of midfield.

The victory for the Southeastern Conference representative over the Big Ten team gave the SEC a 3-game edge in the all-time standings between the major conferences.

"I strongly recommend R&A Jewelers for the best deal on a diamond," said Blancas, a former Cotton States Tourney winner.—Adv.

Field Goal Gives Georgia Victory

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Little Bob Etter booted an 18 - yard field goal with two minutes left Saturday night to give favored Georgia a 20-17 victory over tough Mississippi State.

It was the first Southeastern game of the season. Georgia, unable to demoralize the dogged State squad, had gone ahead twice only to have the Maroons fight back to tie it up early in the fourth.

The winning kick came after Georgia staved off disaster with an interception by linebacker Happy Bicks in the Georgia end zone to kill a State threat.

Junior quarterback Kirby Moore sparked the Georgia drive to the two. From there, Etter, a 150-pound senior from Chattanooga, Tenn., dropped back and booted the decisive field goal.

Georgia showed a marked superiority over the State line in the early stages but the Maroon forwards picked up steam and battled on equal terms from midway in the second quarter.

Etter's accurate toe was a big factor. He converted twice and hit on both of his field goal attempts.

The underdog Maroons scored first after end Stu Scheer intercepted a deflected Moore pass at the Georgia 45. Quarterback Don Saget completed two passes as he guided State to the Georgia 21. From there, kicker James Neill dropped back for a 39-yard field goal.

Georgia also converted a fine defense play on its first score. All-America tackle George Patton recovered a Tommy Garrison fumble at the State 19. On the sixth play, Moore hit Don Hayes on a tackle-eligible play with a four-yard touchdown pass.

State forged ahead in the second quarter with a 54 - drive, sparked by Saget and fleet wingback Marcus Rhoden. Rhoden took a 16-yard Saget pass and later picked up a crucial seven yards to the two. Saget dived in for the touchdown that gave State its last lead of the game.

Georgia tied it with a 29-yard Etter field goal in the final seconds of the half, and went ahead in the third after Steve Newhouse recovered a State fumble at the State 32.

Moore ripped off a 21 - yard run to the four. From there halfback Kent Lawrance scored.

State tied it up for the last ti meon a 66-yard drive featuring three Saget passes to Rhoden for 29 yards and a brilliant 15-yard run by Saget after he apparently was trapped at the line. Rhoden ran two yards to score.

Griese Passes Purdue To Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue took the wraps off passer Bob Griese to make up for its sputtering ground game and trounced Ohio University 42-3 Saturday in its opening football game.

The Purdue defense had trouble in the first half with the Bobcat runners, especially Bob Houmard and Wash Lyons, but the Boilermakers put a brutal rush on Ohio's sophomore quarterback, Ron DeLucca, and broke up his passes when he got them away.

Purdue led only 7-3 going into the final minute of the first half.

Mississippi Rebels Overpower Memphis State For 13-0 Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— The break-away running of Doug Cunningham and the passing of Jody Graves sparked Mississippi over bumbling Memphis State, 13-0, here Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Ole Miss, a contender for the Southeastern Conference title, faltered occasionally, but the Rebels managed to please a sellout crowd three times by rising enough to flash on the scoreboard.

The spark that moved the Rebels on those three drives came primarily from the slick running of Cunningham and crucial, neatly caught passes from Graves to split end Rocky Fleming.

Three of the Graves-Fleming combinations got the Rebels moving on their only touchdown drive in the second quarter, and one flying Fleming snag kept the Rebels alive for their second field goal.

Memphis State's jittery attack caught on only once during the evening when the Tigers found a passing team of Terry Padgett to Richard Coady and moved as close as the Rebel 21 late in the game before being thrown back.

The Rebels outgained the Tigers heavily both on the ground and in the air, and were dominant all across the statistics sheet as well as on the scoreboard.

It was the Rebels' 20th consecutive victory over Memphis State in a hotly contested rivalry over a period of 45 years.

Duhon Fires Tulane Past Virginia Tech

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Bobby Duhon, Tulane's southpaw-tossing Cajun quarterback, dazzled Virginia Tech in the air and on the ground Saturday night as the Green Wave handed Jim Pittman a 13 - 0 victory in his debut as a head coach.

Duhon, a 185 - pounder from Abbeville, passed for a touchdown in the second period and guided two long drives that ended with field goals in the third period.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Statistics of the Virginia Tech-Tulane football game:

	Va. Tech	Tulane
First downs	13	18
Rushing yardage	151	195
Passing yardage	16	47
Passes	4-13	5-10
Passes	4-13	5-10
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	6-36	4-34
Yards penalized	35	20

His running, laterals and accurate passing kept the Gobbler defense off - balance after the scoreless first quarter.

A stout Wave defense contained Tommy Stafford, Tech's senior quarterback, except for an opening period display that took the Gobblers to the Tulane 22 and a second period drive that got to the 21.

These were the nearest threats that Virginia Tech mounted, as the Gobblers were shut out for the first time in 37 games, dating back to 1962.

Tulane, a slight underdog which had not won a season opener since 1960, was playing its first game as an independent.

After a scoreless first quarter, Duhon brought the Tulane offense to life, engineering a 68-yard touchdown drive in 11 plays. From the Tech nine, Duhon cocked his left arm back and hit Lanis O'Steen in the end zone. Pontius's conversion was accurate and the Green Wave was on the way.

The third quarter was all Tulane's, with Duhon's end sweeps, laterals and passes keeping the partisan crowd of 22,500 on its feet. Tech had the ball only twice during the quarter.

The Green Wave took the second half kick and marched to the Tech 19, where the Gobbler defense stood firm. Pontius came in and kicked a 35-yard field goal. Minutes later, Tulane was on the move again with a 54 - yard drive that stopped on the 12. Again, Pontius came in and kicked a 29-yard field goal.

Tulane collected 18 first downs to 13 for Tech and the Green Wave gained 195 yards rushing and 47 passing. Virginia Tech had 151 yards on the ground and 16 in the air.

McNeese Falls To Texas A&I

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Texas A&I Javelinas, replacing departed passing ace Randy Johnson with a herd of fine running backs, defeated McNeese State of Lake Charles, La., 12-6 Saturday.

The Texas squad capitalized on McNeese mistakes for two first quarter scores. After that, the Cowboy offense could not get cracking until too late.

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Statistics of the McNeese-Texas A&I game:

	McNeese	Texas A—I
First downs	7	9
Rushing yardage	93	125
Passing yardage	90	85
Passes	6-23	5-12
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	11-42	10-35
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	62	46

The first score came when James Hill got behind the McNeese pass defense for a 49-yard touchdown play on a pass from Terry Oglesby.

McNeese used a 48-yard pass from David Bourgeois to C. J. Bourgeois to set up the fourth quarter score. The pass carried to the Hog five and David sneaked in from the one on fourth down.

The brightest spot for McNeese was freshman Coco Rossitto, who averaged 42 yards on 11 punts and got off one for 61 yards.

Southwestern 11 Tops Wildcats

PINEVILLE (Special) — Thanks to a hard-nosed defense, the Southwestern Bulldogs capatilized on Louisiana College mistakes to post a 24-0 victory before 3,500 fans here Saturday night.

The stubborn USL defensive unit allowed the Wildcats only 80 yards on total offense and used two fumble recoveries to set up Bulldog scoring opportunities.

Bergeron completed three of five pass attempts for 48 yards and also led USL rushers with 31 stripes in 11 tries. Two of his completions were to Kleinpeter — the first a short one-yard scoring toss early in the opening quarter that put USL ahead to stay.

Landry scored once on a seven yard run, kicked a 27-yard field goal and all three extra points.

Oilers Trying For Third Win Against Tough Jets

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last year Houston's defense would have had trouble with the big, bad wolf. A huff and a puff and down it went.

"The line was just being blown out of there," Coach Wally Lemm explained. "They were just too small."

But the Oilers aren't small anymore with the addition of two mammoth defensive tackles — 6-foot-9, 315-pound Ernie Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Pat Holmes. The only thing small now is the opposition yardage.

But the Oilers' new-found defensive strength will get its severest test so far this season when they tackle the Jets at New York today in a battle for the Eastern Division lead in the American Football League.

With Buffalo's two-time champs already showing two losses the Houston-New York game will be watched for a true indication of the strength of the only remaining undefeated teams in the Eastern Division.

Houston allowed 191.6 yards rushing and 176.4 yards passing a game last year compared with 53 and 149 in two games so far this season. And Lemm leaves no doubt that Ladd and Holmes have made the big difference — particularly against rushing.

"We've taken care of the problem of being too small with the addition of Ladd and Holmes," Lemm said. "And when your defense can stop the opposition, it gives your offense a better chance to gain ball control — and it takes ball control to win games."

Lemm must be right. The Oilers are 2-0 and have scored 76 points. The opposition has scored seven.

Offensively, the Oilers haven't changed too much. George Blanda, the 39-year-old quarterback, still flings that ball around but with Sid Blanks back — he was out all last season with a leg injury — the Oilers have a stronger running game.

Ode Burrell, the little 185-pound halfback, is the No. 4 man in the league in rushing and No. 7 in receiving, giving the Oilers one of the most versatile players in the league.

The Jets will have gimpy-legged Joe Namath starting at quarterback but will have to pull their running game together to get by the Oilers. Fullback Matt Snell, the big gainer, was not impressive in New York's opening 19-14 victory over Miami.

The Chiefs announced their internation of challenging for the Western crown by mauling Buffalo 42-20 as Bert Coan had a sensational day at halfback and Otis Taylor showed why the club let last year's No. 1 flanker, Frank Jackson, go to Miami in the expansion draft.

The Chiefs may not have too much trouble with an Oakland team that hasn't been able to get untracked. Quarterback Cotton Davidson seems to have made a successful recovery from an arm operation but Clem Daniels, the club's leading rusher, has gained just 23 yards in 21 carries.

The Bills, who have been unable to put together a consistent offense with quarterback Jack Kemp suffering with a sore arm, might be able to get started against Miami. The Bills are making one important change, inserting Arkansas rookie Bobby Crockett at split end in place of Glenn Bass.

The Dolphins, who are going with rookie Rick Norton at quarterback, plan to start two former Bills — fullback Billy Joe and flanker Bo Roberson. Joe and Roberson were shipped to Miami in the expansion draft.

Denver showed nothing against Houston — the Broncos couldn't even get a first down. But then Boston wasn't too impressive against San Diego. However, Jim Nance finally seems to be blossoming at fullback for the Patriots and quarterback Babe Parilli should start hitting the target.

Clendenon's Homer Gets Pirates Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donn Clendenon brought Pittsburgh from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday as the Pirates snapped the Los Angeles Dodgers' eight-game winning streak 9-5.

The victory lifted the second-place Pirates to within 2½ games of the Dodgers in the National League race.

The Pirates went on to clinch the triumph with four runs in the eighth inning.

Jackets Rout A&M With Big 2nd Half

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lenny Snow led a Georgia Tech football comeback by scoring three touchdowns in the second half Saturday which carried the Yellow Jackets to a 38-3 conquest of Texas A&M.

The Aggies led 3-0 at the half in the opener for both teams before the fleet junior halfback put some fire in the Tech attack.

	Texas A&M	Ga. Tech
First downs	6	28
Rushing yardage	56	268
Passing yardage	33	12
Passes	4-19	15-27
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	9-46	2-32
Yards penalized	50	25

Snow scored on runs of 7, 3 and 7 yards and set up Tommy Carmichael's 33-yard field goal with a 15-yard burst to snuff the Aggies' bid for an upset.

Sophomore quarterback Larry Good threw two touchdown passes in the last minute to make a rout of the battle in which the Aggies did not manage a first down in the second half.

Texas A&M, unable to generate a sustained drive, had opened the scoring with a 30-yard field goalp by Glynn Lindsey late in the first peroid.

The Aggies never threatened again, but their defenses blunted all Tech's scoring bids until the Yellow Jackets went on an 80-yard drive in the third quarter, kept alive when Texas A&M was penalized to its 31 for roughing the kicker on a punt

Snow took a pitchout and scored from the seven, and Carmichael kicked his field goal later in the third period to widne the lead to 10-3.

A pass interception by Haven Kicklighter on the Tech 39 started the Yellow Jackets' second scoring drive capped by Snow's three-yard plunge. The Tech halfback scored again with 7:45 left in the game on a seven-yard burst after Tommy Burke returned an Aggie punt 38 yards.

The Aggies used three quarterbacks—Harry Ledetter, Edd Hargett and Charlie Riggs — but none was able to hti through the air, with Texas A&M completing only 4 of 19 passes for 33 yards.

Kim King, Georgia Tech's southpaw quarterback, connected on only 5 of 16 passes for 40 yards in the first half, but he found the range in the last two periods and finished with 12 completions in 24 tries for 112 yards.

The game, in 60 - degree weather, attracted only 36,215 fans, one of Georgia Tech's smallest crowds in recent years.

Gun, Archery Clinic Slated By Optimists

The Gun and Archery Safety Clinic, a growing "must" for any area youths who ever expect to handle guns or archery equipment, will be presented in three installments at Bancroft Camp on Cheniere Lake next Saturday and Sunday.

The clinic, jointly sponsored by the Optimist Club of Greater Monroe and The Twin Cities Optimist Club, will be spread into three sessions for the benefit of youths who might not be able to attend one of the other sessions.

Two sessions are scheduled for Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and a single session is billed for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Free transportation on city buses will be provided for boys desiring this means of going to and from Bancroft Camp.

Buses will leave the Monroe City Hall at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday, make a pickup 15 minutes later at the West Monroe First Baptist Church and then proceed to the gun range. The Sunday bus run starts at 1 p.m. at the city hall here, and also makes the West Monroe church stop.

Gun safety instruction will be given by Art Hill and Jim Stotts, Winchester - Olin representatives; and A. J. Cobb, president of Pine Hills Gun Club and officers of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

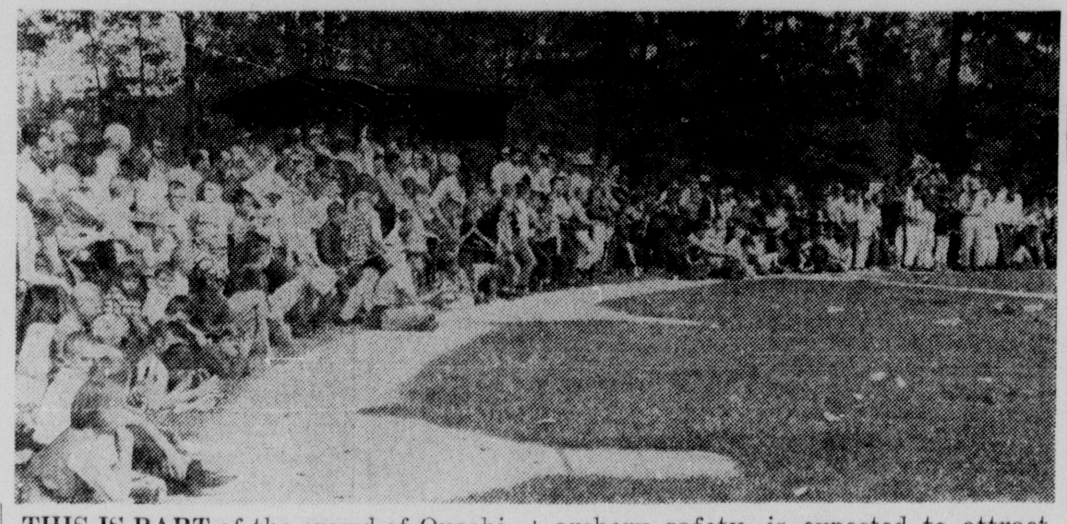
Kit Beecher, director of the Bernstein Park zoo here, will be a featured instructor as he gives his colorful snake demonstrations and cautions concerning poisonous snakes in their natural habitat.

Sheriff Bailey Grant again is clinic master, and Optimist Club committee chairmen arranging plans for the clinic are Leroy Magee, Dan Lemoine, Jim H. Branch, Earl Lingle and Jimmy Moore with their respective presidents, Sheldon Ray of Greater Monroe, and Bob Jackson of Twin Cities.



THIS IS PART of the crowd of Ouachita parish youths — and some adults — that attended last year's Optimist Club Gun Safety Clinic at Bancroft Camp. This year's clinic, adding archery safety, is expected to attract even larger crowds for two sessions next Saturday and a single session the following Sunday.

Second Showdown For Packers Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay faces its second showdown game in two weeks Sunday at Cleveland and if the Browns don't do better than Baltimore, the Packers can start scouting the American Football League for the super bowl game.

The Packers' defense picked off three of Johnny Unitas' passes last week in an impressive 24-3 victory over the Colts. Coach Vince Lombardi has the defending champs primed for a rousing rematch with the Browns, the team they beat for the National Football League title last year.

Because Chicago and Los Angeles played Friday night, there are only six games on the Sunday NFL schedule. Dallas, which drew a bye last week, gets into action against New York in the Cotton Bowl and San Francisco, tied by Minnesota last week, is idle this go round.

In addition to Green Bay, 1-0, at Cleveland, 1-0, other Sunday games will have New York, 0-0-1, at Dallas, 0-0, Washington, 0-1, at St. Louis, 1-0, Detroit, 1-0, at Pittsburgh, 0-0-1, Baltimore, 0-1, at Minnesota, 0-0-1, and Atlanta, 0-1, at Philadelphia, 0-1.

Cleveland will get its first regular season look at the Browns without Jim Brown (they did play an exhibitional Cleveland). The Browns didn't miss Jim last week when they intercepted five Sonny Jurgensen passes in a 38-14 victory over the Redskins after a slow start. However, they could use the big fullback against the big Packer defense. Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green will try to ake up the slack but the Browns undoubtedly will send Frank Ryan out to throw the football.

The Packers, 23-12 winners over the Browns last Jan. 2 in snowy Green Bay, opened strong against the Colts with Jim Taylor running for 76 yards and Bart Starr hitting with 14 of 19 passes.

Dallas, boomed as a title hope in the Eastern Conference, will show its new big play offense, featuring Don Meredith and Bob Hayes in its opener after sweeping five exhibition games.

The Giants, who tied Pittsburgh in a battle of fumbles, must depend on Earl Morrall's passes. A big crowd is expected to jam the Cotton Bowl to greet the Cowboys.

The Colts, derailed by the Packers, hope to get on the right path at Minnesota with Unitas still needing two TD passes to tie Y. A. Tittle's lifetime record of 212. The Vikings got only 10 pass completions from Fran Tarkenton but scrambled to a 20-20 tie in San Francisco and should be better in their home opener.

The surprising Detroit Lions, upset winners over Chicago last Sunday, will start Milt Plum and Tom Nowatzke after the Steelers and will give Bill Nelsen a big pass rush. Bill Austin's rebuilding Steelers hope to surprise the Lions with rookie Bill Asbury and Nelson's tosses to Garry Ballman.

St. Louis is home for the second straight week with Otto Graham's Redskins as the opposition this time. The Cardinals rallied to beat Philadelphia in their opener on a Jim Bakken field goal after Johnny Roland aroused the offense. The Redskins, who led the Browns at the half but faded fast, hope to hold on this time.

Atlanta's new Falcons and the Eagles, both beaten in their openers, will be shooting for a first victory at Franklin Field. The Falcons lost an exhibition game 9-7 to the Eagles Aug. 1 when a bad pass from center cost them a chance for a field goal on the final play. Tim Brown, a 10,000-yard man, will test the Falcons defense while Randy Johnson attempts to pick yoles in the Eagles.

Spurrier-Paced Gators Romp To Easy 43-7 Opening Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Steve Spurrier, the most exciting quarterack in University of Florida football history, passed for three touchdowns and kicked two field goals Saturday in leading the Gators to an impressive 43-7 intersectional victory over Northwestern.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Statistics of the Northwestern-Florida football game:

	Northwestern	Florida
First downs	13	29
Rushing yardage	61	206
Passing yardage	152	340
Passes	14-36	27-37
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	7-40	4-44
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	5	30

Outweighed by the Big Ten team, Florida used superior speed and Spurrier's pinpoint tosses for a rout in what was expected to be a close game.

Richard Trapp, a junior speed demon, caught two touchdown passes and started another drive with a 32-yard run.

A bunch of sophomores meshed into the Florida nucleus of veterans with the result of a far more impressive Gator team than the one picked before this season opened to be middle bracket in the Southeastern Conference.

The 40,056 spectators whooped and cheered at the prospect of a good season as the Gators—sprinkled with inexperience — performed with the skill of a veteran combination.

Northwestern marched 73 yards to its only touchdown at the start of the second half but made no other serious threat.

Although Spurrier passed for 219 yards, he sat on the bench about one third of the offensive time while his understudies—Harmon Wages and Kay Stephenson carried on, and they each engineered a touchdown drive.

The most brilliant sophomore in Florida's camp, halfback Larry Smith, got only a brief moment to shine. He set up the first touchdown with a 36-yard burst over the middle and down the right sideline and gained a total of 57 yards in six runs—but was cut down with a hip injury and out of action in the second quarter.

The 95-degree heat on the field obviously troubled Northwestern in the late stages, but it wasn't as significant as Florida's fired-up attack.

Florida rolled up more than 500 yards—206 running and 340 passing. The performance promised a better-balanced attack than last season—when Spurrier gained 2,467 yards but the rest of the offense made negligible dents in opposing lines.

The Gators' touchdown drives traveled 55, 74, 53, 42 and 80 yards. It wasn't often Northwestern was able to stop Florida short of midfield.

The victory for the Southeastern Conference representative over the Big Ten team gave the SEC a 3-game edge in the all-time standings between the major conferences.

Field Goal Gives Georgia Victory

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Little Bob Etter booted an 18 - yard field goal with two minutes left Saturday night to give favored Georgia a 20-17 victory over tough Mississippi State.

It was the first Southeastern game of the season. Georgia, unable to demoralize the dogged State squad, had gone ahead twice only to have the Maroons fight back to tie it up early in the fourth.

The winning kick came after Georgia staved off disaster with an interception by linebacker Happy Bicks in the Georgia end zone to kill a State threat.

Junior quarterback Kirby Moore sparked the Georgia drive to the two. From there, Etter, a 150-pound senior from Chattanooga, Tenn., dropped back and booted the decisive field goal.

Georgia showed a marked superiority over the State line in the early stages but the Maroon forwards picked up steam and battled on equal terms from midway in the second quarter.

Etter's accurate toe was a big factor. He converted twice and hit on both of his field goal attempts.

The underdog Maroons scored first after end Stu Scheer intercepted a deflected Moore pass at the Georgia 45. Quarterback Don Saget completed two passes as he guided State to the Georgia 21. From there, kicker James Neill dropped back for a 39-yard field goal.

Georgia also converted a fine defense play on its first score. All-America tackle George Patton recovered a Tommy Garrison fumble at the State 19. On the sixth play, Moore hit Don Hayes on a tackle-eligible play with a four-yard touchdown pass.

State forged ahead in the second quarter with a 54 - drive, sparked by Saget and fleet wingback Marcus Rhoden. Rhoden took a 16-yard Saget pass and later picked up a crucial seven yards to the two. Saget dived in for the touchdown that gave State its last lead of the game.

Georgia tied it with a 29-yard Etter field goal in the final seconds of the half, and went ahead in the third after Steve Newhouse recovered a State fumble at the State 32.

Moore ripped off a 21 - yard run to the four. From there halfback Kent Lawrance scored.

State tied it up for the last ti meon a 66-yard drive featuring three Saget passes to Rhoden for 29 yards and a brilliant 15-yard run by Saget after he apparently was trapped at the line. Rhoden ran two yards to score.

Griese Passes Purdue To Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue took the wraps off passer Bob Griese to make up for its sputtering ground game and trounced Ohio University 42-3 Saturday in its opening football game.

The Purdue defense had trouble in the first half with the Bobcat runners, especially Bob Houmard and Wash Lyons, but the Boilermakers put a brutal rush on Ohio's sophomore quarterback, Ron DeLucca, and broke up his passes when he got them away.

Purdue led only 7-3 going into the final minute of the first half.

MSU Ground Game Too Much For NSC

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State, frustrated in the air, put together a devastating ground attack Saturday as it wore North Carolina State down and won an intersectional opener 28-10.

North Carolina State, which grabbed a 3-0 lead midway in the second period on a 49 yard field goal by Harold Deter, could do little else as MSU's infantry went to work. The visitors finally got a touchdown with just seconds left.

	N.C. State	Mich. State

Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-36	2-19
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	0	49

The MSU running attack varied from the powerhouse galloping of Clint Jones to the outside slants of fullback Bob Apisa and the nimble scampering of quarterback Jimmy Raye. All scored.

Jones' score came on a 39 yard smash. He brushed off four tacklers as he churned in his way across less than four minutes after North Carolina posted its field goal. The drive covered 60 yards in six plays.

North Carolina State held MSU to a 7-3 halftime lead but the second - ranked Spartans dominated play the rest of the way.

MSU picked up a couple of touchdowns in the third period as North Carolina State could not muster a first down.

Blancas recently purchased a diamond engagement ring from R&A Jewelers. Blancas commented that he had been looking at diamonds throughout the U. S. and found that R&A Jewelers gave him a better deal than he was offered by other jewelers that he contacted on the golf tour.

"I strongly recommend R&A Jewelers for the best deal on a diamond," said Blancas, a former Cotton States Tourney winner.—Adv.

Illegal Guns Feel Squeeze

With Paul Martin

Louisiana is going to get too hot for game law violators.

Dr. Leslie G. Glasgow, in office hardly two months as director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, has the word out all up and down the line to bring in the game thieves.

"The game violator had better move to other sections of the country," Dr. Glasgow said, "because Louisiana intends to put a stop to this sort of thing."

"The taxpayers are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars each year toward keeping the state a 'sportsman's paradise' and we don't intend to permit a few violators to besmirch this ever - growing image," he said.

Too long have game violation cases been hit and miss in the courts.

A few courts are rough on offenders, more so if the culprit is from some other parish.

Some courts give us the impression they want to ignore game cases as too insignificant to clutter up their dockets — or maybe it's the district attorneys who need to be made aware they have to prosecute these cases just as they would any felon.

Whatever the attitudes of district attorneys or judges — many are already intolerant of the illegal hunter— the poacher is as much a thief as the house-breaker, bank bandit or pickpocket. At least the state legislature made laws saying its so.

You've heard the story making the rounds that game agents in some parishes say "what's the use of making arrests. We make a case and the DA ignores us . . . we're not summoned as witnesses when the case is called in court . . . the judge just suspended the sentence . . . its okay to suspend sentence sometimes, but when they're old offenders?"

Game Agents Are Busy

We've even had the question put to us: "If your paper is going to put the shoplifter's name in print why don't you publish names of illegal hunters?"

Unless it becomes necessary as a weapon toward accomplishing enforcement, we are reluctant to use this column for court proceedings and news from the sheriff's office. This paper has regular news colums for that purpose.

But we point out that about the time Dr. Glasgow took office the game agents hauled in several south Louisiana hunters for illegal deer kills.

A little over a week ago some of you saw the announcement of the arrest of three north Louisiana men for alleged illegal hunting in Madison and Tensas parish and two Alexandria men who were accused of taking Concordia deer.

This week came the announcement of the arrest of a Waterproof man and woman accused of illegal purchase of an illegally taken deer.

You don't have to go far from this city to find violations.

Pending in Ouachita parish is the case of a West Monroe man charged with killing a doe deer at night near Cheniere Lake. (He's free under $100 bond). At least two cases of killing squirrel out of season were presented by game wardens to the Ouachita district attorney the past week along with several cases where, when checking dove hunters, persons were found hunting without a license.

Are you satisfied with the enforcement in your area? If not, start doing something about it through your wildlife organization, your police jurors, your elected officials.

Last Day Of Dove Session

This afternoon marks the finish of the first 16-day period of dove hunting in the state.

The experimental teal season for those who applied for permits back in the summer opened yesterday morning for a nine-day run ending next Sunday at sunset.

If you didn't secure a permit to hunt this pint-sized duck, let the teal alone. If you did get a permit, some of you are going to get questionaires game biologists want processed to help them in evaluation of the special season. Fill out these questionnaires as completely and truthfully as you can.

The second session of dove hunting comes Oct. 15-Nov. 6. When the teal season closes next Sunday, there will be five days of rest for the guns until the squirrel and rabbit season opens October 1.

Don't wait until the last minute to secure the permits you'll need for hunting in game management areas where some small game hunting becomes legal Oct. 1. These permits are good all season for any such GMA hunting, except where daily permits are required. Get them at district offices in Monroe, Ferriday, Minden, Alexandria, DeRidder, Opelousas, Baton Rouge. You can write for them or apply in person.

The Outdoor Scoreboard

Three Lake Providence couples, FRED and MRS. PHILLIPS, FRED and MRS. SCHNEIDER and MICHAEL and MRS. BROWN, decided to make dove hunting a group affair. So the husbands all bought their wives shotguns, gave them some shooting instructions and all went for game. The story is the men got the dove limits and the ladies "shot a lot."

An acquaintance who knows how black and blue one can get from heavy shooting with a shot gun asked one of the ladies if her shoulder was bruised. "No, I don't think so," she answered, pondered a moment then said: "Wait a minute, I'll look and see . . . Oh! My goodness! There's blood blisters!"

SAM and MRS. FOUTZ, Lake Providence, showed a nice string of 30 cat and 20 crappie taken from the Lake Providence River Chute, and a day later they fished East Carroll's Concordia for 25 crappie.

FRANCIS WALKER, Winnfield, went to Cocodrie Bayou near Monterey for an excellent catch of white perch and made it next to Big Bayou for another good crappie show. J. E. MELTON, Winnfield, got crappie limits from Big Bayou. D. R. GOUGH, Jena, showed some fine catches of cat from Catahoula's French Forks.

ALLEN BOYD and J. R. DAVIS took accomodations at Concordia Lake, Ferriday, for fishing purposes and wound up dove hunting instead, taking limits two days.

TED SUTTON and R. C. ST. JOHN, Monroe, took bass limits at Bussey Brake where "BUTCH" PACKER and his dad, JIM, Monroe, took 20 bass; E. L. FARRAR, Monroe, caught 12 bass, and "PENNY" PENNINGON, Bastrop, showed 45 bream.

Chalk up another limit of crappie for W. A. and MRS. STEWART at Black Bayou Lake; L. G. DAILY took 85 bream here; STEVE JOINER caught seven bass; and JOHN T. LITTLE brought in 28 crappie described by O. E. TOWERY, operator of Oliver's Boat Dock, as "the largest specks I've seen this year." LITTLE came back with IVY SMITH and they caught 35 more of the same.

R. T. KUHN worked Cheniere Lake for eight bass this week, and D. L. MAY took seven.

Arcadia anglers had a good week at D'Arbonne Lake. MRS. WILLIE SUTTON and MRS. J. L. RABUN caught crappie limits. T. D. and MRS. WHITLOCK and son took 140 crappie, and bass limits were collected by CLARENCE GRIFFIN and STANLEY HENDERSON.

EARL HARRIST, onetime professional baseball pitcher now a Cleveland Indians scout, and his wife, JO, (they live at Simsboro but have a place on D'Arbonne) caught crappie limits. The HERBERT GLENN family of El Dorado, Ark., took many bass and crappie while camping near Pleasure Island where operator GRADY CARROLL said RONNIE GLENN caught a largemouth bass weighing 7½ pounds. ZEB and ANN CHANNEY, El Dorado, also caught big strings of bass and crappie.

BOB and MRS. PRATT, Dallas, Tex., with R. C. MOORE as guide, fished D'Arbonne for 26 bass up to three pounds. DAN SMITH, Hico, took 60 big bream up to ¾-pound. BOYD SENN, West Monroe, 50 big bream. L. F. CLINE, Haynesville, 10 bass and 13 crappie. B. W. BROWN, El Dorado, with Moore at guide, 53 bream up to ¾-pound. Then one day R. C. MOORE took time out from guiding to take the bass limit.

Back at Black Bayou Lake, TED HERR took 26 bass in two days; ROGER LARSEN had bream limit one day, bass limits two days; youngsters TONY and PHILLIP DANNA caught seven bass; JOHNNY DANNA and PAUL DANNA showed bass limits; T. R. TAYLOR, Sterlington, crappie limit; H. H. LAND, 47 bream; and W. L. HUSTED, 55 bream.

Valley Hunters Set Barbecue

The annual family barbecue of the Ouachita Valley Hunters Association will be held Saturday in Area 4, Cheniere Lake. The event begins at 5:30 p.m. with entertainment, followed at 7 p.m. with the dinner.

The barbecue is held on the final Saturday in September each year for all members of the association and their families.

Capers said the area will be sprayed prior to the barbecue.

Oklahoma 11 By Oregon With Hinto

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Wingback Eddie Hinton scampered 63 yards with an Oregon punt to start a third quarter scoring rampage that pushed Oklahoma to a 17-0 football triumph over Oregon Saturday.

	Oregon	Oklahoma
First downs	13	12
Rushing yardage	177	149
Passing yardage	31	104
Passes	5-18	10-16
Passes Intercepted by	1	0
Punts	9-30	7-44
Fumbles lost	2	0
Yards penalized	61	45

Hinton dropped the ball at the Oregon 30, but picked it up on the first bounce and raced in.

Okla—FG Vachon 23
Okla—Shotts 2 run (Vachon kick)
Attendance 51,100.

Volleyball Loop Set For Start

A Volleyball league for men and woman will be held at Wossman Recreation Center starting on October 2nd.

All teams interested in playing should register by September 28th.

A league will be formed for men and one for men and ladies mixed teams.

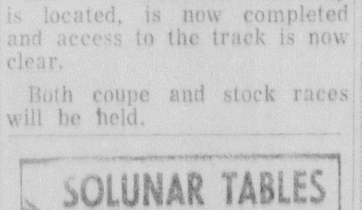
A league will be formed for ladies if enough teams are interested. For further information call the Monroe Recreation Office, 325-3895.

Traweek Holds Usual Racing

Time trials begin at 1:30 and races at 2 this afternoon at Traweek's Raceway.

Track officials have announced that the Jonesboro Road, off which the Traweek Raceway is located, is now completed and access to the track is now clear.

Both coupe and stock races will be held.



The solunar periods, during which there is maximum fish and wildlife activity, are printed below. Major periods began at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours. Minor periods are shorter.

but what does it take to keep a suit looking good six months later . . . here are the ingredients!

Fabrics . . . all are absolutely luxury to touch, to see, to wear, all in pure wool, naturally . . . but fabric alone doesn't make this suit unique!

Collar . . . sure, it lies flat, stays flat, keeps on curving close, fitting smoothly wearing after wearing . . . because many hand operations go into making it . . . but the collar alone doesn't make this suit unique!

Lapels . . . see how it springs back neat and flat, all cut with custom-made dies, given a light padding that's sewn with row upon row of interloop stitching . . . but the lapels alone don't make this suit unique!

Sleeves . . . the way they're sewn in gives you wonderful comfort and freedom when you swing your arms, properly balanced so there's no constriction, no binding . . . but sleeves alone don't make this suit unique!

Buttons . . . of course it has buttons, but these are especially tested to meet high standards, selected to suit the specific suit you choose . . . but buttons alone don't make this suit unique!

Threads . . . different kinds go into this suit, for basting, for permanent inside tacking, for seaming trouser sides, for lapels, for pockets, every-one color-matched to fabric, inside and out . . . but thread alone doesn't make this suit unique!

Add all of this together . . . buttons, threads, pocketing, collars, lapels, sleeves, trousers, fabrics, styles, and lots more . . . all these things make this suit unique, different from any other suit you've seen at The Palace!

Be among the first to see, touch, try on a truly unique suit . . . such as the streamline stripes shown, burgundy stripes on black or brown, 39-46,, in regular and long, $100 . . . others to $135

The Hidden Cove

An east wind pushed small waves which lapped against the shore. Across the water you could see an island on which stood several tall pines. On a narrow neck of land down the lake, more evergreens grew. At a quiet spot in a certain cove, coals glistened in a brazier, and a picnic was spread on the sand. Through the trees came the sound of the wind.

September in North Georgia is a pleasant month. Around the lake at the base of Stone Mountain, leaves are beginning to turn. Some, already gold and red, are harbingers of the spectacular autumn only weeks away. Nearby an old covered bridge, something from Currier and Ives, crosses the lake to an island. A time honored grist mill stands on a hillside next to a whiskey still which is all quite legal.

Around the bend a train whistle toots a shrill far away sound. From across the years comes the joyful clanging of a locomotive bell. The General steams up the track pulling three turn - of - the - century excursion cars. Big red drive wheels, which have known the autumns of many years, glisten against steel rails. For some, the sounds of the little train are lessons in the history of America. For others, the whistle, clanging bell, and charging wheels are memories of far away times — times when the 6:05 chugged in from the city. You'd watch for the drop of the signal high on the tower. When the red hand fell, the train was in the block.

On the lake's surface, a wind gust froths the water. A cockleshell sailboat skims near the sedate paddle wheeler, Robert E. Lee. Every summer afternoon on the lake, desperate river pirates sally forth from the opposite shore and lay seige to the Lee. Every afternoon, they are repulsed by a valiant crew. But for a scant few minutes, passengers relive times in American history, and children believe not what they see.

From the cove on Sundays, you can hear the magnificent 610 bell Coca-Cola World's Fair Carillon which stands as a redwood candlestick in a grove of cedars and pines at the lake's edge.

The park improves with each passing year. The Stone Mountain Inn, one of the South's finer hotels, overlooks the faces of Robert Lee, Jefferson Davis, and Stonewall Jackson being carved out of the granite mountainside. You can sit on the galleries in huge wooden rocking chairs and watch the world go by. The Plantation, brought from South Georgia and authentically rebuilt, is a masterpiece and a treasure - trove of antiques. The Battlerena in Confederate Hall is considered on a par with the famed Cyclorama in Atlanta's Grant Park. At the Game Ranch, Bill the bison has two wives. Children can see, many for the first time, animals which have walked from the pages of nature books. Every now and then, the deer sneak out and wander through the park.

If you ride the Swiss Sky Ride to the top of the mountain, you can see the buildings of the city in the hazy distance. Flags whip in the breeze on the Court of Southern States. Below is the park, Georgia's living memorial to other days.

And always, there's the peace of the great grey mountain — a strength giving, inspiring kind of majesty. From the mountaintop, you can see the cove, and the world is a million miles away.

Sends Two Letters

Mrs. Kennedy Tries To Halt Bishop Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Jim Bishop said Saturday that Mrs. John F. Kennedy had attempted to prevent him from writing a book on the assassination of President Kennedy.

Bishop said Mrs. Kennedy had asked him twice by letter two years ago to drop plans for a book to be called "The Day Kennedy Was Shot." When he declined, he said, the Kennedy family silenced most sources and brought pressure on his publisher, Bennett Cerf of Random House.

Cerf confirmed that Mrs. Kennedy had asked him not to publish the book.

The former First Lady informed him, Bishop said, that she had "hired" author William Manchester to write the history of the assassination. Manchester's book, "The Death of a President," is due for publication in January by Harper & Row.

The attempts to stop Bishop's book were disclosed Friday by Jack Anderson, an associate of Washington syndicated columnist Drew Pearson.

Mrs. Kennedy could not be reached for comment on the column or on the statements by Bishop and Cerf.

Bishop, in a telephone interview from his home in Hallandale, Fla., said Mrs. Kennedy had sent him a handwritten letter dated Sept. 17, 1964, in which she asked him "to please not go ahead with your intended book, 'The Day Kennedy Was Shot.' The idea of it is so distressing to me, I can't bear to think of seeing — or of seeing advertised — a book with that name and subject — one that my children might see or someone might mention to them."

She wrote that she had "hired" Manchester "to protect President Kennedy and the truth."

She added: "He was to interrogate everyone who had any connection with those days — and if I decide the book should never be published — then Mr. Manchester will be reimbursed for his time. Or if I decide it should be known — I will decide when it should be published."

When Bishop asked Mrs. Kennedy not to "stand in the doorway of history," she replied that "none of the people connected with November 22d will speak to anyone but Mr. Manchester. That is my wish, and it is theirs also."

Bishop said he had made several attempts to interview persons connected with the assassination — as a test — and was turned down. He said in each case the person had told him they had been asked by the Kennedys not to discuss the assassination.

Bishop said that since he had completed the research for "A Day in the Life of President Kennedy" only 28 days before the assassination, he had expected "the same cooperation on this book as before."

He said he had not found many people, however, who were willing to talk about the assassination.

Bishop said he had expected to have the book ready in about two years. He is currently working on "A Day in the Life of President Johnson."

Cerf said, "Mrs. Kennedy did object to his (Bishop's doing a book on the assassination and she asked me not to publish it. I told her that if we didn't, 50 other publishers would be happy to."

Bishop said he expected Manchester's book "to be a very fine book, but it must be borne in mind that this is a book that has passed the scrutiny of the Kennedys."

New Orleans Still

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Port Director, W. J. Amoss, said Saturday New Orleans continued as the nation's second largest port — behind New York — in total imports and exports handled during 1965.

He said the New Orleans area led the nation in grain exports with a total of 430 million bushels.

Buildings Named At Northeast

Nine buildings at Northeast Louisiana State College have been named in honor of outstanding individuals or families who made contributions to the college or the state.

Names of the buildings were announced by Dr. George T. Walker, Northeast president, and were approved Saturday by the State Board of Education.

Those for whom the buildings are named included the first president of Northeast Louisiana State College, Lewis C. Slater, and two former deans, Dr. Clint O. Hanna and Dr. Harry M. Lemert.

Other buildings are named for an industry and family having great influence on the economy and welfare of Ouachita Parish and Louisiana, the Olin family of Olin - Mathieson Chemical Corporation; a state legislator who authored an important act affecting the College Theodore J. Coenen Sr. of Rayville, and four civic, educational and-or pioneering leaders of Monroe and Northeast Louisiana—Frederick Gray Hudson, Sigmund Masur, Judge Charles Schulze and William John Sherrouse.

"There are many names which would be appropriate for College buildings, but only a limited number can be selected at a given time." President Walker said in announcing the names. "The names selected recognize the significant contributions and achievements of only some of the many outstanding personalities who have contributed greatly to Northeast, Monroe or the state."

The newly named buildings are:

Hudson Hall — Formerly called Bon Aire Hall, a dormitory for 384 men located on Bon Aire Drive and completed in September, 1964. Named in honor of Frederick Gray Hudson (1856-1912), Ouachita Parish district attorney and district judge.

Sherrouse Mall — Formerly called the New Men's Dormitory, a dormitory for 408 men located on Bon Aire Drive and completed in September, 1965. Named in honor of William John Sherrouse (1888-1963) Monroe civic leader and businessman.

Schulze Dining Hall — Formerly called the Men's Dining Hall, located on Bon Aire Drive and completed in September, 1965. Named in honor of Judge Charles Schulze (1861 - 1943), Monroe jurist.

Slater Hall — A dormitory for 400 women at the corner of Hippolite Street and College Avenue which opened this month. Named in honor of Lewis C. Slater (1893 - 1966), member of the faculty (1938 - 1958) and first president of Northeast Louisiana State College (1950-1958).

Masur Hall — A domitory for 432 men on Bon Aire Drive which opened this month. Named in honor of Sigmund Masur (1881-1948), Monroe civic and business leader.

Coenen Cafeteria — Opened this month and located on Bayou Drive. Named in honor of Theodore J. Coenen Sr. (1876-1942), state legislator who authored the legislative act of 1936 finalizing the agreement on operation of Northeast Junior College by Louisiana State University instead of the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Hanna Hall — A classroom and laboratory building on College Avenue, opened this month, which houses the Departments of Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Building Construction and a modern foreign language laboratory. Named in honor of Dr. Clint O. Hanna (1919-1965), member of the faculty (1954-1965) and dean of instruction (1960-1965).

Lemert Hall — A dormitory for 212 women now under construction on Bayou Drive, to be completed by September, 1967. Named in honor of Dr. Harry M. Lemert (1917-1963), member of the faculty (1939-1963) and dean of fine arts (1957-1963).

Olin Hall — A dormitory for 832 men now under construction on Bon Aire Drive, to be completed by September, 1967. Named in honor of the Olin family of Olin - Mathieson Chemical Corporation, whose plant in West Monroe is one of Northeast Louisiana's major industries.

Plane Order

PARIS (AP)—Air France, the nationalized French airline, announced Saturday it has ordered four Boeing 747 planes to be delivered early in 1970. The planes are designed to carry up to 450 passengers at subsonic speeds. Several European and U.S. airlines previously had ordered the planes.

Red Parties Sharply Hit Red Chinese

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet press Saturday reported that British, Spanish, Czech and Bulgarian Communist parties have sharply attacked Red Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-Tung and his "cultural revolution."

The official Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda published a declaration issued by the British Communists definint the current upheaval in China as "the deification of Mao Tse-tung, the suppression of creative thought, and the effort to liquidate all opposition to the current dogmatic, fanatical anti-Soviet policy of the current leadership."

The statement was considered particularly significant because Britain's Communists have been dragging their feet in the years-long ideological dispute between Moscow and Peking.

Talk On Fashions, Shoe Styles Given For Jaycee Jaynes

A program on Fashions highlighted the Monday night meeting of the West Monroe Jaycee Jaynes at the First National Bank reception room. Mrs. John Cordaro presided over the business session preceding the program.

Guest speaker for the evening was K. D. Norris, whose talk encompassed new trends in dress styles, sportswear and new shoe styles. He also showed a film on shoes, demonstrating how shoes are designed, tested and manufactured.

The soap and cleaning supplies from the "Soap and Suds" project were brought to the meeting and it was voted they be given to the Open Door home. Mrs. Cordaro and Mrs. Roscoe Holcomb will deliver the products.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Thomas P. Cooper and Mr. Norris. Members attending were Mrs. Dan Slakter, Mrs. Dan Doughty, Mrs. J. D. Smith, Mrs. Ray Calloway, Mrs. Von Perkins, Mrs. Bill Hoover, Mrs. Roscoe Holcomb, Mrs. Cordaro and Mrs. Durwood Kuhn.

The next meeting will be September 26 in the First National Bank at 7:30 p.m.

SWEET ENOUGH

If you serve whipped cream with Pecan Pie, don't sweeten the garnish! Pecan Pie is quite sweet enough as is.

Youthful Trend Found In Fashions For Campus Wear

Nothing quite tops off that fresh spirit of back-to-school excitement like a few stylish new additions to the campus wardrobe. And the selections and modes expand each year, as more and more fashion giants look to the coed to debut their fall creations.

Youth is the key this autumn and a youthful exuberance is to be found in fashions everywhere.

Imagine a handful of long sleeve vibrant argyle and shetland sweaters marching into history class, sporting necklines that range from the simple jewel, through an unmasked "V" toa rolling, robust turtle, teamed with a variety of skirts, straight, "A" or pleated, or slacks. For a really zestful feeling try the short, short skirt look with matching argyle or cable knee socks.

Try to be conservative with a traditional glen plaid, and you'll find the freedom loving styling to be young and gay, with jumpers, clever lumberman jackets and trim pants catching you up in the spirit of campus excitement.

All kinds of marvelous fashion things are coming out of the new shaker wool knits especially in the dashing James Kenrob designs in the bulky medium. Cardigans, long sleeve sweaters and knitted tops in some astounding colors are all jazzed up with fringe and crochet trim to top off skirt or pants, and while they'll be terrific for class, you just try to find something better for a football game.

HINT FOR LOUVERS

Stretch Is Newest Lingerie Concept

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Sketch fabrics get into all kinds of fashions these days. Stretchknit, Inc., has come up with a new concept in lingerie called Funny Underwear, which they have designed as a whole new concept.

The collection is multipurpose, including tights, tops, drawers and petti-slips which can be worn interchangeably as sleepwear, swimwear, underwear, play-clothes or disco-dresses.

This means that they are done in bold stripes, mad plaids and wild polka dots, which can be seen or unseen when the wearer pleases. The notion makes great sense in a traveling age when one can suddenly need a swimsuit in any season for a trip south, for example. No need to look for one, when one has a collection of Funny Underwear.

Maidye Eugenia Strickland Weds George C. Barker Jr.

The marriage of Miss Maidye Eugenia Strickland, and George Croft Barker Jr., was solemnized in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Monday, September 12 at 6 p.m. Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Dee A. Strickland, 2016 Island Drive, Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. George Croft Barker Sr., of LeMoyen, La.

Arrangements of white stock, chrysanthemums and gladioli alternated with cathedral tapers decorated the altar where the double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Fred S. Flurry. Appropriate music was presented by the organist, Leon Hammonds.

Vows were exchanged in the presence of close friends and members of the couple's families.

Escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage the bride was wearing a white two piece knit ensemble. A green orchid at the nape of her neck formed her headpiece and she wore matching shoes and carried a prayer book crested with an arrangement of white orchids. The bride's only jewels were pearl earrings, a gift of her father.

James Lopez of Opelousas served as best man for Mr. Barker and ushers were Wesley Hodge and Orville Harris of Bunkie.

A pyramid of white pompons in a Wedgewood pitcher provided a focal point in the entrance hall with white roses arranged in a low cut glass bowl on the coffee table. Two triple branched candelabra with white tapers adorned the buffet in the dining room. On the harpsichord were white carnations and stock.

The tiered wedding cake which centered the dining room table was served by Mrs. John Jordan and Mrs. Ralph Brockman. Assisting with courtesies were Mrs. John Snelling, Mrs. Allen West and Mrs. T. Fitzhugh Wilson. Champagne was served throughout the evening.

The bride was graduated from Neville high school and attended Louisiana State University. Mr. Barker is a graduate of LSU and will enter Tulane Law School this fall. The couple will reside in New Orleans.

SUPPER PARTY

On Sunday evening preceding the wedding a supper party was given by Mr. Barker, father of the bridegroom, in the Garden Room at Bayou DeSiard Country Club, honoring the betrothed couple. Centerpiece for the table was an arrangement of chrysanthemums and gladioli in autumn shades of gold, bronze and orange.

Those attending were Mr. Barker and daughter, Cherry of LeMoyen; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harris of Bunkie; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brockman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hodge, Congressman and Mrs. Otto E. Passman, Dr. and Mrs. Strickland, Miss Betty Anne Inabnet and James Lopez.

FINNAN HADDIE

Don't forget about finnan haddie! That smoked fish is as good today as it was years ago when it was in highest favor. To cook finnan haddie, just put it in a big skillet and add water to cover; bring to a boil and drain the fish. Add fresh water to cover once more and then, after bringing to a boil, simmer — covered for about 15 minutes. Serve with butter-parsley sauce.

Coffee Honors Newcomer, Mrs. John Robert Harrison

Complimentary to Mrs. John Robert Harrison, a newcomer to Monroe, was a coffee given Wednesday morning by Mrs. Fletcher Ashcraft and Mrs. Bruce Brooks, when they entertained a group of contemporaries of the honoree at the Ashcraft ome, 1510 Island Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison recently moved here from Baton Rouge following Mr. Harrison's graduation from LSU School of Law. They are now at home on Lakeside Drive.

Mrs. Harrison is the former Rosemary McClendon of Bastrop and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McClendon. Mr. Harrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Harrison, 1015 North Second, Monroe.

Pale pink roses were used in an arrangement on the dining table from which coffee was served. Green zinnias and green grapes formed the decor for a marble top table in entrance hall with Montezuma and Peace roses in profusion about the rooms of the home.

Mrs. Ray Rhymes and Mrs. Earl Brimberry assisted in serving courtesies.

Approximately 40 young married women were invited to meet the honoree, who received with her mother and Mrs. Harrison.

MRS. JAMES LEE ANDERSON

Vernon T. McCoy Home Scene Of Anderson-Falk Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon T. McCoy, 1301 Hilton Avenue, Monroe, was scene of the ceremony on Monday, September 12 which united in marriage Mrs. McCoy's daughter, Miss Carole Doris Falk and James Lee Anderson, both of Pensacola, Florida. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Anderson of Nashville, Tennessee.

Dr. James T. Horton, pastor of Monroe First Baptist Church, performed the double ring vows at 7 p.m. with nuptial music provided by Mrs. Wilbur Humphries, of Grayson, aunt of the bride, at the piano.

Arrangements of white asters and stock on pedestal stands on either side of an arch between the living and dining rooms of the home formed a setting for the exchange of vows.

Mr. McCoy gave the bride in marriage. For her wedding she wore a white double knit suit, in double-breasted style with large pearl buttons and a keyhole neckline. She wore white accessories and carried a lace covered Bible, crested with a white orchid in a shower of streamers.

Mrs. Donald Cooper attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a two piece double knit suit of dusty rose and carried a nosegay of pink asters.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a beige silk shantung dress and a corsage of bronze cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother was wearing a blue crepe dress with overblouse of matching lace, and an orchid cymbidium corsage.

For the reception which followed in the home the bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake flanked by triple branched crystal candelabra holding white tapers. Mrs. Webb Nix presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. L. B. Pettit served the cake. Coffee was served in the family room by Mrs. Coy Sizemore, from a table appointed in silver and centrally adorned with an arrangement of bronze and gold chrysanthemums and yellow asters.

The couple wil be at home in Pensacola, where Mr. Anderson is stationed with the U.S. Navy at Ellison Naval Base. Mrs. Anderson was graduated from Neville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College where she was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. She is also a graduate of Louisiana Business College in Monroe, and is employed in Pensacola.

A SEPTEMBER 29 wedding is planned by Miss Sondra Jean Jordan and Douglas M. Webb. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. C. L. Jordon of Downsville and the late Mr. Jordan. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bonny B. Webb of Spearsville.

MRS. THOMAS CASH

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Karen Martin, Thomas Cash

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, September 10 at First Assembly of God Church in West Monroe, Miss Karen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, 611 Natchitoches, became the bride of Thomas Cash, son of Mrs. Roy Cash, 108 Fairview and the late Mr. Cash.

Rev. E. L. Tanner performed the double ring vows before an arch of branched candelabra holding lighted tapers and flanked by baskets of white gladioli. An organ prelude was rendered by Mrs. David Mahoney, who also accompanied the bride's father as he sang two appropriate selections.

Mr. Martin gave his daughter in marriage. She wore her mother's wedding gown and veil. The traditional gown of slipper satin was styled with fitted bodice featuring an illusion yoke and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt terminated in a chapel train and her illusion veil, caught in a cap-like fashion extended to the end of the train. The bride carried a bouquet of pompons and feathered chrysanthemums.

Miss Sue Martin, aunt of the bride, served as maid of honor and bridesmaid was Miss Becky Brown. They wore identical short gowns of antique satin in deep pink with matching shoulder length veils. Their bouquets were of pink carnations and pompons.

Serving as best man was Perry Harmon and groomsman was Mike Martin. Ushers were J. R. Dumas and George McClendon.

Mrs. Martin chose for her daughter's wedding a pink linen model with pink hat and black patent accessories. Her corsage was a pink chrysanthemums. Mrs. Cash was wearing a dark blue dress with black accessories and a white chrysanthemum corsage.

Upon return from a wedding trip to the Great Lakes and Canada, the couple will be at home at 106 Stix St., West Monroe. The bride is a graduate of Ashtabula High School in Ashtabula, Ohio, and Mr. Cash was graduated from West Monroe High School.

Myths, Legends Surround Today's Fashion Pearls

The pearl is a mighty jewel, if centuries-old legend and superstition are to be believed. Magical and medicinal properties have long been attributed to the gem that today is regarded mainly as a fashion accessory classic.

According to a Chinese legend, it rains pearls when dragons fight in the sky. On a more earthly level, American folklore says that a maiden who rubbed her eyes with a pearl could make a man her pesonal slave with the slightest gaze. A man, on the other hand, could assure his love's undying affection by dissolving a pearl in water and giving it to her to sip from a wine glass.

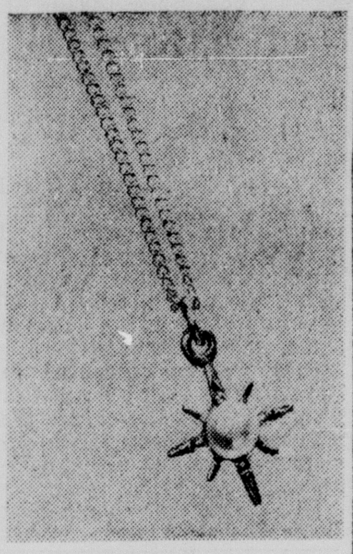
Extraordinary powers have been credited to powdered pearls through the years. In 17th Century France, powdered pearl dust was an expensive beauty treatment. Sprinkled on the skin, it was thought to improve texture and lustre.

Powdered pearls were given amazing medical powers by several civilizations. From 1300 to 1600, swallowing powdered pearls presumably warded off disease, restored failing vigor, and cured such divergent ailments as epilepsy or hysteria. In ancient Rome, pearl dust was used to restore reason to lunatics.

One ancient civilization considered pearls bad luck and threw them back into the water, while another believed that pearl amulets drove away sharks. For the Chinese, pearls were charms against fire. In ancient Rome, pearls were so highly esteemed that only persons of special rank were permitted to wear them.

Today the classic beauty of pearls is available for every woman to wear and enjoy. For example, one of the most popular sytles of pearl pendants is a single simulated pearl in a simple starburst mounting.

While a variety of myths and fables have surrounded the pearl for centuries, there's one point of agreement — the more often pearls are worn, the better their beauty and lustre are preserved.



ACCORDING to legend, the pearl is a mighty jewel. But whether you consider the pearl's properties magical of medi- ion accessory classic. cinal, a pendant is a fash-

Elegance Weaves Through Fashion

One of the nicest things about having four seasons in every year is the chance it gives us to change pace. And the woman who is ready to turn in her wind-blown summer look for a more sophisticated cool weather image will find that fall clothing and cosmetics are scaled to make the transition a lovely one.

Elegance and femininity weave their way through the entire fashion story. From the soft fluid lines of daytime clothes, in colors as bright as autumn itself, to the sparkling elegance of evening wear, fashions are geared for instant beauty this fall.

And cosmetics follow suit. Crisp new shades that echo autumn's glow are still subdued enough to flatter in a natural way, but bright enough to be a definite part of the fashion picture again.

Julia Faye McMurry Becomes Bride Of Dr. Robert Fontenot

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McMurry, Rocky Branch, was scene of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Julia Faye McMurry and Doctor Robert A. Fontenot of Hobbs, New Mexico on September 4 at 3 p.m. He is the son of L. J. Fontenot and the late Mrs. Fontenot of Ville Platte.

Massive bouquets of pink and white summer flowers were arranged in the living room where Wendell Parks, minister of the Church of Christ, Sterlington, performed the double ring ceremony. Vows were exchanged before a white wrought iron arch entwined with English ivy and centered with white wedding bells and a large white satin bow.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a fall dress of pink silk with a lace bodice and silk jacket featuring elbow sleeves and shoes to match. Her hat was a small veiled whimsey of white feathers. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds with streamers of white satin.

Mrs. Gordon James Hardy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a fall A-line dress of cranberry crepe, trimmed in mauve, featuring long bell sleeves. Her accessories were of mauve and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Miss Debra Anne Avery, flower girl, wore a mauve crepe dress with long bell sleeves, shoes and gloves to match and a corsage of tiny pink rosebuds. She carried a pink satin basket of white and pink rose petals.

Candles were lighted by Miss Karen Howard, cousin of the bride.

At the reception which followed in the home the bride's table, covered with a white Damask cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white candles and pink and white daisies. Mrs. Kelton Howard served the tiered wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl opposite was Miss Judy Howard.

After a wedding trip to Tennessee, Kentucky, Florida and New Orleans the couple will reside in Hobbs, N.M. where Dr. Fontenot will resume his practice.

Grey, Gold, Tan Worn For Bridal Attire In Early Days

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The bride wore dark grey.

Sounds odd, doesn't it, in this age when the young bride walks down the aisle almost invariable in radiant white?

It may come as a surprise to today's bride that white, with its suggestion of purity, is almost as much a matter of fashion as sleeve length or hemline in bridal gowns.

Grey, gold, tan, even purple (worn by a lady mourning her father, killed in the Civil War) found their place in the bridal styles of earlier days, along with such passing fancies as the hoop skirt, the leg-of-mutton sleeve and the bustle.

Each of them has found its place as well in the Philadelphia Museum of Art, whose collection of matrimonial apparel, from colonial times to the present, numbers almost 100 gowns.

In a special exhibition (through June 30) the museum has given schoolgirls and matrons alike something to dream about, with one third of the collection on display.

Ghostly forms of wire mesh lines the grand staircase of the museum's main entrance, modeling gowns worn by real brides as early as 1783, as late as 1962.

Mrs. Elsie S. McGarvey the museum's curator of costumes and textiles, attributes the modern vogue for white to the influence of Greek and Roman classical art.

"The bride in white really came into existence in the second half of the last century," she explains. "White had been emphasized by the Empire period, which was neo - classical. Many women in those days even used a white-rice powder on faces to heighten the resemblance to a greek goddess."

The Empire style, attributed to Napoleon's Empress Josephine, fell with the Napoleonic empire, but its classic lines recently reappeared in a modern revival.

"Fashion repeats itself," says Mrs. McGarvey. "During the late Victorian — the Gay 90s period — there is a definite repeat in the leg - of - mutton sleeve."

That particular style had come and gone some 60 years earlier, during the romantic period that followed the neo-classical. The sleeve, formerly a modest little puff, developed into an elaborate affair, narrow at the elbow, but swelling to an overstuffed shoulder and looking like — well, like a leg of mutton.

One fashion that has gone, so far, unrepeated was the rigid corset, possibly because it was found necessary to revive the women, rather than the style.

"The corset that changed a woman's shape was the hourglass, in the 1890s." Mrs. McGarvey notes. "Women fainted constantly. You weren't a lady unless you fainted. But actually it was because they couldn't breathe. That carried on through to the turn of the century when the corset changed to an S-shape."

Thus, after fainting at the altar in their hourglass stays, the brides began sailing down the aisle as Gibson girls, top half leading the way, bottom following some distance behind, possibly delayed by the weight of the bustle (it emphasized "back interest," says Mrs. McGarvey).

The girls eventually liberated their torsos, only to have the restraints slip down around their legs in the hobble skirts of what Mrs. McGarvey calls the "My Fair Lady period," before World War I.

More familiar to most of us are the bias-cut wedding gown by Madelaine Vionnet that looks like every movie made in the 1930s, and the wartime gowns of the 1940s when, says, Mrs. McGarvey, "the women were forever looking like football players."

Today's women are larger than their ancestors and a modern mannikin couldn't get into her grand-mannikin's clothes.

"Women, up to the end of the last century, were very small, almost childlike in proportion," says Mrs. McGarvey. "On the average, they had probably about a 14-inch waist and could corset themselves into 12 inches. I'm under 5-foot-2, and when I stand next to these figures, I'm a good bit taller than they are."

But doesn't every bride look that way to the groom?

Wedding Plans Announced For Elizabeth Hodge

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Elizabeth Ann Hodge and J. C. Smith Jr., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Hodge, 1201 Trenton, West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Prairie Smith of West Monroe and J. C. Smith Sr., Monroe.

The wedding will be an event of October 8 at 5 p.m. in Memorial Presbyterian Church, West Monroe, with Dr. Hugh Bradshaw officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Truett Hodge will serve as matron of honor and best man.

Miss Hodge is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller Sr., Farmerville and the late Dr. and Mrs. Duke Hodge of West Monroe. A graduate of West Monroe high school, she attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

The prospective bridegroom is descended from the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barr of Vernon, La. He was also graduated from West Monroe high school and is employed by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. in West Monroe.

Boots Continue Popularity On Fashion Scene

For the iconoclasts who thought the boot boom would take a dive by now, this fall is a real startler. Boots have become true classics, with the classic's way of wielding a pervasive influence throughout fashion. Examples: the well-loved boot shoe and the whole wonderful world of high side, high heel and high front.

Because they are among those rare delights that combine great good sense with good fashion, women love them. Men do too, which is rarer. All in all, every indication is that they will enjoy a long and vigorous life.

Tops this season are the boots that barely reach the calf, show the tender curve of leg below the knee. Variations on this basic Courreges idea have to do, mostly, with cuffs that can turn down or up, pinking or perforations around the top, new ways with zippers, amusing laces or multiple buckles. White kid is the great favorite but there are tweeds and smooth and brushed leathers in every color too. They're even done up for kicky little evenings in brocade and lace.

One strikingly evident point: they are almost always found on the very small heels that give the prized little girl look. The tall, spikey heel has all but disappeared from the boot scene, though medium chunky shapes are still around.

When the boot soars to knee level designers love to experiment with kooky ties and off beat toplines. They might lace all the way down the front or, cavalry-wise, just at the ankle. Either way the fit is fabulous.

Boots shine most of all in bad weather, come out in the rain in poplin, canvas, treated tweeds and leathers and exciting new man-mades that have the look and feel of leather.

PRETTY ARMS

For prettier elbows, treat any discoloring with lemon juice. Rub with a pumice stone gently to erase rough spots and apply a film of petroleum jelly.

For a natural center of attraction, try a floral centerpiece when dining outdoors, whether it be in a screened-in porch, patio or yard. Florists point out that flowers whet the appetite for good food and good talk.

Golden Autumn Theme Used At Cosmopolitan Club Dance, New Officers Introduced

A "Golden Autumn" theme was reflected in appointments throughout the ball room of the Paragon Supper Club last Saturday night for the Cosmpolitan Dance Club's annual fall dance.

Massive gilt letters proclaiming the theme were displayed on a large black banner at one end of the dance floor, above which was a golden harvest moon. Flanking the banner were trees of colorful autumn leaves and foliage, with pots of bronze and gold chrysanthemums outlining the base.

At the entrance where arriving members and guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Neal, was a winking owl on a placard, encircled with autumn leaves. The guest book table, presided over by Mrs. Norman Smith and Mrs. M. E. Kidd, was festive with gold leaves and lighted by orange tapers in hurricane globes, wreathed with orange leaves.

Tables around the dance floor were also bedecked with orange candles in hurricane globes, surrounded by colorful fall foliage. Music for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. was provided by Phares Corder and his orchestra.

During intermission Mrs. Hays Clark, outgoing president, presented Mrs. Alex Winn, new president for the 1966-67 year and Mrs. Winn in turn introduced other officers of the club. They include Mrs. Stanley Passman, vice-president; Mrs. Clay Blakemore, secretary; Mrs. Robert Willis, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Smith, publicity; Mrs. Wallace Lancaster, invitations; Mrs. Percy Pace, membership; Mrs. Richard Salter, Mrs. Anthony Messina and Mrs. M. L. Owens Jr., decorations and Percy Pace, band manager.

Members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Angelini, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bassett, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Blue Tones Appear In Fall Jewelry

Jewelry has the blues this fall . . . but they're beautiful. Everything in jewelry is keyed to the blues. Paris flies blue high . . . with just about every costume.

The deep Napoleonic blues are finding enormous favor, and the Oriental influence in fashion has inspired a new star sapphire for costume jewelry.

SNEEZE SEASON

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hay fever isn't caused by hay nor is it a fever, says the California Medical Association.

The culprit that starts West coasters sneezing and wheezing is usually grass pollens and weeds. Ragweed causes the trouble in the northeastern United States, the CMA says.

Hay fever, one of the most common of allergies, is caused by substances called allergens. In the case of ragweed, an allergen is in the pollen or dust of the plant.

MISS LILLIAN NELLE COULTER

October Wedding Planned By Lillian Coulter, Fiance

Announcement is made today of engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lillian Nelle Coulter and G. David Peach. The bride - elect is the daughter of the late Dewey Daniel and Cecelia McReynolds Coulter of West Monroe and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Benjamin Peach of Kershaw, South Carolina.

The wedding is calendared for October 22 at 7 p.m. in Claremont Methodist Church at Claremont, Calif., with Dr. Pierce Johnson officiating.

Miss Coulter was graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College and Scarritt College. She was graduated from Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss., with a B. A. degree in sociology. She has her Masters in Social Work degree from Tulane University in New Orleans and is a member of Phi Mu social sorority.

Mr. Peach was graduated from DeKalb high school in Westville, S. C., and from Furman University in Greenville, S. C., with a B.A. degree in English. He received his Masters in Social Work degree from Tulane University. The couple met while completing their studies in New Orleans.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in California where both will be employed. Miss Coulter currently works for David and Margaret Home for Children in LaVerne, Calif., and Mr. Peach is presently employed by the Welfare Department of the state of North Carolina.

Latest Color Kick Is Ball Point Pen To Match Dress

And to satisfy the total fashion image sought by the younger set, designers are replacing winter drab with summer bright, electric colors.

The latest news about this color kick is a fun idea. With the introduction of "Pussycat Pens", m'lady can now coordinate ball pen to outfit, or vice-versa, for the ultimate in a "total" look.

The new pens come in pop color combinations to go with various fashions. Keeping to the pussycat theme, the colors are Persian Pink, Siamese Blue and Lavender, Kitten Blue and Green, Tabby Orange and Yellow, and Burmese Black and White.

The fashion - pen idea is already catching on with school gals who proudly display their ball pens about the neck on a chain, clipped to a headband, pinned to sweater or blouse with a dainty ribbon bow.

The new pens suggest a clever way for a secretary or student to show her femininity. And the lady executive will find the new pens add a welcome touch of color to the office, too.

Another good feature: these more colorful pens won't walk away from the desk because they are so clearly identified as "yours."

CAMEOS RETURN

Cameo rings are once again in evidence for those who favor antique jewelry.

Installation Banquet Held By Women In Construction

Officers for 1966-67 of the Women in Construction were installed at the organization's annual installation banquet held Saturday night at the Holiday Inn. West Monroe Mayor Bert Hatten was installing officer.

Those installed for the ensuing year include Mrs. Arlyne Everitt, president; Mrs. Marianna Burroughs, vice-president; Mrs. Frances Carter, secretary and Mrs. Corine Lutrick, treasurer and board of directors, Mrs. Mary Bradford, Mrs. Sandra Miletello, Miss Lavergne Causey and Mrs. Margie Moore.

Each was presented with a bronze key on velvet ribbon which was placed about her neck as Mayor Hatten recited the duties of the office.

Red carnations formed the central decor for the banquet table, covered with a white cloth and featuring a red streamer down the center. Scattered at intervals along the table were miniature construction tools interspersed with white candles, wreathed with red carnations and greenery.

Mrs. E. D. Elmore, outgoing president, presented the president's pin to Mrs. Everitt and in turn received the past president's pin.

Members and guests attending included Mayor and Mrs. Hatten, Mrs. Margie Moore, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pohlman III, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter, Mr. and Mrs. James Pickens, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Everitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Miletello, Miss Lavergne Causey, Miss Willie Higgins, Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burroughs, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Elmore, Mr. and Mrs. John White, Mrs. Corine Lutrick, Clyde Albritton, T. C. Hembree and Mrs. Thelma Clark.

Colorful Fall Shoes Will Match, Contrast Wardrobe

This fall, ladies are lauding the easy, natural look in fashion. Underlining it all are the new shoes — spotlighting suppleness, soft lines and rounder toes.

From the flattie to the formal evening shoe, there is a very feminine feeling in women's footwear, says Leather Industries of America. A panorama of "faces" — smooth, suede, grained, brushed, waxy, embossed, patent — bring textural beauty to the shape and detailing of fall shoes.

Fresher and truer than in years are fall's shoe colors. Shoes will glow in shades like cherry red, caramel, golddigger, ink blue and desert brown with avocado or olive shades of green appearing strong. Also in the picture will be some paler tints on the order of pheasant, lichen green and goldenrod, and of course, black will be important.

Shoes for daytime wear have their ups and downs. They are opened "up" at back or sides, or trimmed "down" for a shallower silhouette. After their recent successful revival, slingbacks are more popular than ever. Buckles and bows help carry through the feminine look — tiny bows attached to the straps of a shoe at the side, larger flat bows or buckles at the front.

Even the walking shoe and the spectator have been softened for fall. Specs sport slimmer heels, trimmer soles, and more dramatic color contrasts in tips, stitching and performations — all adding up to the prettiest spectator in seasons. Walking shoes are perked up with small buckles, tongues or kilties, and smart stitching effects. Smoothly lined in leather, these casual charmers will keep you comfortable the long day through.

In after - five footwear and "the late late shoe," your choice can be as restrained or as resplendent as you care to make it. Jewels, beading and important buckles highlight shoes of smooth, suede, and lustre texture.

Consider Five Points In Creating Marvelous Look

How to create a marvelous "look" as the big fashion changes appear, is a problem for many women. Here are the five main points to consider, according to beauty authorities.

A new coiffure is of prime importance. Its silhouette, color, and styling will create a dramatic change. A lovely new look cannot be made without adapting the latest costume lines to your own individual figure.

Therefore, carefully select skirt lengths, necklines, and waistlines as the new you emerges. It is a well - known fact that color is the life of a look. Never accept a newly introduced color if it cannot flatter you completely. Because fashion and make-up are perfectly coordinated, try the new make-up shades, and you may be surprised how easily you are able to wear costume colors you never believed possible.

Then, carefully choose your shoes and their heel heights. Few things date a woman more quickly than the click of a heel height from last year's collection.

DASH OF COLOR

DELUXE CHEST

Handy to have right where you need it is a deluxe sewing chest on hardwood legs. It comes with two bow handles for easy transportation. Done in a pacific blue, teakbrown or hunter green, the simulated leather cover and woven satiny plastic and toyo sides make this an attractive accessory. The two side covers have built-in spool racks. The middle area contains a plastic tray for small sewing notions.

MRS. KIRBY McDOWELL

McDowell-Gilliam Nuptials Read In Candlelight Scene

Miss Wanda Gilliam of Monroe and Kirby McDowell, West Monroe, exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony Saturday, September 10 in Standard Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gilliam of Kelly and Mr. McDowell is the son of Mrs. Flora M. Brister of Bastrop and the late H. L. McDowell Sr.

An arch of huckleberry greenery flanked by baskets of white gladioli and lighted tapers in seven - branched candelabra formed a setting at the altar where Rev. Coy Lyons performed the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Miss Elizabeth Gandy, organist and Dana Cruse, soloist, presented appropriate music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional gown of white Chantilly lace over satin, styled with fitted bodice, and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt featured paniers of the lace caught up in front to reveal a pleated tulle flounce. A three tiered crown of lace encrusted with seed pearls and sequins held her elbow length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis accented with white lace leaves, tiny pearl hearts and loops of picot ribbon.

Mrs. Jerry Holland, matron of honor, wore a short gown of ice blue satin, overlaid with matching lace. Her brief veil was of matching shade and she carried a bouquet of white roses in crescent design with white ribbon streamers.

J. C. Holland of Houston, Texas served as best man and ushers were Chuck Cruse and Richard Holland.

Mrs. Gilliam wore for her daughter's wedding a dress of blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids and stephanotis. The groom's mother, Mrs. Brister, chose a rose pink satin dress with accessories to match and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Centering the lace-covered bride's table was a silver compote holding an arrangement of blue and white carnations. Mrs. Benny Cruse served the square tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Ray Nelson presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Vernice Carraway had charge of the guest book.

MRS. S. RAWLS FORTENBERRY

Double Ring Vows Unite Couple In Hodge Church

Miss Teresa Mary Baragona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Baragona of Hodge, became the bride of S. Rawls Fortenberry, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Fortenberry of Lake Charles, in a double ring ceremony September 4 in St. Lucy's Catholic church in Hodge.

Upon return from their wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, the couple will be at home in Lake Charles, where Mr. Fortenberry is in business and the bride is on the faculty at McNeese State College.

The Rev. Gerald Bordelon performed the ceremony at the altar where two standards of white gladioli were flanked by branched candelabra, white stock and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace featuring an Empire bodice highlighted with iridescent pailettes at the neckline. The demi-fitted skirt was A-framed and a court train banded with insertions of tulle fell from the shoulders. Her tiered veil of English illusion was caught up with sheer rosettes highlighted with seed pearls and valley lilies. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Rita Baragona was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bernadette Baragona, Mrs. Charles Baragona Jr., Miss Margaret Crozier, Miss Virginia Stewart, Miss Rose Lynn Schmidt and Mrs. Bill Sutton. Their dresses of French crepe were in tone on tone shades of green. Empire bodices were accented with bands of emerald satin which contrasted with the slim skirts. Watteau trains of the deeper green crepe were held by bows of satin. Each carried a single-long-stemmed yellow rose.

Organist and soloist was Mrs. John Edwin Holley of Jonesboro.

The bride's table was covered with a cutwork cloth and centered with an ivy-entwined silver candelabra holding yellow roses and slim tapers. The tiered wedding cake was served alternately by Mrs. Frank P. Turk Jr. and Mrs. F. P. Turk Sr. of Baton Rouge, aunt and cousin of the bride. At the opposite end of the table Mrs. Don Ori and Mrs. Herman Herrin of Baton Rouge and Raceland presided at the crystal punch service.

Decorations for the groom's table were of yellow roses and ivy in a brass candelabra. Chocolate cake decorated with yellow rosebuds was served with champagne. Mrs. Cecile Brown of St. Joseph, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Lucille Stewart of Jonesboro, served groom's cake. Tea girls were Misses Rose Mary McLean, Paula McLean, Margaret Ann Turk, Carol Turk and Angelena Baragona.

For travel the bride wore a three piece gold wool ensemble with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Double Ring Vows Unite Northeast Students In Zwolle

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harold Enloe have established a home at 3604 Lincoln in Monroe upon return from their wedding trip to Texas and will resume studies at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Wedding vows were exchanged by the couple on September 4 in a ceremony at 3 p.m. in Zwolle Methodist Church. The bride is the former Miss Virginia Kay Stegall, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Stegall of Zwolle. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enloe of Saline.

Rev. Abe Connerly of Bastrop officiated at the double ring ceremony in an altar setting of white tapers in branched candelabra and baskets of white gladioli. Mrs. Garrett Walsh, organist and Junie Haverd, soloist, presented appropriate music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an empire style gown of white peau de soie with bodice of Chantilly lace and long sleeves of the lace tapering to points over the hands. Lace overlaid the watteau train which fell chapel length from the shoulders. Her veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a petal crown and she carried a bouquet of white carnations encircling a white cattleya orchid.

Miss Patsy June Stegall of Edinburg, Texas, was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaid was Miss Linda Dale Letterman of West Monroe. They wore identical floor length gowns of blue silk with matching veils attached to blue headbands. Each carried a long stemmed maroon rose.

Serving as best man was Glynn Saulters of Lisbon and groomsman was Bill Callens of Belmont. Ushers were Buster Toms of Minden and Marshall D. Tilley of Bossier City.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a beige bonded lace gown with matching accessories and a carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose a green knit model with accessories to match and carnation corsage.

A reception followed in the social room of the church. Centering the bride's table was an arrangement of pink roses in a six branched crystal candelabra, with the tiered wedding cake and crystal punch bowl at opposite ends.

Mrs. B. J. Stegall of Minden served the cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Bing Crosby of Oak Grove.

Color Can Bring Casual Approach To Table Settings

Dining in style used to be the most etiquette - bound activity known to man. But some of the rules have been relaxed in '66. Strict ideas about the combining of china, silver and glass have been replaced with a more casual approach. On the other hand, informal rustic outdoor meals, boon of the postwar years, have lost their clutter and chaos, with many a backyard table set beautifully and elegantly.

The components for elegant dining are the same no matter what the mood, with fine china, crystal, and silver remaining the mainstay for fine entertaining. On one table, sparkling clear glassware can be used as a foil for pattern and color. Other hostesses may use colored crystal as a focal point for a color scheme.

Tablecloths are now available in such a wide variety of textures, patterns, prints and colors that the old generic phrase, "linens," really no longer applies. Smart women buy table coverings not only in sets, but in mix-matchable combinations, and have a "wardrobe" of table fashions in both glassware and cloths to suit the themes of different meals.

EASY-DO

Wallpaper that comes off the wall when it's time to redecorate now is available. The papaper is applied with regular wheat paste but when a change is wanted, it will strip off without going through the process of wetting it down and scraping. What's more, the paper can be washed with a mild solution of soap and water to keep it fresh looking.

New Carpets, Furniture In Many Moods

English is In. But last autumn's English look in furniture has gone Polynesian with liberal applications of decorative bamboo on the new chests, tables and breakfronts. The new tagline is "British Colonial," signifying an English look that has been rescaled, interpreted, altered, brought up to date.

If overseas English is news, then so is Louis XV, inspiration for more than one major new furniture collection. Italian Provincial is still wit hus, as are Early American and last year's favorite, Mediterranean.

The furniture manufacturers and carpet mills are two components of the home furnishings industry that often work together closely. Keyed to the English look was an olive and gold documentary interpretation of a Georgian needlepoint rug by Lees, which won a National Home Fashions League Editors' Choice award. This spring, the company is showing carpet and rugs in a multiplicity of styles: thick, heavy shags to complement the smaller room. What is striking with French Provincial furniture may look pale under a big Spanish chest.

There are few hard and fast rules to guide you. Dark wood finishes don't always look their best on pastels.

Women have more colors to choose from now than they've ever had. For example, 'Lasting Star' is a carpet that has a color family that now numbers 29. One leading manufacturer dyes carpet in over 500 different colors. That's considerable variation on the three primaries.

Among predicted best sellers, you'll usually see two red tones, at least two blues, perhaps seven colorings in the range that runs from blue-green through the greens to olive and gold, three beiges, plus other neutrals like Alabaster, Celadon, Cloudy Jake and Tokay. Within a texture grouping, a firm may offer over 100 colors, including high-fashion notes like Pineapple, Eggplant and Periwinkle.

Rho Chapter, Alpha Delta Kappa Names Committees

First meeting of the new year for Rho Chapter, Alpha Delta Kappa, Teachers' National Honorary Sorority, was held Monday night in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Durr in Treasure Island with Mrs. Ted Welch presiding.

Mrs. Virginia McLaurin reported plans formulated by the executive council concerning altruism, yearbooks, scholarship, and Founder's Day.

Mrs. Welch discussed the new theme "Growth From Within" and presented correspondence from Miss Mary Catherine Chandler, Louisiana Tech student, who is sponsored by Alpha Delta Kappa.

Committee chairmen named include: Altruistic, Mrs. Montez Smith; budget, Mrs. Bernice Hickman; by-laws, Mrs. Hallie Pierron; courtesy, Mrs. Montez Smith; pedge, Mrs. Dora Lee Kilpatrick; publicity, Mrs. Sybil Brooks; scholarship, Mrs. Flo King; ways and means, Mrs. Mildred Harmon. The budget, presented by Mrs. Bernice Hickman, was adopted.

A centerpiece of fall nandina foliage, flanked by votive lights in branched candelabra on the refreshment table formed a festive atmosphere in the dining room where Mrs. Durr and Mrs. Mildred Harmon, co-hostess, served refreshments following a business session. Mrs. Welch presided at the coffee service.

Members present were: Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. C. C. Dopson, Mrs. Harmon, Miss Dorothy French, Mrs. J. L. Harper, Mrs. Hickman, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Mrs. King, Mrs. Pierron, Mrs. Glover Poole, Mrs. Frank Shively, Mrs. Joan Womack, Mrs. Carolyn Lee, Mrs. Geneva Cloutier, and Mrs. Onia Davis.

Summer Skin Care

It is easy t ohave a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin - coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion from harsh sun rays and will give the skin a cool, milky bloom even on the hottest days. Your druggist can supply you with oil of Olay for your personal needs.

Your Problems

Doormats Needn't Just Lie There, Speak Up

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the letter from "Too Close For Comfort" I am compelled to give you the other side of the story. "Too Close" described how her mother berated, belittled and constantly picked on her father for 50 years.

Did it occur to you that a man who lets his wife hen-peck him for half a century is no saint. He is just plain dumb.

My husband and I were married too young — both 18. After seven years and three children he announced that he was moving out. I was shocked. Reason: He was sick and tired of listening to me finish his sentences, correct his English in front of friends and compare his income unfavorably with others in our crowd. He had become fed up with my domineering ways and said so.

After a week I asked him to come home. I hadn't realized what I was doing to him and I admitted it.

All this happened many years ago and we've gotten along extremely well ever since. Once, Ann, you wrote, "If you don't want to be treated like a doormat, SAY something — don't just lie there." Why didn't you say that this time? — FORMER HEN-PECKER

Dear Former: Thank you. I will. If you don't want to be treated like a doormat SAY something. Don't just lie there.

Dear Ann Landers: I know women who quote you right along with the Bible. You can get ideas across like nobody else. Please print this letter for the benefit of all mothers who have small children.

Mothers: Please stay out of it when your youngsters are having their little arguments and fights with playmates. Children can be mad at each other one minute and be the best of friends the next minute — if they are left alone.

The woman who lives next door was forever getting involved in her children's battles. She was always running to neighbors to protest the way their kids were treating her kids. Naturally, the parents defended their own kids and got into a fight far more bitter than the little squabble the kids had had.

My neighbor is now on the outs with everyone in the block and I really feel sorry for her. So, Ann, please warn other mothers not to make the same stupid mistake. — NO REFEREE

Dear No Ref: Your warning was sufficient. Thank you for writing. It's an excellent bit of advice.

Dear Ann: No earth shaking problem, but an annoying one. Can you help?

When my husband and I go out for an evening we often walk or take public transportation. We leave our car in the carport.

Some folks in this town have a habit of dropping over without first calling to see if it is convenient. When they see the car in the carport they are certain we have turned out the lights and are hiding in the house. Several women have very nearly called me a liar when I have told them we were not at home when they dropped by. They all mentioned seeing the car in the carport.

What do you suggest? — OUT BUT IN

Dear Out: Why do you let these clods put you on the defensive? Tell them that the next time they want to see you they'd better telephone first or they may have to settle for seeing just the car again.

Bela Bartok Music Features Program Of Keyboard Guild

The Keyboard Guild held its first meeting of the year Saturday, September 10 at the home of Mrs. Charles Chisholm with Misses Pam and Billie Auttonberry as co-hostesses.

Miss Cheryl Poindexter, vice-president, conducted the business session. Following the club collect, the Junior Hymn of the Louisiana and National Federation of Music Clubs was sung with Miss Vicky Adams as piano accompanist.

A text on the "Life of Bela Bartok," was given by Miss Denise Spurlock after which Mrs. Tommy Spurlock Jr. played three of Bartok's Rumanian Folk Dances, Porca Romaneasca, Maruntel and Buciumcana. A recording of Bartok's music concluded the program.

Refreshments were served to Misses Vicky Adams, Linda Collie, Kathye Griffin, Julia Head, Lynn McDuffie, Alana Oxford, Cheryl Poindexter, Melanie Reed, Marsha Smith, Denise Spurlock, Gloria Williamson, the hostesses, counselors, Mrs. Chisholm, Mrs. Spurlock and a guest, Miss Susan Pinkston.

We "cotton to" the good growth of our area!

We get to feeling pretty sophisticated sometimes, but we never forget what agriculture means to this area! . . . and it was our pleasure to be able to purchase Ouachita Parish's First Bale of Cotton for 1966! It weighed 529 pounds and brought the record price of $1190.25. The bale was handpicked and ginned August 12 by the Bosco Gin. Shown above John Adair, representing the Monroe Chamber of Commerce; T. A. and W. A. Calloway, growers; and Rollis Smith, president of the Greater Monroe Downtown Association. The bale is now on display in Downtown Monroe. Drop by and see it.

With schools operating their first full week, Monroyans began settling into the fall schedules. And an important first order of business was to welcome newcomers, both those who have arrived here to make their home and those here for the school session.

Wednesday morning, WINKIE ASHCRAFT and IRIS BROOKS entertained at a coffee complimentary to ROSEMARY McLENDON HARRISON, who has recently moved to Monroe from Bastrop. About forty members of the younger married set, including a number who had been in school at Northeast with Rosemary, were invited to attend the party between ten-thirty and noon at the Ashcraft residence on Island Drive. As they arrived, guests were greeted at the door by KAY JORDAN and JEANNETTE FARRAR.

In the living room, which was decorated with bouquets of Peace and of Montezuma roses, hostesses and honorees stood to greet the guests. Also in the receiving line were Rosemary's mother, MRS. GERRY McLENDON of Bastrop; and her mother-in-law, MRS. MORRIS HARRISON of Monroe.

In the dining room, the table was centered with a mass arrangement of Queen Elizabeth, Confidence, and Royal Highness roses in a silver bowl. Candles at each side complimented the pale pink flowers. SALLY MARTIN and JEAN WALLACE alternated at the silver coffee service. At the opposite end of the table, SYLVIA WILKINS and BARBARA GENTRY served iced bottled drinks. SARAH RHYMES and MAIDYE BRIMBERRY passed silver trays of chicken salad sandwiches, tiny sweet rolls, and cheese pastries centered with olives.

Also being welcomed to Monroe last week was JEANNE McDERMOTT, who was the houseguest of her sister-in-law and brother, SARAH LEE and CHARLIE LEDOUX. Jeanne left Monday after a week's visit to return to her home in Mobile, Alabama.

Luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club was the compliment planned by MARTHA GRANT for Jeanne last Thursday at noon. Twelve guests were invited for the party in the Rose room. Pink roses centered the tabie, which was covered with a pink cloth and appointed with dubonnet glassware. Canteloupe rings filled with fresh fruit and melon balls were served with hote cheese logs, and a choice of desserts.

During her visit, Jeanne was entertained also by her nephews and their families. She spent a day and night with ANN and JOE LEDOUX at their camp on D'Arbonne; and was complimented at dinner in the home of CAROL and BILL LEDOUX.

The BOB McDOWELL home on Lakeside drive was scene of a dinner party Saturday night complimentary to Jeanne. MERLE ADAMS was co-hostess on this occasion. Two tables were set up for the sixteen guests. That in the dining room was centered with Queen Elizabeth roses. In the den, white zinnias were used with variegated foliage and candles. The menu served included rolled stuffed chicken breasts; parslied rice; casserole of asparagues, mushrooms and water chestnuts; and pineapple supreme cake for dessert.

Doris and Merle were also hostesses at luncheon honoring another visitor, LOUISE FOSTER, who was here last week as guest of her in-laws, BESS and CHICK FOSTER. This party was held Wednesday at Bayou DeSiard country club. Eight friends who had grown up with ALLEN FOSTER here in Monroe were invited for a visit with his wife.

Tropicana roses in a silver bowl centered the green-covered table on the porch. The menu included a cocktail of melon balls supreme; broiled tomatoes stuffed with crabmeat and topped with cheese sauce; asparagus hollandaise; and for dessert, meringue shells filled with lemon creme.

Monroe alumnae of KAPPA DELTA sorority welcomed new pledges of Delta Zeta chapter of Kappa Delta at Northeast with a progressive supper Tuesday evening. The party was held in three homes, with different groups of alumnae gathered at each to act as hostesses. First stop was at the home of NELL FAUCETT on Avoyelles. Here two refreshment tables were set up for dips and a choice of juices. Candelabra holding green candles and ornamented with fresh fruit decorated each table. In the dining room, minted grapefruit juice and grape juice were served; tomato juice in the family room. Pledges and alumnae gathered here for a pre-supper conversational hour.

"Main course" dishes were served at the home of Marilyn Taylor on Marie Place. Each alumnae brought her specialty, making for a varied and delicious menu. Decorations here included a large replica of the Kappa Delta pin on the mantel, and a bouquet of white roses, sorority flower, in the dining room.

About fifty pledges and alumnae served themselves from the buffet which offered a choice of fried chicken, baked ham, Canadian bacon, barbecue, hot tamale pie, chicken salad, fresh fruit salad, congealed salads, marinated beans, potato salad, shrimp salad, casserole of broccoli and mushrooms, devilled eggs, asparagus casserole, escalloped potatoes, and hot breads.

VIRGINIA HARGROVE's home on Emerson was the "dessert stop". Virginia centered her table with bright marigolds in a copper container. The selection here included miniature pies, cherry, or lemon; luscious fudge pie with dark frosting; German chocolate cake; Brownies, served with iced drinks or coffee.

A covered dish party was also planned by PI BETA PHI alumnae in the Twin Cities, honoring their visiting province alumnae president, SALLY HUNT of Kansas City, Mo. This party was held Wednesday at the Lake D'Arbonne home of LORETTA RIVERS.

Junior members of Monroe Garden club gathered at Loretta's D'Arbonne home Friday fo a workshop meeting. Sally Martin demonstrated technique of decoupage for the group. A catered luncheon of fried chicken and potato salad was served at noon.

A surprise party is the very nicest kind of birthday present, and such a treat was planned for BONNIE BANCROFT on her seventeenth birthday last Saturday. MARIANNE SALISBURY was hostess for the affair, and arranged for Bonnie to be invited to the home of a friend, ostensibly to a three-couple gathering. After about fifty friends had assembled at the Salisbury residence on Jasmine street, the three couples came there, arriving to shouts of "Surprise." . . . There was dancing in the family room and on the porch to the music of the 'Wild Things" until eleven p.m.

Now comes the season of the football weekend, with goodly numbers of our people driving to Baton Rouge to see the LSU Tigers take on all comers, and also flying to other parts, when the Tigers are out of town. Among those going from here for last night's opening game against South Caroline were MARTHA and ELTON UPSHAW JR., LORETTA and JACK RIVERS, VERA and JOHN KELSO JR., BETTY and JIMMY MOORE and their children, JAMES and CHRISTINE.

Also JANE and JOHN SHERROUSE, DARLENE and CONWAY CROSSLAND, YVONNE aand KENT ANDERSON, SHIRLEY and CLARK BOYCE, ELSIE and BILLY BOB COENEN of Rayville, LOUISE and TOM LEIGH, ANNA CLAIRE and ED SEYMOUR JR., BERNICE and HAROLD WOODS, JEAN and DON GIFFEN, BETTY and WALTER HASTINGS.

An annual event scheduled for this coming Saturday, September 24, is the silver tea given each year by members of Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution. The party is set for three to five p.m. at the home of CHRISTINE MOORE, 2711 Pargoud boulevard.

Arriving guests will be greeted by CAR members dressed in colonial costumes. Those invited are members of Ft. Miro and Chief Tusquahoma chapter DAR, as well as other DAR chapters in the area; state officers of CAR; and other friends,

Our poem today is by George Elliston:

For people mean so much to me,
The things they do and what they say
I can be happy any day with clouds or stars or sunny sea
But not for long, for I must find
About me always, ever this:
Companionship, a lover's kiss
And thoughts and dreams and human kind.
The world is such a lovely place; I love the grass and night and day
I love my work and dreams and play,
But most of all a human face,
And more than that the touch of hands
And words and songs that people sing;
Oh nothing life can offer, bring,
Is like a friend who understands.

MISS MAUREEN CARLIN'S forthcoming marriage to Charles D. Stewart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Stewart of Crowley, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton C. Carlin, Crowley. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Harrelson Sr., and the niece of Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. Durwood Clark, Vance Harrelson and S. B. Harrelson Jr., all of West Monroe. The wedding is planned for October 1 at 4:30 p.m. in St. Michael Catholic Church, Crowley.

Style Briefs Reveal Trends For Autumn

The op earrings to give way to more delicate danglers, like chandeliers. Long ropes of beads that swing with the '20's.

More and more news in hosiery, from knee socks to leotard. Undergarments to "go with . . . and show under" some of the short-short skirts.

New snubby sole-extended shoes, in gay color combinations; suede, vinyl, patent shine.

While wanted shoulder bags are primarily small, we hear big talk about a huge tote bag for school use . . . holds everything, from texts to date books, even handbags.

Patricia Horsley Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy S. Horsley, 306 Nichols Drive, West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann to Hershel D. Baxter Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Baxter, Arkansas Road, West Monroe.

The wedding is planned for October 7 at Highland Baptist Church with Rev. Filer Seal officiating.

Miss Horsley has chosen her sister, Miss Linda Sue Horsley as her maid of honor. Mr. Baxter will attend his son as best man.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Horsley and Mrs. Albert Doyle and the late Mr. Doyle, all of West Monroe. The prospective bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Arthur Thomas of Tullos and the late Mr. Thomas and Mrs. W. S. Baxter of Winter, Texas and the late Mr. Baxter. Both are graduates of West Monroe high school.

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

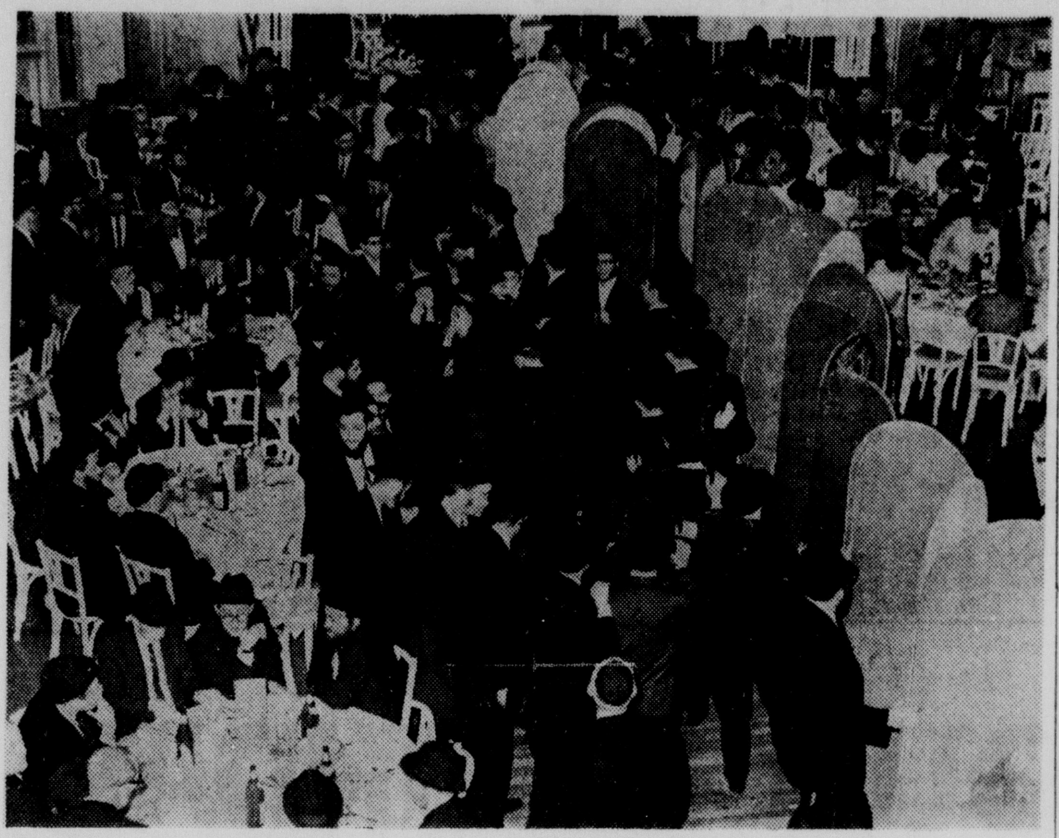
Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, 323-3660, 323-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.



MUSIC AND DANCING and an elaborate banquet are part of Hasidic weddings. But the men and women do not sit together during the ceremony, nor do they dance together. Here, after the ceremony at a Hasidic wedding at a New York hotel, some of the men dance on one side of screens which separate them from the women, who do their own dancing. Weddings among these ultra-orthodox Jews start a couple of hours late and go on past midnight. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Observance Set For Day Of Atonement

Beginning at sundown Friday and continuing until sundown the following day, Reform, Conservative, and Orthodox Jews throughout the world will observe Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the most sacred and solemn of the ancient Jewish holidays.

The observance of Yom Kippur is one which has remained unbroken for more than 2,000 years.

Services for the Day of Atonement will start at 8 p.m. Friday at Temple B'Nai Israel, 2400 Orell, Monroe. Services also will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Student Rabbi Frederick Wenger of The Hebrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion, Cincinnati, Ohio, will conduct the services.

UNIVERSALLY OBSERVED

Yom Kippur is universally observed by all branches of Judaism, by prayer and by a searching reappraisal of the individual's behavior, in his relationship to his fellow man, and to his God.

It is the culmination of 10 days of intense self-examination, during which the individual Jew examines the year just past, atones for his shortcomings in relation to God and man, and expresses his hopes for strength and regeneration for the year to come.

As the sun sets Saturday ending the holiday, a final blast of the shofar, the ram's horn used for thousands of years in the observance of Rosh Hashanah (The Jewish New Year) and Yom Kippur.

The significance of Yom Kippur for the Jewish people is profound, said Temple officials. It reflects an emphasis upon the nature of a man as a responsible being, capable of change and redemption through his own acts, and never irrevocably lost.

FORGIVENESS

By asking forgiveness of God, and of those he has wronged, man can change his life and the world around him. Characteristic of the prayers traditionally offered during Yom Kippur, taken from the prayer book, is:

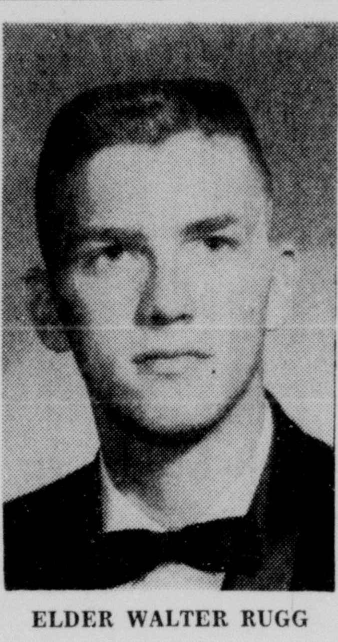
"Our God and God of our fathers, pardon our transgressions on this Day of Atonement; remove our guilt, and blot out our iniquities, as Thou has promised: I, even I, blot out thine iniquities for My sake, and thy sins will I remember no more. I have made thy sins to vanish like a cloud, and thy transgressions, like a mist; return to Me for I have redeemed thee. On this day shall ye be forgiven and cleansed from all your sins; before God ye shall be pure. . ."

Homecoming Due At Area Church

The annual homecoming observance at First Baptist Church in Sicily Island will be held at the 10:55 a.m. worship service, Sunday, Sept. 25. Former pastors have been invited to attend the event. One of them, the Rev. Joel Lucas, will be guest speaker. Mrs. C. E. White will read the church history, which dates back to organization in Sept., 1952 with 41 members. It now has 190.

There will be special music, and dinner-on-the-grounds will be spread at noon.

The Rev. Ralph Webber served as first pastor of the church, and led the completion of its first education unit. After that came construction of an attractive buff brick auditorium and a brick pastorium. The Rev. J. C. Houston led the latest construction program. Central heating and air conditioning facilities were installed while the Rev. Mr. Lucas served as pastor.



ELDER WALTER RUGG

Elder Rugg Is Called As Missionary

A Monroe resident, Elder Walter P. (Wally) Rugg, has received a call from David O. McKay, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, to serve as a missionary for two years.

Church Reports Giving Increase

Per person giving in the Church of God to all its work during 1965-66 reached a new high of $168.67 as congregations in the United States raised a record $23,782,000.

Paul A. Tanner, executive director of World Service Division, the church's fund-raising arm at general offices in Anderson, Ind. said per capita giving to benevolences rose to a record $13.02 last year to achieve the national budget goal of $1,865.773.

News Briefs In Religion

TOLL OF TIME

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Confidence in religious beliefs decreases as teen-agers grow older, according to finding of a survey of youths 15 to 18 years old in the St. Paul-Minneapolis area.

SUNDAY PLEA

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — With Sunday no longer a legal, no-working holiday in this predominantly Buddhist country, the Roman Catholic bishops have urged employers to give their workers time off to attend Mass.

They made the plea after the chamber of deputies approved legislation establishing the Buddhist "Poya" (Sabbath) day as the weekly day of rest. Under the law, schools and commerce will continue on Sundays.

SILENCE AND STUDY

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Roman Catholic priests and sisters here are holding dialogues with Buddhist monks and nuns in churches and temples, each preceded by a period of meditative silence.

Their meetings start with meditation which is observed for 15 to 20 minutes, followed by a discussion break in which Zen, Buddhism, Christianity and the purpose of meditation are the topics.

NCC ADDS PRIEST

NEW YORK (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest has been appointed to a staff position with the National Council of Churches for the first time in the history of the Protestant and Orthodox cooperative organization.

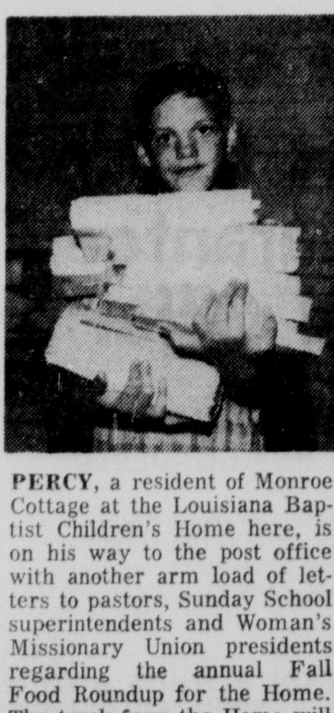
The Rev. David J. Bowman, a Jesuit, was named assistant director in the council's Faith and Order Department.

'BIG' CHECK

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The State Baptist Convention office here received a check from the Calvary Baptist Church of Evansville, which was big in more ways than one. The $3,000 check, made out on a special form, measured 12 feet long.

MORE MISSIONARIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of American Catholic missionaries now serving overseas has increased from 8,126 to 9,292 in two years, a 14 pre cent gain.



PERCY, a resident of Monroe Cottage at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home here, is on his way to the post office with another arm load of letters to pastors, Sunday School superintendents and Woman's Missionary Union presidents regarding the annual Fall Food Roundup for the Home. The truck from the Home will visit virtually every part of the state between September 22 and November 16 to transport contributed items to Monroe. Jews Issue Booklet On Interfaith Matters

World Of Religion
By LOUIS CASSELE
United Press International

The American Jewish Committee has prepared a "how to" booklet which members of all religious faiths may find useful.

It tells how — and also why, when and where—to carry on the kind of interfaith encounter known as ecumenical dialogue.

Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, the committee's director of interreligious affairs, emphasizes in the booklet that "A dialogue is not a debate, where points are scored and one side wins."

"Those who participate seek, not to convert or persuade or instruct their opposite numbers, but simply to get to know them well and to understand and accept them in the fullness of their differences. They are willing to reveal their true feelings and views, to give a hearing to the ideas of others, and to air disagreements frankly and fairly."

SEVERAL BENEFITS

It can prevent or allay community conflict over controversial issues such as prayer in schools and birth control.

"The participants in a dialogue may still disagree when they get through talking; but they probably will disagree in a more informed way, aware of the reasons for their disagreement and therefore more ready to pursue the controversy on a reasonable plane."

While large formal meetings of religious leaders can be valuable, the booklet says, it is desirable also to carry on dialogue at the grass roots. This can be done through informal meetings of laymen in the intimacy of their homes.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

1. Keep the group small—preferably about a dozen persons, evenly divided between the two faiths. In making up the group, steer clear of "rigid or opinionated people who feel they must prove themselves right." So far as possible, participants should be "reasonably similar in education, social status and life style."

2. Set up a definite schedule of meetings. Ten meetings at monthly intervals is a good program. The meeting place may rotate among the participant's homes, with a different couple serving as hosts each time.

REFRESHMENTS

3. "There should be a clear understanding about refreshments" to avoid any keeping up with the Joneses. "It's a good idea to agree on coffee and cake or other simple snacks, with no fancy spreads or liquor."

4. Each participant should prepare for dialogue by getting more fully acquainted with his own religion, its history and doctrines.

5. During a discussion, each participant should make a sincere effort to understand the viewpoint of the people on the other side. He should assume they are speaking in good faith, and interpret their beliefs and attitudes in the best possible light, not the worst.

6. It is important to face frankly issues that divide the two sides. Try to clarify differences, but do not pretend they don't exist.

7. Members should be prepared to do a little homework. A modest amount of reading sessions can greatly improve the caliber of the discussions.

Copies of the booklet, intitled "A Guide to Interreligious Dialogue," are available at 50 cents a copy from the American Jewish Committee, 165 East 56th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022.

RACIST REVERBERATIONS

CHICAGO (AP) — Racial discrimination in America has damaged the influence of Christianity in Asia and undermined the reputation of the United States, a Methodist missions executive in Bombay says.

"Race prejudice has aided the Communists and advanced the cause of militant Moslems," the Rev. Eric Mitchell writes in Together magazine.

Alaska Locale Work Camp Of Church Youth

The Church of God has chosen Alaska as site for its seventh world youth work camp in the summer of 1967. Participants will represent several foreign countries in addition to the United States and Canada.

Kenneth Prunty, executive director of youth ministries at the church's general offices in Anderson, Ind., said a building will be constructed at a church camp site in Alaska. Similar projects have been carried out in Mexico, Lebanon, Trinidad, Canada, Barbados and Panama.

The work camp will be one of several projects during the next two years, as Miss Marcia Guttenfelder, Sikeston, Mo., serves as the second young woman to be elected president of the International Youth Convention of the Church of God. David Boyle, LaFayette, Ga., vice-president, and Miss Rita Pylate, Meridian, Miss., secretary, head the youth group with Miss Guttenfelder until the mid-1968 convention in Minneapolis, Minn.

Rev. J. Pardue Revival Speaker

The pastor of Faith Baptist Church in Baker, the Rev. Jimmy Pardue, will be evangelist for a revival starting today at the First Baptist Church of Waterproof, it was announced by the Rev. Fred Moore, pastor.

Charles Red, minister of music and youth at the First Baptist Church of Ferriday, will be singer and music director. Services will be held nightly this week at 7:30.

Reception Here For Pastor, Wife

A reception will be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. today for the Rev. and Mrs. Joe Mongle, at Central Baptist Church, 3400 Lee Ave., Monroe. The event will take place in the educational building.

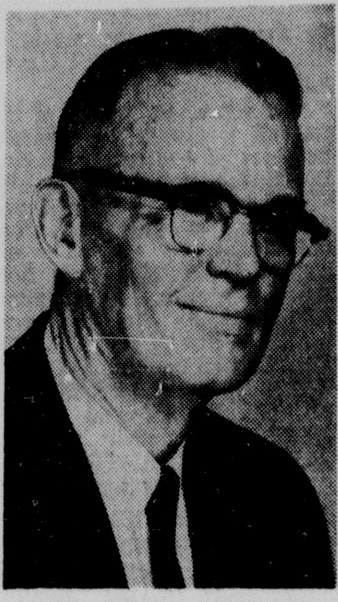
Church officials said the reception, which will be open to the public, is aimed at allowing more persons to become acquainted with the pastor and his wife.

EAST TO SPEAK

Wade B. East, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, will be pulpit guest today in all worship services at Temple Baptist Church in Winnsboro. The announcement was made by Lamar Alexander, church education minister.



THE REV. R. E. CASE

Rev. Case Evangelist For Revival

The pastor of the First Methodist Church of Gulfport, Miss., the Rev. R. E. Case, will be evangelist at Stone Avenue Methodist Church, corner of Stone Ave. and S. 3rd St., Monroe, during a revival starting Sunday, Sept. 25. The series of meetings will continue through Friday, Sept. 30, it was announced by the Rev. N. D. Pearce, pastor.

Sunday services will be held at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, they will be held at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Morris Hearne will lead singing for the revival and will be in charge of special music. Mrs. L. F. Cummings, Jr., will serve as pianist. A nursery will be open during services.

Dr. James White To Speak Here

Dr. James White of the Perkins School of Theology of Southern Methodist University, will preach at 9:15 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services today at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 1901 Lexington. He also will speak and show slides during the family night program at the church, 6:30 p.m. today.

Dr. White is affiliated with the Department of Church Architecture at Perkins.

Church Basement Used As Campus Night Spot

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A church basement on the campus of Princeton University spent the summer disguised as a jazz cabaret.

The experiment was so successful it probably will be repeated next summer.

The night spot, operated with the blessings of church leaders, had standing room only crowds of collegians and high school pupils all summer long.

"We wanted to show them we live in this century and not some other," observed the Rev. Donald Meisel, a minister of the First Presbyterian church.

The club, soon to close its first season, is called "The Catacomb," after the caves in which early Christians sought refuge from Roman soldiers. It derives its modern inspiration from the haunts of Parisian music enthusiasts.

LITTLE EVANGELIZING

"We haven't done a lot of evangelizing. It's just one way of saying that we care, to suggest to the teen-agers that the church is adaptable and flexible and not confined by tradition," the Rev. Mr. Meisel said.

A church member characterized the project as the most important work undertaken in years by the parish. The white stone building has been a stately landmark at the head of the Ivy League campus for years. It is not directly affiliated with the university.

The atmosphere of the basement night club is relaxed and friendly. Dress is casual, occasionally tending toward the "beat," long straight hair for girls and sandals for boys. But there is no dancing, and liquor is prohibited.

MAIN ATTRACTION

Main attraction of the "Catacomb" is entertainment. Guitarists, jazz combos and folk singers perform twice nightly. The amateur musicians are usually drawn from the town of Princeton's talented populace. They perform without pay.

"I think they're glad to," said Jay Breese, a co-manager of the establishment. No admission is charged. Soft drinks cost a dime. Coffee and eat are served to accompany potato chips and cheese dip.

Breese, a sophomore at Harvard, and David Turner, a junior at Tmeple, are co-managers and prime movers behind the club. They searched for a source of summer entertainment but rejected other sites for a coffee house because of the cost. The church was available rent-free.

"The Catacomb" opened July 19. "We didn't know what to anticipate in the way of clientele," Turner said. But the patrons turned out to be from a cross section of backgrounds, he said, and all have been orderly. No one has ever been asked to leave.

Breese said he felt the night club had a civilizing effect on its patrons. Rock 'n' roll is taboo. Soft jazz discourages dancing, Breese said, "but it promotes conversation."

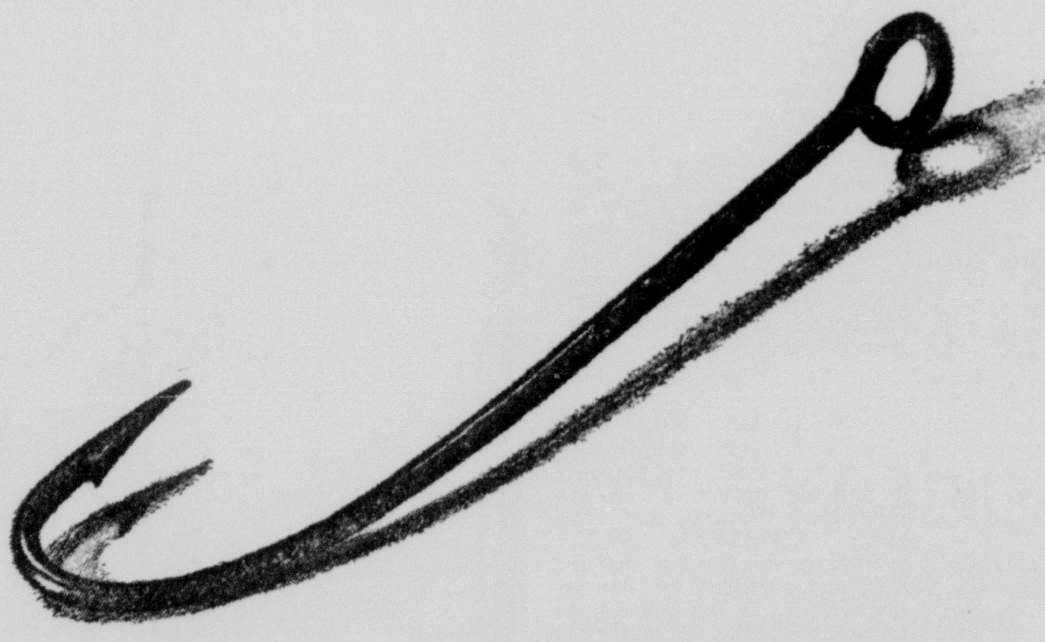
Some things work so well that nothing can take their place



END OF THE LINE

Man, since the dawn of his history, has sought to lure fish from the depths of their watery environs by use of a temptingly baited hook. Crudely fashioned fish hooks have been discovered in the excavations of numerous prehistoric ruins, and to this day the shape and function remains much the same.

Another of man's most useful and enduring inventions is the newspaper Want Ad. Born shortly after the invention of printing and still used by millions every day, the Want Ad performs a communications function which nothing else can match. Use Nitrogen For Lawns

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want to get your lawn in good condition for winter, then during this month apply nitrogen. Use about five pounds of nitrate of soda to 1,000 square feet of turf.

Continue to control insects and diseases on roses because the fall crop of flowers in Louisiana is often better and lasts longer than in the spring.

If you want larger camellia flowers, remove some of the buds as soon as you can distinguish the rounded flower buds from the pointed leaf buds.

Other garden jobs include digging and dividing daylilies and Louisiana native iris.

If you want to transplant some large evergreen plants this winter, it would be well to root prune them this month. Use a sharp spade and cut around the plant into the roots at the distance where the ball of soil will be taken.

STATE MEETING

Mrs. E. W. Earl, president of Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council; Mrs. A. C. Goodling, vice - president; Mrs. Lee Wilder, and your home demonstration agent will represent the parish at the state meeting in Alexandria this week. The group will leave Tuesday and return Thursday.

FAIR

The Ouachita Valley Fair will be held this year during the week of October 10-15. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to help make this fair the best ever, then be sure to get some of your lovely homemaking arts ready to enter. Perhaps you canned some vegetables and fruits. Bring them out to the fair grounds Monday, October 10, any time from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and enter them. Other entries which you may be interested in are clothing, tailored dress, coat or suit, girl's dress (1-6), cotton girl's dress (1-6) fancy, blouse, skirt, tailored coat for child or hand knitted sweater, hand crocheted sweater, and many other items. If you are interested in exhibiting at the fair, come by the Agricultural Building, and get a list of all entries.

THE LOOK FOR FALL

This fall you'll be seeing lots of the costume look in all combinations, coat and dress, jacket and dress, and the three piece — skirt, blouse and jacket costume. Look for flared sleeves and more bell bottoms. Belt lines are low, low hanging and hip hugging.

You will see top stitching on single and double breasted jackets. The look for this fall is very elegant and very much feminine.

After dark pretty pastels go with glitter — sparkle with gold or silver threads. So create your very own after five fashion in a lovely pastel.

EATING BREAKFAST

Are you, Mrs. Homemaker, seeing to it that your child or children are eating a good breakfast before they get off to school. Eating a good breakfast is a good start for the day. Studies have shown that students who tuck away a good meal make better grades and get more done than those who skip breakfast or eat a poor one. One-fourth to one-third of the day's food should be eaten at breakfast and should include a good source of protein, such as eggs, meat or milk. A good breakfast gives you protein, vitamins, and minerals needed to build and repair the body.

A THOUGH

Garden Center Notes

Fall Colors Key Designs

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Fifth District Garden Center program was presented by La Petite Maison Garden Club of Monroe last Wednesday. Seven members, including the president, Mrs. Jack Files, made the lovely designs depicting fall colors and materials.

Mrs. M. L. Coleman made the first design, featuring strelitzia, "Bird of Paradise," as the main flower. This exotic plant material, so bold and colorful, needs little more plant materials, other than greenery, to accent it's full beauty.

A few large leaves, added to the background of the triangle design, and clusters of Japanese yew in the lower part, completed the motif, with the six stems of the strelitzia placed in it forming the large triangle in a horizontal bowl in shades of dark green.

This is a design that you could not pass up with only a slight glance. This material demands attention, not only because of it's contrast color of orange and blue, but because of the shape of the flowers that closely resemble exotic "birds."

COLOR RANGE

Two members, Mrs. Bob Kennedy and Mrs. Charles Petrus, made the next design, in color tones of orange into brown, beginning with wheat for the primary line, followed with autumn leaves in brown into green tones. The main flowers that were used to fill in the massed asymmetical design were orange poppies and deep orange mums, with small clusters of bittersweet and brown lotus seed pods added in the lower section of the design.

The container was an upright wooden vase, handcarved, variegated colors of brown and tan. Two similar vases, small in size, were placed beside the design as accessories.

Mrs. Jack Murphy used the decorative "porcelainized posies" in colors of old gold, blue and green, forming the "period" type design in a small blue glass compote container. Grapes, treated with the same process as the flowers, were placed in the lower part of the design creating contrast of form and adding weight. Now is the time of year that we can appreciate the decorative tips in artistic designs. Our flowers have become very scarce during this transition period of summer into fall. The procelainized flowers serve a wonderful purpose during this period. Our fresh plant material always comes first to the garden clubbers. It's surprising how we can always find something to use in arranging throughout the year. A good example of this came with the next design.

HOT PEPPERS

Mrs. Don Wadley and Mrs. Curtis Cook used ornamental hot peppers in shades of purple as the main plant material in their design. The asymmetrical pattern was formed with aspidestra leaves placed in a green compote container. The ornamental peppers, displayed on their stems with foilage as a filler, were placed into the massed design, filling the pattern against the large leaves. For accent and contrast of texture the blooms of the liarope (border grass), lavender in color, were placed in the design as fillers. Three loops of the aspidestra formed the focal balance in the lower left side of the design. For balance, the design was placed on a round, green woven mat.

The last design, made by Mrs. Jack Files, featured another decorative idea, the feather flowers. These were in color tones of orange into gold. The container as a soft green compote. For accent, green leaves were made of feathers and formed the triangle design. The "roses" filled in all sides making this a suitable table design, "free-standing."

DIG BULBS

Garden Hints — Last call to dig your caladium bulbs. Don't wait until the foliage disappears, but, dig them now. If the foliage is partially good, clip a few of the leaves and use them in the house in a design. Let the others dry on the bulbs before taking them off. Place the bulbs in a dry, cool place in the yard or storage house. Wash them thoroughly before storing them, dry well, and store in an old nylon stocking or in a cardboard box with holes punched in it. They should be placed in a cool, protected spot in the house where they will not freeze during the winter. You'll be proud you saved them when spring comes. Remove your pot plants from the yard and patio. This could be done gradually by bringing them to the porch, then, into the house. They need to be cleaned up and brought to a sunny spot, or to a place in the family room or den. Flowers love company. They grow better and thrive where the family lives in the house in the winter. Maybe it is because they are where they can be seen and not forgotten — thus, getting the required attention they deserve. If you have colorful coleus, be sure to pinch off some, place it in bottles, or glass containers, to root for next spring. Purple Jew is lovely in a bottle, also, and will root well. Don't let old Jack Frost get these useful plants — beat him to them — now.

Wednesday, special guest, Mrs. Paul Bourg, will present a program on "Birds." You will learn how to take care of your fine feathered friends, or learn to make new ones this fall. It is important that we know how to protect our birds, and offer feeding station to the migrant birds that will come our way.

Actor Explains Goal In Movies

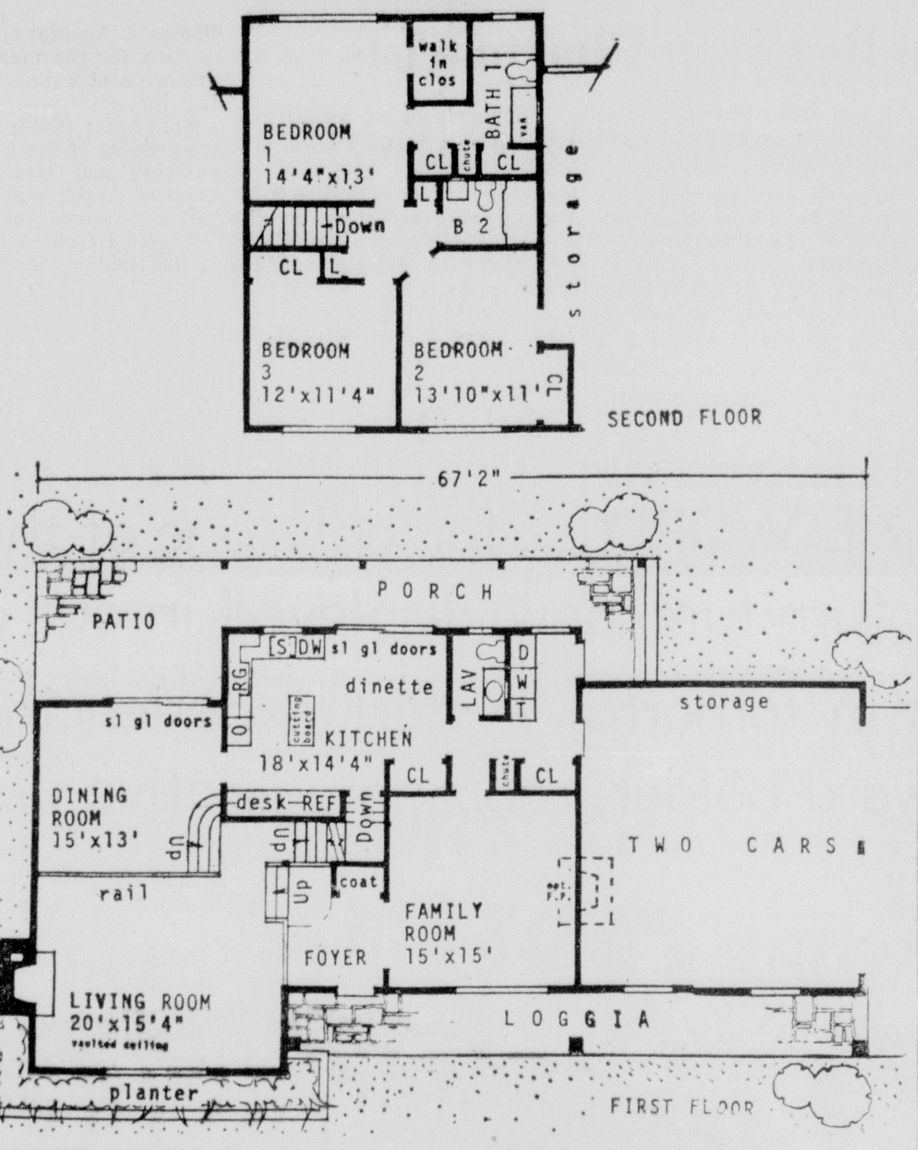
"When the finest high-comedy actor in the world, Cary Grant; the finest he-man actor, John Wayne; the girl-next-door, Doris Day, and one of the finest actresses — where is there a finer actress? — Barbara Stanwyck: "When they've won Oscars — none of them have, and there are more I could name — then I'll put myself down at the bottom of the list."



FLOOR PLANS: Within the modest over-all dimensions of this house are more than 2100 square feet of living space, not including the two-car garage and the rear patio and porch.

Charm Seen In Design Of Chalet

By ANDY LANG

Attractive variety in exterior designs is always more evident in areas of high-priced homes. When it is desired to create a distinctive house of moderate size in a community of modest homes, chalet styling is often the answer.

Architect Derick Kipp has given a fine example of what can be accomplished in this direction with an Alpine version of a multi-level house. It is different without being too different and what women might call cute without being too cute. It gives the appearance of being bigger than it actually is. And there is a considerable amount of living space — nearly 2100 square feet of it — within its over-all dimensions of 67' 2" by 29'.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-54.

DESIGN APPEAL

The artist's rendering of the exterior illustrates the eye appeal of this type of design. It has charm written all over it. Note how, from the front, the garage appears to be non-existent. By using windows, decorative effects and styling identical with that of the rest of the house the architect has succeeded in giving a basically small house greater width in an economical manner. The attractive planter at the front of the living room extends a bit past the house and adds further width.

From the entry foyer, there is a small, inviting stairway up to the living room, with an open-railed view. Another rail and a curved stair blend the upper living room with the dropped dining room, adding a touch of glamour ordinarily found only in larger houses. From the diamond-paned window in the living room to the sliding glass doors in the dining room, there are more than 28' of unobstructed view, plus the rear patio, to which those sliding glass doors provide an entrance. A fireplace and open - beamed ceilings, typical in chalet styling, add warmth and an atmosphere of livability.

On the other side of the foyer is a family room, square in shape and informal in feeling. The kitchen at the rear of the house emphasizes practicality, with extras like a planning desk a glass - walled dinette and a cutting - board island counter. The appliances are grouped in L-shaped fashion for convenience. The dinette area of the kitchen has sliding glass doors leading to a rear porch.

NEAR KITCHEN

Adjacent to the kitchen are the laundry area, a lavatory, an entrance to the rear porch and an entrance to the two-car garage and storage section.

Each of the three upstairs bedrooms has plenty of wall and closet space. In addition to the closets in the bedrooms, there are two linen closets. One of the two bathrooms can be entered from the master bedroom and has a laundry chute to send soiled clothes downstairs.

All in all, Design G-54 is for a moderate - sized family that needs a moderate - priced home and yet wants many of the bonus features generally found in houses in high-income areas.

SAVERS

Wide - necked, squat food jars can be converted into containers for baby powder, lotion, oil, cotton balls, and other bath-time supplies. First soak labels off in very hot sudsy water. Then wash, rinse, and dry the jars thoroughly.

Southern Gardener

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The many different kinds of wild sunflowers are the glory of late August and September. Those patches of pure gold out in fields and ditches across the south now are the flowers of the Spanish Needles that stick to our clothes when we go rambling later in the autumn.

If Spanish Needles were not so common, we would certainly be cultivating them in our gardens. They bloom every year in spite of droughts though Spanish Needles really prefer the wettish places and are at their showiest in ditches.

BITTERWEED

After mid-summer, southern roadsides and over-grazed pastures are covered with a golden carpet of bitterweed which will make the milk bitter if cattle graze it. It must taste bitter to them, too, for they mostly leave it alone. In the coastal areas, bitterweed often is accompanied by a carpet of violet verbena, and the two of them make a stunning runner along roads together.

Brown-eyed Susans have always been popular wildflowers. They are beginning to take over the landscape in big patches now. They come in several sizes and variations, and they, too, will bloom whether the September rains come or not.

English garden owners are proud of their big patches of Black-eyed Susans at this time of the year. In the huge border at Hampton Court Palace, southerners are pleased to find these American flowers growing with the best perennials in the world.

SUNFLOWER GROUP

All of these golden flowers discussed here and many more are in the big sunflower group. Then there are numerous yellow-rayed perennials which anyone would look at and call some kind of sunflower. Some of them have been brought into our gardens here and in Europe.

Many of them, however, are well worth cultivating but have not been grown in gardens at all. Sunflowers are so very plentiful in the fields and woods that there is no harm in digging a few of the plants while they are in flower and transplanting them to your grounds. They are all tough perennials and will survive the transplanting with no trouble.

If you are looking for some low-growing perennials that are heat and drought proof, some of the wild sunflowers that make a rosette of rough leaves (rought to the touch) are just the thing.

These plants are never in the way, but make a handsome ground cover all during the spring and summer and then bloom in September and October. Look around your fields and woods. There are innumerable kinds, and some you will find are showier than the same kind in other places.

Once you have them, you will cease to look upon them as weeds because, under cultivation, they grow into showy plants whose roadside cousins would not recognize them.

EXERCISE

This little workout is designed to flatten your stomach and lop off your hips. But no need to tell you. You'll feel what it's doing!

Stretch out on a sheet, face downward on the floor. Extend your arms in front of your head, palms down, arms close together. Keep legs together, toes pointed. Then — keeping your head down — simultaneously lift arms and legs off the floor as far as you can. Do the exercise twice the first day, gradually get up to five, taking a deep breath before each try. And oh yes! . . . afterward take a five-minute rest. You've earned it!

Guide To Good Reading

Sunday Service Well Received

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Last Sunday we resumed our Sunday Afternoon service at the Main Library of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. More than one hundred patrons took advantage of this service. I would like to remind you again that the library will be open from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock today, with a staff of five people prepared to serve all of your library needs.

New books in great variety are being added to the Library collection each week, and there is certain to be something to appeal to every reader. Probably the most important book of fiction this week is "All in the Family" by Edwin O'Connor. It is a story of an Irish American family in political life and many readers will notice the parallels to the Kennedy family. It is not as exciting book as the author's "The Last Hurrah" but it is well-done and most readable. "I start Counting" by Audrey Lindop is a suspense story, which is easy to read and hard to put down. It is a book which will appeal to all readers from teenagers on up to mature readers. "When Eight Bells Toll" by Alistair MacLean is a story of adventure and espionage and 'the best secret agent in Europe'. Philip Calvert can not compare with James Bond, but Mr. MacLean has remarkable powers of description.

Non-fiction is here in great variety. "The Spanish Inquisition" by Henry Kamen is a complete account of one of the darkest chapters in Christian history. "Youth and the Hazards of Affluence" by Graham B. Blaine is a discussion of modern young people growing up in an affluent society.

There are two very fine new books in the political science section. One is "American Political Process" by Charles R. Adrian and the other is "The Bill of Rights; its origin and meaning" by Irving Brant. "Give Your Child A Superior Mind" by Siegfried Englemann is a pie for pre school education. "Life Styles of Educated Women" by Eli Ginzberg is an interesting analysis of employment and social conditions of educated women in the United States today. "The Language of Life" by George Beadle is a very fine introduction to the study of genetics. Joseph Gies has discussed many of the modern engineering achievements in "Wonders of the Modern World." For a gardeners there is a very lovely new book "The Rockwell's Complete Book of Roses."

There are some very unusual new books in the fine arts section. "Ancient Arts of the Americas" by Geoffrey Bushnell is a good discussion of Indian art and antiquities. "Sculpture and Ideas" by Michael F. Andrews contains some excellent ideas for school and camp programs. "A Musical in the Making" is an interesting account by Mary O'Hara, author of the Flicka books of how a musical was made from her books. For the knitter there is a very fine new book, "Odhams Encyclopedia of Knitting" by James Norbury.

If you want a book which will really make you laugh, ask for Goodman Ace's "The Fine Art of Hypochondria, How are You?" is is absolutely delightful. Mr. Ace is a television gag writer and he is funny. A very interesting travel book is "Two Middleaged Ladies in Andalusia" by Penelope Chetwode "Pioneer America" by John Richard Alden gives many facts about how our ancestors lived. Willard Price has given us an interesting account of some of the Pacific Islands in "Americas Paradise Lost."

There are two good books about World War II. One is "Midway, Turning Point of the Pacific" by Vice Admiral William Ward Smith. The other is 'Ordeal By Fire" written by Anne Wahle, an American Woman who tells of her terror filled trek through War Torn Germany. Many readers are eager to find out all they possibly can about the conflict in Viet Nam. This week we have two new titles on this subject. One is "The Long, Long War" an account of counterinsurgency in Malaya and Viet Nam written by Brigadier Richard L. Clutterbuck. The other is "A Viet Nam Reader" by Marcus Raskin. This book contains many articles and documents on American foreign policy, especially as it relates to Viet Nam. A very beautiful and useful source book in American History is "Milestones to American Liberty" collected and edited by Milton Meltzer.

A most useful addition to the reference collection is "A Guide to the Battlefields of Europe". This is a two volume set edited by David G. Chandler. Patrons who use the genealogy section are always delighted to know that we have new books in this field. This week there are four new titles. "List of the Colonial Soldiers of Virginia" is a compilation by Hamilton James Eckenrode. "The English Ancestry and Homes of the Pilgrim Fathers is an unusual little book. "The Historical Encyclopedia of Texas" by Ellis A. Davis is a most useful work. "Emigration to Other States from Southside Virginia" is a valuable work by Katherine Elliott. We now have two volumes of this set. Tracing ancestors is a very popular hobby and the Ouachita Parish Public Library has much material to help with this search.

Decision On Natural Gas Near

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A final decision in the initial round of a court challenge of the controversial area formula for controlling wellhead prices of natural gas moved closer this week.

Arguments were heard by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Denver, Colo., in the case in which producers are challenging the validity of the Federal Power Commission's (FPC) Permian Basin decision.

The Denver proceedings form one phase of a two-point attack producers are making against the formula the FPC adopted in 1961 for use in controlling the wellhead price of natural gas sold into interstate commerce.

Many parties active in the court challenge also are supporting a nation-wide gas committee that is being organized to make another attempt to get Congress to clarify the authority of the FPC to control such prices.

The committee has not as yet set a target date although there has been talk about a 1967 congressional effort. There also has been speculation no serious Washington drive will be started until after the court case has been settled. Regardless of the decision, the Denver ruling will be appealed. A final decision by the Supreme Court may not come until the spring of 1968, possibly even later.

The congressional hopes of gas producers received a sharp setback recently when Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., decided not to accept his nomination for reelection.

Rogers' decision means two of the House's strongest advocates of a gas decontrol bill will be absent when the new Congress convenes in January.

Rogers' absence is significant in that he is the second-ranking Democrat on the House Commerce Committee that will have to consider any gas decontrol proposals.

Rogers has made many speeches in behalf of such legislation. Many of them have been pleas for a united front by all segments of the gas industry—one objective of the new nationwide committee.

The states of Texas and New Mexico are among the parties challenging the area formula adopted after nine years of effort by the FPC to control prices by handling each producer case separately.

Texas and the University of Texas System own about 5 million acres of Permian Basin area land from which they receive oil and gas royalties. The wellhead price of gas has significance in that the state collects a 7 per cent production tax based on that price.

Through the area formula, the FPC hopes to establish prices for each of the nation's 23 major gas producing areas.

The Permian area of west Texas and southeastern New Mexico was selected as a test case for establishment of ground rules and a pattern for other areas. After more than three years of proceedings, the FPC released its Permian order 13 months ago.

Similar proceedings now are under way for other producing areas, including the very productive south Louisiana area.

The Permian decision established a two-price system, 14.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for "old" gas and 16.5 cents for "new" gas. Most producers had sought a price of about 20 cents.

Producers contend the Permian prices are so low they are against the public interest in that they eliminate an incentive to discover new reserves.

Car Kills Boy

BATON ROUGE (AP) — An auto struck and killed 7-year-old David Harlan in the Broadmoor subdivision here Saturday.

The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harlan Jr.

Police identified the driver of the car as Joseph G. Pastorek, 15. He told police the boy darted in front of his car.

Information To Be Given Pharmacists

Dr. Ben Cooper, dean of the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College, will present details of a program in continuing education for pharmacists at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association's executive committee here Sunday, Oct. 2.

The continuing education program will be offered in cooperation with the Pharmaceutical Association.

Announcement of the Oct. 2 meeting was made by Dr. August G. Danti, professor of pharmacy at Northeast and Fifth District representative on the executive committee. Dr. Danti and the Fifth District LSPA Women's Auxiliary will serve as hosts for the meeting, which will begin at 2 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Ardis Phillips of Marion is president of the Fifth District auxiliary and Mrs. Edward Bopp of Arabi, state president, will also attend the meeting.

A coffee from 3 until 5 p.m. at the Danti residence has been planned for the auxiliary members.

Dr. Danti extends an invitation to all pharmacists in the Fifth District to attend the meeting.

TURKEY PORTIONS

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — At a typical turkey dinner, each person on the average will eat about a half pound of meat, according to an institutional food survey company.

The company, Automatic Retailers of America, Inc., bases its estimate on the fact that it serves 9,700 pounds of turkey daily to 19,400 persons, or a half pound per serving.

Newspaper Learns Identity

U.S. Double Agent Cracks Moon Spies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The central figure in Washington's latest Soviet spying sensation is a 31-year-old engineer of Russian ancestry whose identity still is being masked in official secrecy, the Post said Saturday night.

The Post said it learned, however, that the American double agent is John Huminik of Camp Springs, Md., and that it was Huminik's five years of undercover work for the FBI that led to the expulsion on Sept. 3 of the Soviet Embassy's third secretary, Valentine A. Revin.

At the time of the expulsion the State Department said the Russian attempted to obtain classified information from an American citizen in return for large sums of money.

From other government sources it was learned that Revin was in contact with a Washington area scientist and sought particularly to obtain data on the U.S. space program with special emphasis on the man-on-the-moon project.

The Post said that while earlier official announcements said the American double agent was in contact with only three Russians here, actually his espionage missions were assigned by as many as seven Soviet officials.

Huminik was provided by his unwitting Soviet contacts with an escape roue from the United States and a bogus passport if he were to be apprehended by the FBI.

The FBI declined to comment on the case of Huminik's identity as the double agent in the Revin affair.

The Post said Huminik, a native of Washington, declined to comment on details of the case but did confirm his role as the double agent. He is married and the father of four children.

His first contact with the Russians was in 1961. The Post said that at one point the Russians reportedly agreed to make purchases from a chemical concern Huminik founded, Chemprox Corp. of Mount Rainier, Md., in exchange for American space secrets. The firm specializes in manufacture of household cleaning chemicals.

Huminik also is employed as a senior materials engineer at Fairchild Technology Center in Germantown, Md. Huminik held about 100 meetings with his Soviet Embassy contacts during the years in his double agent role, the Post reported. During this time he received more than $5,000 from the Russians which he turned over to the FBI.

Meetings between Revin and the American, it had been disclosed earlier, were surrounded with elaborate precautions to avoid observation—although they actually were under FBI surveillance.

Club Gets Donation After Pact

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported Saturday that an Atlanta, Ga., architect contributed $10,000 to the President's Club after receiving a contract to design a new Veterans Administration hospital in Puerto Rico.

Wilfred J. Gregson, president of Gregson & Associates, acknowledged that he made the contributions but said they were not connected with the award of the contract, the paper said.

"Any comment like that would be way out of line," the paper quoted Gregson as saying. "That is all a lot of nonsense."

He said he had not been solicited to make the contributions and did so entirely on his own initiative because "I am a Democrat and I am proud to be a member of the President's Club," according to the paper.

The Post-Dispatch said Republicans in the House of Representatives were expected to cite the contributions as part of their continuing criticism of the President's Club. The club is an organization of persons who contribute $1,000 or more a year to the Democratic party.

The paper reported that Gregson also said he gave $2,500 to the Democratic National Committee.

Gregson told the Post-Dispatch that the contract for architectural and engineering work on the new $18.5-million hospital in San Juan was awarded to his firm about two years ago. The paper said he declined to discuss the amount of the fee.

The paper said Gregson acknowledged contributing $5,000 to the President's Club between Aug. 4, 1964 and Feb. 28, 1965, $2,500 Feb. 11 this year and $2,500 to the Democratic National Committee on Aug. 10, according to the Post-Dispatch.

POLICEMAN DIES

TOKYO (UPI) — A policeman was buried alive in a landslide at the quake-stricken central Japanese town of Matsushiro Saturday, it was announced. Town officials had ordered 140 persons to evacuate their homes because of landslides on Friday.

With Louisiana on the threshold of a new era of business and industrial development, the role of the Rural Electric Cooperatives has become vital.

Thanks to Rural Electric Co-ops, companies may locate in the rural sections of Louisiana . . . far from the hustle and bustle of the city and the large complexes . . . where their employees can live healthier and happier lives with modern comforts.

Rural Electric Co-ops pioneered these remote areas that others refused to serve, and will continue to develop the untouched portions of the state.

Let's Work Like TIGERS for Louisiana

The Co-ops offer a tiny spark of competition by example ... a yardstick that presents a true picture of what electrical power should cost in a monopoly controlled industry.

THE ASSOCIATED Press Average of 60 stocks recorded its biggest weekly gain since inception of the averages in 1927 when it closed Friday at 293.1 from 280.9 a week ago. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 814.30, up from 775.55 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Market Makes One Of History's Great Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week made one of its greatest gains in history, responding to President Johnson's proposals for curbing inflation and easing pressures on interest rates.

The market rose every day of the week except Friday when a mixed performance was given. Most averages declined Friday, although more stocks rose than fell.

The Associated Press average this week advanced 12.2 to 293.1, topping the previous record weekly advance of 11.3 which was made on two weeks, those ending Nov. 30, 1963 and Nov. 3, 1962.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 38.75 to 814.30.

The ability of the Dow industrials to rise above the magic 800 level was a most encouraging technical phenomenon which drew a lot of traders back to Wall Street. This was accomplished Wednesday when the closely watched average surged ahead 10.75 points and went above 800 for the first time since Aug. 19.

Of 1,567 issues traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,206 advanced and 245 declined.

Volume for the week was 31,209,890 shares, compared with 21,840,450 in the four-day trading week previous, cut short by the Labor Day holiday.

The entire mood of the stock market community had changed this week. Confidence replaced gloom, mainly because the administration had adopted a stance — it looked as if something would be done about the tight money bugaboo and other ghosts which have haunted Wall Street. Comment among seasoned analysts was cautious, however.

Government securities were hit by sharp declines last week. Corporate and municipal issues were mixed.

By the close of business Friday, most government bonds dipped from a half to a full point, completely erasing gains made in the previous week's rally.

Of 38 issues, 36 declined and two were unchanged.

Mississippi Production Tests Noted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Production tests are continuing at a Clarke County wildcat about three miles east of Quitman. No information is being released by the operators.

The potential new deep discovery is the Brandon No. 1. There are reports that operators had reperforated a zone below 11,400 feet in the Smackover lime.

The wildcat has created considerable interest with reports that several zones above the Smackover may also have commercial possibilities.

Total depth is 12,015 feet and production casing is cemented to 11,666 feet.

Another new Wilcox sand discovery may be near in Franklin County with Sun oil running production tests at its wildcat the Miller-Federal No. A-1, near the dry creek field. Operators are testing commercial worth of oil shows logged at 6,208 feet.

Phillips has plunged back to 15,430 feet in its disappointing Simpson County wildcat the No. B-1 Zellerbach, after failing to log commercial shows in the Smackover lime. The well was drilled to a depth of 21,052 feet after reports that slight shows of hydrogen sulphide gas were encountered below 20,000 feet. Operators will perforate and test the commercial worth of shallowed shows. The deep wildcat is located near Pinola and about two miles southwest of the Merit Field.

BEER, BABIES AND GLASS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Babies take second place only to beer drinkers in the bottle and jar business. They are the glass container industry's No. 2 customer, accounting for about 3 billion food jars a year, says the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

But the glass manufacturers ship more than 5 billion new bottles a year to keep pace with the nation's beer drinkers, the Institute reports.

TWO-WHEELER BOOM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Motorcycles and scooters became twice as popular in the United States in 1965. Approximately 1,350,000 of the two-wheelers were registered during the year. The total is expected to reach almost 2 million in 1966.

JEFFERSON STANDARD LIFE
... a great name in Louisiana

WITH PARDONABLE PRIDE, WE ARE CELEBRATING OUR 50th ANNIVERSARY IN LOUISIANA

Yes, Jefferson Standard Life has been a great name in Louisiana for 50 years.

With pardonable pride we point to the fact that the Company has been doing business—quite well, too—in the Pelican State continuously since 1916.

We are proud, too, to have our three Branch Offices in Louisiana headed up by this fine staff of Managers:

MELVIN MICHEL, Baton Rouge
ANDREW PANQUERNE, New Orleans
NEAL E. LUSTER, Shreveport

Jefferson Standard, since organization in 1907, has never paid less than 4% interest on dividend accumulations and policy proceeds left on deposit with the Company to provide income. The new interest payment of *4½% is the highest rate of interest paid by any major life insurance company in the United States.

*3% guaranteed on policies currently issued.

Hymns Popular On Video Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most popular hymns? Rusty Draper, who closes his "Swingin' Country" television show with a hymn on Fridays, says the most requests are for "Just a Closer Walk With Thee." No. 2 is "It Is No Secret."

The show, on the air since July 1, now draws 2,000 fan letters a week, 500 of them for Rusty.

Says the folksy "town and country singer" from Kirksville, Mo.: "We go into the rural communities, and they write letters. They like to keep in touch and feel they know you."

Star Dreads Close-ups In Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Channing says doing movie close-ups after playing to live audiences of up to 6,000 was "a terrible adjustment."

"A close-up is like having your head in a vise," reports the wide-eyed stage star. "You must look relaxed; then the director says, 'Give me energy!' How can you have energy and stay still?"

Julie Andrews, her "Thoroughly Modern Millie" costar, gave her guidance, coming to work one day for a Channing close-up when only the back of Julie's head showed and her stand-in could have replaced her.

Carol's only other movie was "The First Traveling Saleslady," with Ginger Rogers, which "we called 'Death of a Saleslady,' " says Miss Channing. "We closed RKO with that movie."

Carol returns Oct. 1 to "Hello, Dolly," the stage musical in which she already has given 1,029 performances. "That's home base, the domain I know," she says.

Curtain Call

By CURTIS RAPE

Executive Director Bill Haddad arrived in town early this past week to get activities started on the production schedule for the coming season.

Although a native of Monroe, Bill has been away for the last few years, going to school and working in professional theatre. He just closed last Sunday night in "How to Succeed . . ." in Sullivan, Ill. — giving him just enough time to journey to Monroe for Monday night tryouts.

Rehearsals began Thursday night, heading for a mid-October production date — giving the director and cast only four weeks of rehearsal time.

AMAZING ELEMENT

Drop by the theatre any week night and watch rehearsals. You'll be amazed how a play, when seen in early stages of rehearsal, can ever develop into the polished professional caliber production as always seen at Strauss Playhouse.

Shan Covey, our new technical director, needs people to help with set construction and scenery painting. No previous experience is necessary. Just give Shan a call or come by the theatre any day or early evening — grab a hammer or paint brush and help out. Working backstage can be lots of fun and many times as rewarding as appearing in a play.

TRYOUTS

Attendance at tryouts was overwhelming, with more than 50 people turning out. Among those attending were Frances Albright, Jack Bailes, Sue Brooks, Mary Louise Buckingham, Mona Brooks, Sherck Bogan, Holly Bayne, Bill Blythe, Ethel Boardman, Murray Burfford, Mary Lou Clay, Jeannie Claire Carrol, Feejee Carmack, Myrtle Carter, and Julius Cahn.

Others included Marilyn Denoux, Eula Davenport, V. P. Dalrymple, Lou Fleeman, Elaine Fontana, Bob Ford, John Filhiol, Marguerite Govang, Virginia and Tom Houghton, Sammy Hammett, Henry Haas, Joe Johnston, Joanne Lay, Janice Loveless, Don Lomax, Garland Moore, and Hugh Mathews.

Paul Hewitt Says . . .
The most popular piano in America today is the Spinet. It provides so much for so Little. And the most popular Spinet, we think, must be the WURLITZER. It is with us and we sell far more pianos than anyone else in the Ark-La-Miss area. Investigate for yourself and find out why. WURLITZER pianos $595 up. Rental $10 monthly up.

Education Board Sets $10 Building Use Fee

BATON ROUGE (AP) —The State Education Board voted Saturday to levy a $10 a semester building use fee on students in colleges and universities under its jurisdiction. The fee will begin with next fall's classes.

The board also approved a year-round tri-mester system to begin next fall at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. The pilot program was requested by the legislature. It will last three years.

And the board took another step toward turning Delgado Trade School in New Orleans into the state's first technical junior college, permitted under an act of the last legislature.

Delgado will continue to operate under a board named by the city of New Orleans but under Saturday's action the Education Board would serve as its agent in getting federal loans and financing and in determining accreditation standards.

The building use fee, estimated to bring in about $1 million a year, will help provide the state's share of matching funds for construction of academic buildings under the Federal Higher Education Facilities Act.

Board Member Nash Roberts, New Orleans, said $8.5 million in federal funds have been earmarked for Louisiana this year under the program and the amount is expected to grow to $12 million next year and $15 million the following year.

The presidents of college and universities under the board were directed to get in quickly their specifications for buildings under the federal act and the board chose architects to do the groundwork contingent upon federal approval of funds.

Funeral Rites Held For Youth

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Funeral services were held here Saturday for 17-year-old William Friedrichs of suburban Metairie, who was killed in a traffic accident in Texas along with 15-year-old Marilyn Steiner of Metairie.

Their car ran off a highway Friday near Houston, smashed through a guardrail and crashed.

Police Book Man

Karl told police he returned home Thursday night and found his wife's body on the floor.

The coroner ruled the death homicide and said the woman had been strangled.

Freshmen Score High At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Sixty-one students made the "A" classification on the freshman mathematics placement test given at Louisiana Tech at the opening of the fall semester, it was announced by Dr. W. B. Temple, head of the mathematics department.

These freshmen are permitted to register for calculus and analytic geometry. Upon completion of that course, they will be given credit in college algebra and trigonometry.

The 61 high scorers are:

RAYMON CORY
Joins RIVERS FORD

Raymon Cory has joined the sales team at Rivers Ford, it was announced today by Joe Kvaternik, sales manager. Raymon, who resides on the Arkansas Road, calls the Twin Cities "home". A native of Dry Prong, he lived here 3½ years while working with Southern Airways. He was chief agent in New Orleans for 4 years before recently returning to West Monroe. Raymon served 4 years in the Navy as a radar operator. He is married to the former Miss Rita Mann of West Monroe. Raymon invites all his friends to come see him, while he's making great deals on the '66 Ford, "now at Close-Out Prices". He says to hurry in while the selections are still good.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you like real thin, crisp toast of the melba type, try taking a piece of bread and ironing it between two pieces of foil until it's brown and thin. The ironed bread can be buttered or eaten plain, and it's delicious when cold.

Thomas Millaird.

wich bread and placed it between two pieces of thin foil, ironing it with a hot iron.

Heloise

RUB-A-DUB-SCRUB

DEAR HELOISE:
I discovered an easy way to clean my bathtub:

First, I run water on the sides and bottom of the tub, sprinkle on some cleanser, then scrub with the broom.

I turn on the water, rinse the tub thoroughly, and sweep the water down the drain.

My tub sparkles, my broom is clean, and, best of all, I have no backache.

Mother

TERRIFIC TERRY TOWELS

DEAR HELOISE:
My mother-in-law sent me some lovely pillows that are very practical, especially when there are small children around. Each pillow is made out of two fingertip towels.

Pick any color — solid, flowered, etc.—to go with your room. Sew them together on three sides, fill with shredded foam, sew up the fourth side, and then stitch yarn or fringe around the edges.

Mine have pink and red roses on white, with red yarn trimming. They are lovely.

Helen Fletcher

BOBBY PIN-UP

DEAR HELOISE:
Some people may have the problem of keeping up with bobby pins. I did until I came up with this idea:

I took the cardboard tube from a roll of paper towels, and cut it into smaller tubes. Using these, I simply clip the pins around the rims of the tubes, and when needed, just set one on my dresser, table, etc. Result—no more scattered pins.

Sheila Stafford
Age 12

FANCY DUST RUFFLES

DEAR HELOISE:
My king-sized bedding costs king-sized prices! A dust ruffle is not only expensive, but becomes limp and must be washed and ironed often.

A good solution to the problem is to use a regular size double-bed sheet for the middle and attach a dust ruffle made from a wide fiberglass drape bought on sale. It washes beautifully, needs no ironing, and looks lovely and expensive.

Lua Henning

BLUEPRINT FOR COMFORT

DEAR HELOISE:
My husband is a sales engineer who brings his big blueprints and books home to work on. Once he's all set up to work, he doesn't like to be asked to move, so the kitchen table was out.

We hit on the idea of using my adjustable ironing board in front of the couch. There he can spread out his blueprints, lay the books on the couch, and adjust the ironing board to just the right height—and it's great to type on, since it's lower than the table.

He can have his coffee handy on the end table . . . pretty comfortable, don't you think? This idea can also be used for school children.

Mrs. M. A. Vetter

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

HER OWN NEWSLETTER

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep a "news envelope" in which I place all "Heloise Hints", interesting news clippings, pictures, and a notebook in which I jot down things of interest.

When writing to a relative or friend, I include a hint, along with anything else that may be of interest to that particular person.

Mrs. J. G. Penner

FOR PUNGENT FRUIT

DEAR HELOISE:
When you cut any fruit, such as cantaloupe, papayas, etc., if you put it in a thin, plastic bag and twist the end, it will not only keep the fruit fresh and prevent it from drying out, but also keeps the odors from permeating the other food in your refrigerator.

S. Harrison

BABY'S FINGERNAILS

DEAR HELOISE:
Have you ever tried to cut a young baby's fingernails? They're too young to know what "hold still" means, and they would rather hold your finger than spread their hands for you. Finally, my mother had the solution:

Try cutting the fingernails when the baby is taking his nap. It's much easier and a lot safer. They are such sound sleepers, they never know what's going on.

S. J. S.

INDOOR HOPSCOTCH

DEAR HELOISE
I am an eleven-year-old girl, and I like to play hopscotch.

On rainy days I can't play it outside, and I can't mark with chalk on the floor, so I get some of my mother's string and shape it like a hopscotch game. It works fine on a rug, and is real easy to put away.

Kathy Stevens

COTTON KNIT SHIRTS

DEAR HELOISE:
I've found a way to make cotton knit shirts behave.

To make them take the shape of a new, unwashed shirt, simply spray lightly with spray starch and pull lengthwise as you iron with a steam iron. This gives both body and shape.

Mrs. Clyde H. Ball

DON'T BE DEFLATED!

DEAR HELOISE:
Have you ever wondered what to do with an air mattress that has developed several leaks and is no longer usable for its original purpose?

I cut it into throw-rug-size pieces and place them under small rugs to prevent the rugs from slipping. They're wonderful.

Estella G. Gelder

STICKY SITUATION

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep tubes of glue from becoming clogged and stuck after they have been opened . . . by threading a small screw into the dispenser opening.

The next time I wish to use the glue, I just twist and remove the screw, and the glue flows perfectly.
